In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Back of Mr. Speaker's baronial chair at the head of our House is a small, square trapdoor which opens into the press gallery. It has been proposed that one day we force this door, snatch parliament's watchdog through in his black robes and tricorn hat, and hold him hostage until we have assurance of better working quarters than the cramped and narrow barracoon in which newsmen ply their trade.

This tactic might backfire, though, since the press has no official existence in parliament, and Mr. Speaker holds awesome powers. Next to the premier who chooses him from the government ranks, he is the most important person in our House.

The other day I called on Mr. Speaker—since 1958 the Honorable Lorne Hugh Shantz, to learn about his tradition-encrusted role in the Legislative Assembly.

A Farmer by Love

Out from under the tricorn, Mr. Shantz is a pleasant-spoken man of 42, his hair scant but his face, even after the eight-week session, still weathered by the outdoors. North Okanagan is his riding and Vernon his town. There he is investment counsellor, real estate operator and notary public. On his farm he raises fine horses and purebred cattle, a hobby which one day may become a vocation.

A Speaker of our House, he administers a $450,000 budget and directs a staff of 65. Legislative Chamber, corridors, galleries and parliamentary dining room are all in his domain, and his functionaries include the sergeant-at-arms and corps of attendants.

But his prime task is what he terms his 'quasi-judicial' role as judge between right and wrong when the frequently-argumentive legislators take their seats in the chamber.

For Protection

This post, the member appointed accepts with stylized reluctance. Originally, he was a noble chosen by the king to speak for him to the hothead barons of the realm. Since the message was usually a demand for soldiers and money, speaker mortality ran high, even though the king's mouthpiece was given a sergeant-at-arms with a studded warclub—our shiny mace with its symbolic crown—to protect him.

"So when Mr. Bennett took me by one arm and the leader of the Opposition by the other," Mr. Shantz recalls, "I put up quite a convincing struggle. I held back, dug in my heels as they tugged me toward the speaker's chair, and announced repeatedly, 'I am unwilling!'

"Actually, I'd hoped for the appointment, and studied for it. As deputy speaker in 1953, I'd gained some experience."

Mr. Shantz added, smiling, "It's still a thankless job. one can't criticize the Speaker, but his ruling may be challenged, in which case I must immediately put it to a vote of the House."

To Be Named

Only Mr. Speaker may address a member by name on the legislative floor. To be 'named' means that the lawmaker in question has offended very seriously against parliamentary rules or decorum. Out he goes, under escort, expelled for a sitting or even a session.

From king's representative, the Speaker through the centuries became parliament's champion. The transition was completed when Charles I broke through barred doors of the House of Commons with armed men to inquire into the legislators' doings.

"Sir," Mr. Speaker is credited with replying, "I have neither eyes to see nor ears to hear what parliament has done this day."

A mighty man, Mr. Speaker. After all, look what happened to Charley!

'THE TURN IS TOWARD US'

Cuba Raiders Hit Soviet Freighter

Pearson Disputes John D.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson produced Tuesday a series of quotations from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent public statements on defence and branded them all as "misleading and inaccurate."

In a 900-word statement, Mr Pearson undertook to prove his point by matching the Diefenbaker quotations against "the facts from other sources" including statements by the three cabinet ministers who resigned, NORAD, the U.S. state department and others.

Party officials said later the Diefenbaker quotations were taken from tape recordings of his campaign speeches, but declined to say who made the recordings. The statement was issued to reporters en route by plane and bus to Belleville.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in a Halifax speech March 15 that "we have no commitments that we have not discharged."

QUOTES HARKNESS

Mr. Pearson's statement then quoted former defence minister Harkness as saying the government has accepted a commitment and if it is to be met, "the accepted armament" must be obtained for the CF-104. Former trade minister Hees was quoted as saying "our present defence policy does not either fulfil our commitments or provide for the security of our country."

A key point in Mr. Pearson's statement dealt with nuclear warheads for weapons in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in Winnipeg March 4: "Insofar as our bombers are concerned, we have negotiated and have been successful so that if war comes there will be available and accessible atomic warheads for the Voodoo in Canada."

Then followed the U.S. state department statement of Jan. 30 saying that the question of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and "for other nuclear-capable weapons systems acquired by Canada has been the subject of inconclusive discussions between the two governments."

State Secretary Rusk was quoted as saying March 11 that Canada-U.S. negotiations on nuclear weapons "are con-

VOLCANO TOLL LESS BUT BALI DEVASTATED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Governor of the volcano-scorched island of Bali, A. B. Sutedja, said today the death toll from the week-old eruption of Mount Agung is nearly 1,500 and climbing, but is nowhere near the 11,000 deaths reported Tuesday by a Red Cross official.

Sutedja told a press conference one-fifth of the "paradise island" has been destroyed by hot mud and lava, and 75,000 persons need immediate help.

The governor said 3,000 persons in the village of Amed in the southeast coast still could not be rescued because the area was surrounded by boiling lava, and aid could only reach them from the sea.

In Danger Of Sinking

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Russian freighter was attacked and damaged severely by anti-Castro forces Tuesday night in the Cuban sugar port of Isabela de Sagua, the Miami News said today.

A spokesman for Commando L, an anti-Castro action organization, told the News the freighter is still afloat, but badly in need of repair to keep it from sinking.

A raiding party carried out the attack, then returned safely and without casualties to its base "somewhere in the Caribbean," the spokesman said.

Russ Protest 'Pirate Affair'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union today protested to the United States embassy here against a "pirate attack" on a Soviet merchant ship in the Caribbean sea March 17.

A protest note sent to the United States embassy charged that Cuban "counter-revolutionaries" approached the merchant ship Lgov from the sea on a cutter and fired several bursts at the ship from a heavy calibre machine-gun.

The note said the Soviet government expects "resolute steps will be taken by the United States government not to allow similar provocative actions in future."

Without the support of the United States and the supply of American weapons and vessels the group of "traitors to the Cuban people, sheltering on United States territory, could not engage in such provocations."

The note said the United States was in fact leading the matter up to a dangerous exacerbation of the situation in the Caribbean Sea area and in the whole world.

WASHINGTON (AP) The state department denied today Russia's charge that the U.S. government is responsible for a recent attack on a Soviet freighter in a Cuban port.

Even before the Kremlin protest had been received officially here, state department press officer Lincoln White referred reports to earlier U.S. condemnations of the March 17 raid by anti-Castro Cuban exiles.

CROWD NEARLY TRIPLED FOR LEADER

'Surprises A gain' Thompson Predicts

National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson drew a crowd of 1,100 Tuesday night in Victoria where he attracted only 400 in a federal election meeting last May.

And in the same Central Junior High School auditorium where he made some accurate predictions last May 31, he predicted:

"You are going to be surprised again."

Last year he said his party would take 18 to 30 seats in Quebec. (The Socreds won 26 in Quebec, 30 across Canada.)

On Tuesday he said: "If the bumbling of the Liberal backroom 'boys' continues, we are going to take practically all the seats (in Quebec)."

"You are going to find that the tremendous, undetermined vote is going to turn day by day toward us.

"We have as good a chance of forming the next government after April 8, as any party has," he said.

Mr. Thompson said his party is going to form the government of Canada "a lot sooner than many think."

Two other predictions he made in Victoria last May were borne out after the June 8 election — he had forecast another general election within a year.

And he had forecast that in the 25th (last) Parliament, the Socreds would hold the balance of power.

Business First

On Tuesday he forecast that Canada, because of a loss of faith in Tory and Liberal governments, is looking for a new government which would put the business of the country ahead of political expediency.

He said in 1957 Canada fired the Liberal regime for "messing things up" and in 1963, when it fires the Conservatives, Canada won't strongly favor re-hiring the Liberals.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was more optimistic than Mr. Thompson. The premier said Social Credit was the only united party and on April 8, Mr. Thompson would become the next prime minister.

Other speakers, Victoria candidate Ald. M. H. Mooney and Esquimalt-Saanich candidate Edward Lum, meeting chairman and Young Socreds national president Dr. Charles Ennals, B.C. Works Minister W. N. Chant and Esquimalt Socred MLA Herbert Bruch, were each as optimistic.

Even Victoria soprano, Mrs. Myrna Jenkins, who sang three solos, appeared to inject rally enthusiasm in songs, Come To the Fair, You'll Never Walk Alone and Bless This House.

Problem Here

Mr. Thompson nodded agreement with Mr. Chant, who said Victoria has a problem in this election. The Tory party is split on the nuclear arms question and the Liberals "have two candidates running." The only

PM Denies 'Secret U.S. Document'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today repudiated as "completely false" a Southam News Service report that he is carrying a secret United States document that is the "root cause of much of his bitterness" toward the States.

The denial was published by the Winnipeg Tribune, a Southam newspaper, together with the report, written by Charles Lynch from Ottawa. The denial came from Kelowna, B.C., where Mr. Diefenbaker addressed a meeting Tuesday.

Lynch writes that the document, marked secret, is a White House working paper brought to Ottawa by President Kennedy's party in May, 1961.

It was prepared, Lynch writes, by presidential advisor Walt Rostow as a guide for the president in his talks with Mr. Diefenbaker and in his speech to the Canadian Parliament May 17, 1961.

The story says Mr. Diefenbaker has had the document for almost two years and the U.S. state department press release taking issue with his defence policy speech in the Commons earlier this year "caused him to retrieve the document and threaten to make it public."

ACCEPTED PRESSURES

However, it says, the prime minister "accepted the pressures brought upon him within the cabinet to keep the document secret."

On details of the document, Lynch writes:

"According to these reports, the document advised the president that Canada should 'be pushed' to accept nuclear weapons under joint control; to join the OAS (Organization of American States); to decrease her trade with Communist China and Cuba, and to ratify the Columbia River treaty.

"Possible pressures to be brought to bear in achieving these objectives were the threat of cuts in U.S. defence production sharing, and the possibilities of quotas or increased tariffs against Canadian gas and oil, lead and zinc, and timber products entering the U.S. market."

Dief Takes On Socreds In Bennett's Hometown

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

KELOWNA, B.C. — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday again hit back at U.S. suggestions that Canada was not doing enough in foreign aid.

"I am not here to take any lectures from anyone on what Canada has done on assistance," he told an election rally audience of about 1,000.

He admitted that Canada's contribution to Colombo Plan aid had been reduced last year from $50 million to $41 million, but declared that it was still "a great deal more than it was when we took office."

Another foreign aid field in which Canada had played a major part, he said, was in seeking to feed the world's hungry. Mr. Diefenbaker said he had proposed a world food bank which originally was not accepted.

"They said it wouldn't work," he said. "But we asked it in the United Nations."

'STARTER'

It was approved and Canada was making her contribution—"I think it is $10 million, as a starter."

In his 80-minute speech Mr. Diefenbaker was seeking to hold and gain Conservative votes in the Okanagan Valley—which elected two Conservative MPs in the last election.

He was campaigning Tuesday night in the home town of B.C. Social Credit Premier W. A. C. Bennett. While he didn't mention Mr. Bennett by name, he fired a few barbs in the premier's direction, and in the direction of the national Social Credit policy.

He accused the B.C. government of holding up Columbia River development—a project "we are most anxious to proceed with."

He also said his government was not being given enough credit for its 75 per cent contributions towards the cost of vocational schools.

"Some of the provincial premiers take the credit—and I have nobody in mind," he said with a smile which suggested he did have a certain premier in mind.

Another area in which Ottawa should get more credit, he suggested, was in its contributions towards the cost of Trans-Canada Highway construction, built in co-operation with the provinces.

"We completed the Trans-Canada," he said, "and I don't think we got very much credit for that."

In attacking Social Credit,

ROAD PROBE CONTINUES

House Rises This Afternoon

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Prorogation of the legislature was timed for mid-afternoon today, but not all its business is over.

Premier Bennett and Opposition leader Robert Strachan said they expected the session to end between 3 and 4 p.m.

But 13 MLAs will work on as members of a special board of inquiry into allegations of highway graft.

After giving royal assent to 70 bills, and officially closing the legislature, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was due to go to Vancouver with Premier Bennett to meet the Queen.

Her aircraft will stop for refuelling on the way from Australia to England.

The legislature sat this morning to wind up its affairs.

No luncheon adjournment was called and MLAs went out in teams to eat.

Those who remained in the House debated the estimates of Recreation and Transport Minister Earle Westwood.

There were also 24 resolutions to be handled, some of them controversial, including the call for a royal commission into gasoline prices by Omineca Socred Cyril Shelford.

45 DAYS

The session lasted 45 days, the same as in 1962, which was the longest in 42 years.

There were only eight night sittings, but the public accounts committee, now turned into a board of inquiry, sat seven nights on its investigation of the highway charges.

This was the major issue of the session—and the only explosive one in a relatively mild and peaceful eight weeks.

It charged that a contracting company was paid $135,000 for work never done, that the organist in Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi's church was paid $350 a month by the firm, and that Mr. Gaglardi prevailed upon one of the company officers to pay off a mortgage for a friend in return for future favors.

MEETS THURSDAY

The board of inquiry will carry on its sittings as long as it wants.

It meets again Thursday morning.

There are still a number of witnesses to be heard.

The only other issue to excite the House was higher education following publication of a special report by University of B.C. President Dr. John Macdonald.

It resulted in some harsh words, particularly from the Liberals, about government aid to universities.

But it also resulted in legislation establishing Victoria College as a university, setting up a completely new Simon Fraser University, and allowing establishment of two-year junior colleges anywhere in the province.

As for more money—the new universities act says that the premier and Education Minister Leslie Peterson can this year authorize extra expenditures if needed from general revenue.

RECORD BUDGET

Mr. Bennett presented a record budget of $372,705,575, and also legislation removing tolls from five bridges.

He boosted the homeowner grant from $50 to $70, also providing for further $15 increases next year and in 1965.

The 5 per cent amusement tax was also abolished.

Mr. Shelford's campaign against the big oil companies was a lively personal issue, and it precipitated a gas price war in Victoria which is still going on.

Plane Survivor Will Lose Toes

(See story Page 23)

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Two Americans, forgotten by the world after disappearing in Canada's northern wilderness, today faced the glare of world publicity.

Ralph Flores, 42, of San Bruno, Calif., and Helen Klaben, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., now look forward to seeing relatives they haven't seen in weeks.

Both fell under constant questioning from newspapermen Monday and Tuesday. So hectic were the sessions that a Tuesday night conference was cancelled to give them more time to themselves and a chance to rest.

Dr. Nesta James said both had rested well and had gone to sleep peacefully Tuesday night.

MUST AMPUTATE

The girl's toes on her right foot also were frostbitten and will be amputated in an operation here. No date has been set for the operation but Miss Klaben's brother flies to Whitehorse from New York today.

The heavy questioning by newspapermen placed both under heavy strain Tuesday.

Both she and Flores plan to write books about their experiences.

FLOOD-BOUND CITIZENS NOT WORRIED

Just Keep Beer Flowing

DARWIN, Australia (AP)—Hall's Creek is a cattle township 700 miles southwest of Darwin and monsoon rains have isolated it by road since early January. The weather people says it will be mid-April before anyone can get there by road, and there is no railroad.

But are the 500 people of Hall's Creek alarmed? No, this is rugged Australia.

The first telegram from the flood-bound town's only storekeeper to his Darwin supplier was sent Jan. 10, and read: "Please air freight as many as possible cartons of canned beer in place of usual perishables. Desperate. Town out of beer."

Food on the next plane was replaced by 100 dozen cans of beer.

Since then there have been telegrams each week or so, among them:

Jan. 21: Operation Beer highly successful. Desperate again. Can you repeat this week plus four bags potatoes, one bag onions?

Feb. 6: Please repeat beer, plus four bags potatoes, one bag onions.

Feb. 18: Town still thirsty. Require more beer this week.

Feb. 23: Require beer, milk, ice cream, chops, six bags potatoes, one bag onions.

March 7: Need ice cream, milk, potatoes, onions, and as much beer as you can load.

That March 7 telegram is the pattern on which the Hall's Creek grocer has settled.

This is th' part o' th' campaign when all th' leaders begin t' think they jist might hev a chance.

Disillusionment Found Among Manitoba Voters

This is one of a series of studies of the Canadian General Election. It is compiled by a Montreal-born social scientist and is sponsored jointly by The Montreal Star and the University of Rochester.

By S. PETER REGENSTREIF

WINNIPEG — Support is slowly slipping away from the Conservatives in Manitoba. The absence of leadership, economic questions and the unstable situation are the issues here.

What is of almost equal importance, however, is that the entire atmosphere of the province is one of considerable disillusionment with the state of Canadian national politics.

A St. James salesman in the constituency of Winnipeg South Centre expressed his unhappiness in this way:

"None of them are 'proper' leaders. Maybe between now and April 8 someone will say something sane. Not nuclear arms and not promising one hundred bucks for everyone at age 52 or some other nonsense. We are going to have another fouled-up government. No one has the guts to form a coalition. We've got politicians not statesmen."

Out of the province's 14

MEETS JFK THURSDAY

Policy Changes Urged by Wilson

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Harold Wilson flies to the United States Thursday for his first meeting with President Kennedy since Wilson was elected head of the Labor party last month.

The program he will outline includes at least three sharp departures from allied policy. They are:

Limited recognition of Communist East Germany and recognition of Poland's title to German territory occupied after the war.

Soviet and U.S. withdrawal from a neutralized central European zone of controlled armaments made up of West and East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. Nuclear weapons would be barred from the area.

Communist China's admission to the United Nations in place of Chiang Kai-shek's nationalists.

Some of Wilson's foreign-policy planks would swing Britain into closer alignment with the Kennedy administration. Others would take Britain toward a middle position in the cold war.

WOULD MAKE CHANGES

If the Labor party wins the next general election in 1964 and then presses its foreign policy program, it could begin a process of radically transforming inter-allied loyalties and East-West rivalries.

Here are some of Wilson's points of policy based on recent private and public statements:

1. Relations with the United States:

Wilson wants to cancel the 1962 Nassau agreement under which Kennedy promised to supply U.S. Polaris missiles for British nuclear-powered submarines. He favors transferring American bases on British soil, including the nuclear submarine depot at Holy Loch, Scotland, to NATO. He would like a more Liberal American trade and tariff policy.

2. North Atlantic Treaty Organization:

Wilson regards NATO as "central both in our defence and foreign policy" but insists on a reform of the alliance and its strategy. Britain to begin with should strengthen her contribution. Then NATO armies should lessen their reliance on nuclear weapons by building up conventional power, as Kennedy urges.

3. British defence policy:

"A labor government will not maintain the effort to keep an independent British (nuclear) deterrent in being," Wilson has said. "We would simply phase them (Britain's force of H-bombers) out of existence."

A Labor government would resist fiercely proposals for the development of a purely European nuclear force. Wilson is convinced this would dangerously weaken NATO by creating "an alliance within an alliance."

WANTS TEST BAN

4. East-West relations:

Wilson's starting point for a possible cold war truce lies in halting nuclear weapon testing and the arms race and strengthening of East-West co-operation in the United Nations.

5. Berlin and East Germany:

Wilson urges a bargain: The Allies should give limited recognition to the Communist East German regime and recognize the Oder-Neisse River line as the final eastern frontier of all Germany. In exchange, Russia and her allies should accept the right of West Berliners to choose their own form of government and society and the right of the West to communicate with the city and to station troops there as custodians of the deal.

6. Commonwealth:

Wilson intends reappraising Commonwealth relations to repair the damage which he says Britain's partners suffered during the Common Market talks. He plans a quick Commonwealth summit meeting at which old trading patterns can be streamlined and refurbished.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Some people were deeply concerned when they saw carpenters last week take down two attractive stained windows on the east side of the Provincial Museum and replace them with ordinary panes of glass.

But Denis Budd, superintendent of the public works department, explained the replacement is only temporary and there is no question of doing away with the stained windows.

He said they were taken down because the lead around the windows has deteriorated and has to be replaced, which means completely rebuilding and reassembling the windows.

"The department's policy is to preserve and maintain all the buildings' stained windows," he said. "We are aware of their value and beauty."

Commencing April 3, carrying a load of beer prior to consumption will be less of a chore, although the other connotation won't change.

With the introduction of the new "stubby" bottle by all B.C. breweries, a case of 12 bottles will weigh two pounds less than the present case of long-necks—although the brew content will remain the same, at 12 ounces per bottle.

Rex Ellsworth, the man whose horses took more prize money at the tracks last year than several of his competitors put together, is quoted in a national sports magazine recently as saying that the secret of his winning ways lies in the fact that he doesn't rely on his horses to show any intelligence.

It's just straight conditioned reflex with him, which may convince some of the local dog lovers that mayhap there is a grain of truth in the theory put forth by local dog trainer Michael Williams that dogs are not as overloaded with brain as is sometimes thought.

And while we're talking about dogs . . .

I notice that in the book Of Sheep and Men, the author notes that almost every year in Scotland a shepherd dies in the hills and the fact that the dog stays with the body is considered a sign of the beast's loyalty.

Nonsense, says the author.

The dog just doesn't know what to do once his master dies, and hasn't got the imagination to go anywhere else.

City Hall has been put on the mailing list of the Royal New Zealand Navy's cruiser HMNZS Royalist, which recently sent out a circular letter outlining its doings since visiting West Coast ports last summer.

The letter carried a written postscript from Capt. J. O'C. Ross, commander of the Royalist, to Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"My sailors remember Victoria and her people with outstanding affection."

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes last week took delivery of a new Rover three-litre automobile which will be used for both personal and official business.

The glossy, black vehicle is the same model as those driven as personal cars by Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and other members of the Royal Family.

The British-made car was delivered to Government House by Andrew Strang, Rover Motor Co. of North America Ltd. representative in Vancouver, and by Walter Newcombe, manager of Jameson Motors Ltd., local Rover dealer.

Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James of Metropolian United Church took his Junior Choir to a performance of Walt Disney's "Almost Angels" at the Capitol Theatre last week. The reason, of course, was that this musical novelty features the famous Vienna Boys' Choir, which gave a live performance in Victoria two years ago.

Dr. James was so delighted with the movie he suggested the Junior Choir cancel its regular Wednesday night practice and go to the Capitol instead.

Renewing old acquaintances in Victoria recently was Alec Thornton, 57, mayor of Kent, Wash., a former resident and miner of Fernie.

"I was so surprised to find so many people I knew back in the 1920s still hale and hearty and living in this city," he said.

Mr. Thornton left B.C. in 1928 and has been in politics south of the border for about 15 years. He has served eight years on Kent council and has been the community's mayor for the past seven years.

Dr. Linwood Smith of the department was given the cephalopod by sailors on the Antigonish who caught it during a cruise.

However, the baby octopus hasn't long to enjoy the pampering he is getting in a tank at the college.

Unfortunately for the animal, Dr. Smith is not as concerned for its well-being as he is interested in its circulatory system.

NEW FABRIC KILLS GERMS

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists said today they have developed a germ-killing fabric that can be used for everything from surgeon smocks to baby diapers. The Soviet news agency Tass said the fabric will destroy bacteria causing intestinal infections, pneumonia, fungi and certain skin diseases. It said the biologically active elements of the cloth will not wash out with soap and hot water.

SURROUNDED BY ADMIRERS, Social Credit National Leader Robert Thompson Tuesday surprised Victoria by drawing 1,100 persons to Central Junior High School where last year he drew only 400. He predicts Socreds will be elected in seven provinces, and a maximum of 50 in Quebec alone. In group behind him are local Socred candidates Millard Mooney and Edward Baum.

. . . THOMPSON

choice is Social Credit, he said.

This was a reference to Foster Isherwood's split with the Liberal party. He is running as an independent.

Fully 80 per cent of the audience joined in a standing ovation when Thompson was introduced. There was a minimum of heckling.

One heckler shouted "Heil Hitler" while Premier Bennett was talking. Another accused Mr. Bennett of bringing in anti-labor legislation.

Mr. Thompson said Social Credit success provincially in Alberta and B.C. are convincing people that Socred policies should be adopted nationally.

He noted the lengthy attack by Prime Minister Diefenbaker on the Liberals here Monday and the PM's laying of blame on the civil service commission for delaying civil service and armed forces pay boosts.

Grits Weakened

He claimed dissension in Liberal ranks is noticeably weakening that party in Quebec.

All of this is proof that the old line parties are spending too much time quarrelling between themselves.

"My old Dad told me, don't throw mud. When you throw it, you lose ground," Mr Thompson said.

People want integrity and a new moral standard in government, farmers want to sell their produce and businessmen want to stay in business.

"They are looking to us and saying, 'This is what I want'" Mr. Thompson said.

He scoffed at NDP Leader T. C. Douglas—"He's not coming here. He knows you realize Socialism is not a good thing for Canada.

"He's promised more than the two old-line parties put together," Mr. Thompson added.

He said when Mr. Douglas was asked how he would finance his plans, Mr. Douglas replied his government could get the money from the Bank of Canada.

Socred Policies

"He's promising Social Credit on top of everything else," stated Mr. Thompson.

He said all three parties opposing him have now adopted Socred policies of extending family allowances to cover all school children, regardless of age.

All parties have adopted variation of the Socred "social capital" plan, creating a reservoir for financing new industrial development, he claimed.

He reviewed events leading to the collapse of the last Parliament. He said a minority government can remain in office if it works to produce legislation, but he charged that the Conservatives didn't try.

"Canada became a nation under a minority government," he recalled. And he said the first Diefenbaker government was a minority, and Japan and West Germany fared well under minority governments.

He said voters have three questions to ask themselves—have the old line parties failed; does Canada want state socialism; what is Canada's future?

If the voter considers the fact that 1,000,000 young Canadians have left the country in search of opportunities elsewhere—700,000 last year 60 per cent of them professional people—more than the number who came here as immigrants, the voter would know the old line parties have failed.

"Can't we even provide opportunities for our own children?" he asked.

Too Many Controls

As for socialism, there are already too many state controls. The regulations for taxing private corporations but not taxing public corporations were already forcing public ownership on the nation, he said. The B.C. Electric takeover here was an example of a necessary evil, he suggested.

"The only way this country can go ahead is under private enterprise," he said.

Canada's future is debt-laden, he said. In the last five years there has been a $20 billion increase in personal, corporation and public debt. All the money in Canada right now wouldn't pay it, he said.

He blamed this debt for boosting the cost of living. The debt is unending because for essential public development Canada has to go to the U.S. to borrow.

But a Socred government would develop its own credit in the Bank of Canada, he said.

. . . DIEF

he said he didn't know "which is the head or tail, Thompson or Caouette."

The Socreds, he predicted, didn't have a chance in the April 8 election. They could elect "only a few members" in Quebec "if that," and some others elsewhere "and I don't know where else."

Mr. Diefenbaker fired his biggest shots at Social Credit on defence. They had a double policy, he said, one a nuclear policy printed in Edmonton "for the western Social Crediters," and another nuclear policy (against nuclear weapons) printed in the east "for the Caouettes."

RAPS NEWSMEN

The prime minister Tuesday was particularly critical of news reporting on the election.

"I know we have been misinterpreted," he said, "not only in the written word but also over radio and television.

"I knew Canadians would not join in the policy of calculated calumny against me. I have the answer. They don't do it now."

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC CLAIMS U.K. VICTIM

ZERMATT, Switzerland (UPI)—The typhoid fever epidemic that broke out in this Alpine resort claimed its first foreign victim today.

Frederick Smith, 25, died in a suburban London hospital a month after his return from Zermatt. He was the third fatality among the nearly 400 cases. Previously, two Zermatt women died. Two cases were reported in St. Moritz.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Public Health Service reported Tuesday that three confirmed cases of typhoid fever traceable to an outbreak in a Swiss ski resort have been found in the United States.

Anti-U.S. Campaign Tourist Trade Danger

Anti-American sentiments expressed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker can hurt Victoria's tourist trade, Victoria Liberal candidate David Groos suggested Tuesday.

"Victoria hotel, motel and restaurant owners do not agree with this badgering of the United States," Mr. Groos said.

Neither does the entire city shopowner group, both large and small, he added. He said 75 per cent of the 600,000 tourists on Vancouver Island in 1962 were from the U.S. and they spent $93 million.

Mr. Groos, who was addressing about 40 persons at War Amputations Hall, said the prime minister is establishing a Diefenbaker curtain on the 49th parallel.

Beating the United States over the head is simultaneously beating the Island's tourist industry over the head, he stated.

Mr. Groos devoted part of his speech to the need for standard teaching systems in schools in the various provinces.

He explained that though this is not a national Liberal policy, he personally, if elected, will press for federal intervention to bring about provincial co-operation in this field.

Mr. Groos noted that Canada has a large population constantly moving between provinces. Service personnel in particular find that the differing education systems often mean their children lose ground when a move is required.

He said he was not advocating that Ottawa take over the entire educational system, but that it should spearhead a new co-operation among the provinces.

Mr. Groos commented also on the problem of Canadian university students leaving Canada to seek opportunities abroad, especially in the United States.

He said a terrific loss was experienced when Canada cancelled the Avro Arrow manufacturing plans and a mass exodus of highly trained aircraft technicians and engineers departed.

New Fishing Treaty Asked by Fanthorpe

Scrap the proposed new U.S.-Japanese-Canadian fishing treaty, Victoria NDP candidate Harry Fanthorpe suggested Monday.

He says a new treaty should be drawn for Pacific fishing, with all Pacific nations sharing in the agreement.

He told 31 persons at Optimist Hall that the treaty now approved by the United States, but awaiting Canadian approval, will bring Japanese fishboats into the herring fishery off the Queen Charlottes and into the halibut fisheries of the Bering Sea. There is strong opposition by B.C. fishermen.

N.Y. Times Ups Price

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times increased its newsstand price for weekday papers to ten from five cents today. The Daily News and the Mirror, both tabloids, said their papers would stay at five cents. The Herald-Tribune said it would have no announcement immediately, but handbills distributed to its news dealers said it would boost its price to ten from five cents when it resumes publishing after the strike.

WITNESSES TELL VANCOUVER MURDER TRIAL

Accused Made Damaging Statement

VANCOUVER (CP)—"I think I killed this girl named Sandy."

Ole Christianson testified Tuesday that James William English, 24, made the statement to him on Dec. 27 as they waited to speak to Barbara Houston, a theatre employee.

Christianson and Miss Houston were called as witnesses Tuesday in English's trial on a capital murder charge. English is accused of slaying Sandra Ann McLaren, 19, following a Boxing Day party.

"Jim asked me what the penalty for murder in Canada was and I said hanging," Christianson said.

Later, as they were waiting to see Miss Houston, he said English told him:

"I think I killed this girl named Sandy."

Miss Houston followed Christianson into the witness box and said:

"I can't remember if he said he's killed a girl or thought he'd killed a girl.

"He said he was going to turn himself in to the police and asked me to tell his mother."

Miss Houston said she asked English what he did with the girl "and he said he threw her over Burrard Bridge."

You Never Had It So Good?

MR. DIEFENBAKER'S MESsage to Canada is clear and cheerful. "You never had it so good," he says. For many people, for the time being, that statement is quite true. But it simply is not true, as Mr. Diefenbaker pretends, that his government has solved a single one of the nation's basic problems. The latest reports from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics deny any such claim.

Take the problem of unemployment. More Canadians are at work now than at any previous time but since the population is growing rapidly high unemployment remains. At mid-February, says the Bureau of Statistics, 544,000 Canadians were looking for jobs and 8.4 per cent of the labor force could not find them.

Recent figures from other countries are not yet available but the rate of unemployment in Canada today must be among the highest, if not the highest, in the whole Western world. And during the next five years Canada must create a million extra jobs if it is to keep all its people at work. The government, in fact, has made no dent in the unemployment problem.

Take the closely-related problem of the nation's foreign trade. Mr. Diefenbaker says, almost every night, that Canada exported more goods last year than it imported. So it did. But he forgets the so-called invisible items, the huge payments of interest and dividends to foreigners, the expenditures of Canadian tourists abroad and such things as freight charges.

When all the figures are considered the Bureau of Statistics finds that in 1962 Canada incurred a trade deficit of $848 millions. This was a reduction of $134 millions from the figure of the previous year but it remains gigantic. It means that the nation is still living wildly beyond its means by borrowing the foreign money which finances the deficit.

All those borrowings—nearly a billion dollars annually—must be repaid some day. Meanwhile interest must be paid on them in American dollars. As our foreign debt increases our basic situation deteriorates.

Still worse, we are financing our trade deficit largely by the sale of our resources and our industries to foreigners. The government has made no dent in the problem of foreign ownership.

Certainly it has made no dent into the problem of the budget. Mr. Diefenbaker boasts that his government reduced expenditures by what is comically known as a program of "austerity." Yet the budgetary deficit this year will be in the neighborhood of $600 millions, according to Mr. Nowlan.

Since the government, meeting Parliament last September, had failed to introduce a new budget when it was defeated on February 5, no late figures are available but the Canadian Tax Foundation, a reliable, non-partisan institution, estimates the deficit in the next fiscal year at something like $800 millions unless taxes are raised or expenditures cut.

Mr. Diefenbaker says nothing about tax increases but his many promises during the present election campaign would greatly raise expenditures.

The voter who is asked to believe that he never had it so good should look beyond his immediate affairs. There is always a tomorrow. It will be a tragic tomorrow for Canada if the voters cannot establish a government capable of grappling with our unsolved problems instead of hiding them behind cliches, half-truths and loaded figures.

The Unstoppable Meets the Immovable

THE DE GAULLE MAGIC IS not working with the striking coal miners of France, and the dispute seem to be settling into long-term tactics. Disparity between pay in the nationalized mines and in private industries is at the core of the miners' protest. They have been joined by natural gas workers and supported by others in transportation. An ironworkers' walkout lasted a week, but it was triggered by dismissals.

In paralyzing France's coal industry the strike has cut deeply into the nation's life. Apart from the direct comfort of the public, the industries dependent on supplies of coal are affected.

But these are economic matters. What engages the attention of most observers are the political repercussions which can follow. Here is a direct challenge to President de Gaulle. The government's offers have been rejected. The miners say they will hold out until their demands are met.

Because the government is the employer, so widespread a strike can have almost the effect of a defeat in parliament. To give in to the strikers' demands must lead to similar demands from other workers. To continue to refuse them means that vast segments of the nation's industry must suffer.

Neither alternative can have much appeal for the government. President de Gaulle has made his word law in France. France now waits to hear the word.

Soft on Americanism

TEN MONTHS AGO THE Tories were saying, with their lips decently concealed behind their hands, that Mr. Lester Pearson was soft on Communism. Certainly. No question about it.

Now it turns out they were wrong. Mr. Pearson and his Liberals aren't soft on Communism after all. They're soft on Americanism. This is not just the implication of Mr. Diefenbaker and his followers. This comes from that core of inner truth, the Communist Party of Canada.

"The Liberal Party is the pro-American party," declares the Communist Party, in the bold, blackfaced type of its advertisement. "Defeat it!"

The Communist Party, for the purposes of this election, apparently wishes it understood that it stands only for an independent Canada. Any slight similarity between the Communist Party's ideology and that made in Moscow must be taken—again for purposes of this election—as purely coincidental, nothing more.

Anyone who wishes to please the Communist Party of Canada, says the advertisement, will vote NDP where there is no Communist Party of Canada candidate.

Mr. Tommy Douglas does not deserve this "kiss of death" from the Communist Party of Canada.

At all events, the Communist Party of Canada has laid down its prescription for Canada's welfare. And anyone who doubts the dedication of the Communist Party of Canada to Canada certainly won't please Mr. Khrushchev or even Mr. Mao Tse-tung.

See John Run

ONE OF THE MOST USEFUL television programs of the current federal election campaign has been "The Men and The Issues," in which the CBC has brought together a moderator and four hard-hitting journalists, to quiz the leaders of the four national parties on their policies.

The leaders, that is, with one exception — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. Mr. Douglas, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Pearson faced the tough, critical questioning of the four news executives. When Mr. Diefenbaker's turn came up, Tuesday night, viewers found a subordinate party member on the firing line.

Since the Prime Minister—unlike other party leaders—had also refused to submit to questioning on the nationally-televised Pierre Berton hour, it is obvious that he is unwilling to face a searching and objective review of his record.

Why? Because that record is clearly indefensible.

Ready for the Call

MR. DONALD SMITH, MLA, urges that backbenchers be given more say in the affairs of the nation, both in parliament and the provincial legislatures. He wants to change the system so that they could play a larger part.

Well, changing the system might give backbenchers a better chance to speak. But another improvement—at least in some cases—would be to get backbenchers who have something to say.

IT SOUNDS WONDERFUL

By B. A. TOBIN

Past and Future: in Six Delicious Flavors

IF Canada's problems could be solved from a speaker's platform merely by talking, then John Diefenbaker would be the answer to all our troubles. He talked for over an hour Monday night at the Armory and never once mentioned anything unpleasant except Liberals. To hear him — to ride along with that resonant, lulling voice — you would think that Canada had nothing behind it but solid foundation-laying (by Mr. Diefenbaker) and nothing ahead of it but untrammelled progress and prosperity (if managed by Mr. Diefenbaker).

Tobin

Unfortunately it will take more than words to get this country back on course. It will also take hard judgment, tough decisions, capacity, recognition of world trends. Mr. Diefenbaker has words.

The record of the past six years and the confusion our country is in today seem to indicate that the man who was head of the government during that time hasn't done much of a job. But Monday night he didn't really have to solve the country's problems—he only had to persuade his audience he could. And he is admirably equipped for that rhetorical chore.

Top Flight

It is several years since I heard Mr. Diefenbaker speak. What a long way he has come since then; what a mastery he has gained! He used to address an audience on only one level—the top. With his opening paragraph he hit a high note of tense, rapid-fire rhetoric and held it, unvarying, to the end.

But that was tyro stuff, even though he was no tyro then. Today Mr. Diefenbaker rings the changes. He thunders denunciations, but shifts easily to the simple, intimate conversational tone. He has added humor—the boyish grin, the chummy chuckle, the impish smile. He has added change of pace, variety of tone, maturity of manner. But above all, his repertoire now includes humility. It must have taken his public relations advisers months to persuade him but he's gone for it now and it's obviously the strongest political gimmick he has.

The audience hears the stentorian call, the booming pulpit tones, the vigorous argument, the keen sarcasm, the earnest plea, the indignant denial, the man-to-man confession. And then it comes: the voice drops to a quiet murmur, the leonine head tilts slightly, the hands extend sideways in an oddly appealing little gesture—and there you have John Diefenbaker the man, simple, trusting, naked and defenceless before all the world, asking only the sympathy and support of all you nice people against the nasty enemies who attack him.

Swept Away

It's terrific. And it gets them. They forget about politics, about national problems, about nagging doubts. All they want to do is comfort and help that lonely, badgered, wonderful man. Which, of course, is the point of it all.

"I'm in favor of the Commonwealth," he confesses, oh so softly.

"I make mistakes," he admits, oh so humbly.

"I'm willing to take advice," he says, oh so advisedly.

"There is a great burden of responsibility in public office," he confides, oh so pitiably.

Well, that was about it. That was the pitch. Of course, there was other material to round out the hour. There was great fun with the Liberals, who "change their policies every few days." Mr. Diefenbaker now makes a virtue of never changing his mind—although half his cabinet changed theirs to catch up with the times and his formerly helpful Conservative newspapers changed theirs to catch up with reality.

There was sober discussion of the nation's affairs. Our taxes are lower than in other countries—although he somehow forgot to mention our astronomically soaring debt and that annoying annual deficit of $600 millions or more. Our exports exceeded our imports—but he omitted to say anything about the nearly billion-a-year we fall short in our international payments. There has been great expansion in oil and mineral development—it probably was just an accident that he didn't explain that this was through American investment (those nasty, interfering people) and means that we are really selling off our resources to pay our debts. WE, the government, pay such-and-such for your pensions; WE, the government, pay 75 per cent for your technical schools; WE, the government, pay—and you wondered how many of the audience, nodding gratefully, would remember it was THEIR money, not the government's. Our friends and allies admire our economic progress—there was no mention that the best of them are barely on speaking terms with us. So it went. There were quotations from the Liberal Vancouver Sun—but none from his own Conservative papers which have renounced him spectacularly on their front pages.

Everything Comfy

Oh, yes, it was smooth and happy and comfortable, serving up this oratory on the half tell. The elderly audience (stand at the back of a hall if you want to see the preponderance of grey and bald heads) seemed to swallow the feast without much choking. They rose to applaud this fine man who had made it all seem so simple and effortless and sure. They wouldn't even have to follow John, bless him, they could just sit back and send him on ahead.

As the great hall emptied, the organist stirred the pulses with Land of Hope and Glory; then lulled them again with Goodnight Sweetheart.

Good NIGHT!

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Those Big Majorities

As one listens to the various political effluvia that float over the air, the press or the platform, the general conception of the speakers seems to be that Canada must have a substantial majority party to really be able to go ahead with good government, which makes me wonder if we ever benefit from experience.

For instance, the R. B. Bennett Conservative government in 1930 went in with a bang, but went out with a bigger bang in 1935, and then for a couple of decades the Conservative Party crawled into a hole and was clean forgotten.

The Liberals took control and their long spell at Ottawa seemed to develop arrogance with some, like one member, C. D. Howe, who, being chided for spending too much, retorted: "If we want to spend a million dollars, who is going to stop us." As things were not too promising the voters seemed to appreciate handing over the reins which gave the Conservatives another chance, followed in 1958 with record support for them. To what avail, however, and the public, in many respects was very disappointed. So large majorities for one political group do not exactly fill the bill.

Today, under more modern conditions, with social services progressively more in demand, any government should naturally and equitably strive to give the best consideration to every class of citizen, which requires that the government co-operate and work together for the common good.

As I see the picture, after over 60 years' experience in Western Canada, labor, that is, good labor, is one of our greatest assets, for there is nothing to beat an industrious people for prosperity in any country. Such labor is indispensable, "BUT" not the type dished up by such unions as the Seamen's International Union or the Teamsters' Union under such leaders as Beck or Jimmy Hoffa. No country can attain its potentialities with such a cancerous growth eating away its very vitals.

Destroying Ourselves

The recent book, "Silent Spring" by Rachel Carson, which should be read by everyone, is an indictment of our modern way of life—or death—with the wholesale poisoning of ourselves, our livestock, and all nature, by the ever-increasing use of poisonous sprays, disinfectants, preservatives, insecticides, etc. Something should be done about such conditions as are described in this book, before we destroy ourselves completely.

Is This Justice?

An incident reported in your paper March 22 which took place on the Island Highway between Garfield Hemeon and Supt. MacDonald requires clarification.

If this news item has been correctly stated then it would appear that a grave miscarriage of justice has taken place.

If you will refer to the British Columbia Guide to Safe Driving page 21, "Never speed up when another driver signals he wishes to pass you." Also page 33, question 131. The superintendent has admitted speeding up to prevent the accused from passing. This is an offence, very poor judgment on the officer's part and could have resulted in a very serious accident, solely because the officer took it upon himself to break the very regulation that he is supposed to uphold.

Scandalous

May I heartily compliment your editorial writer in bringing to the attention of the public the scandalous and utterly immoral appointment of the recent Conservative member for Victoria to the Tariff Board in Ottawa.

This appointment is a further example, if anymore is required, of the ineptitude of the government in Ottawa and is a political handout repugnant to decent-thinking people.

PARIS:

An Aim But No Plan

By JOSEPH ALSOP

TALK to four dozen leading Frenchmen, all of them in high responsible positions in what might be called the French political community. You will then get 47 different opinions about the current plans and parties, although not about the ultimate aim of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. Such has been this reporter's experience, at any rate. The two among the 48 who agreed with one another were both anti-Gaullist. They offered the diagnosis that de Gaulle's judgments of Europe, and of the United States and of the Soviet Union, have been abnormally warped by pride, suspicion, and success.

Alsop

When each of these two lonely persons speaking with a common voice was informed that his diagnosis had support from the other man, both of them were downright furious.

But Gen. de Gaulle confides his plans and purposes to no one at all, conspicuously including the chief members of his own cabinet.

It can then be seen that "Elyseeology," as an attempt to read the mind of the chief tenant of the Elysee Palace is beginning to be called, is an even less exact science than Kremlinology. Nonetheless, this reporter is now convinced that he has earlier committed a grave error, which had better be corrected now.

From the angle of vision of Washington, it appeared that Gen. de Gaulle's quasi-coup d'etat in Europe really must have behind it a plan of rabid, further action. What de Gaulle did was clearly directed to establishing a kind of Gaullist hegemony of the nations of the European Common Market.

Yet it was equally clearly impossible for Gen. de Gaulle to be first in Europe, so long as, under NATO, the U.S. was still first in the defence of Europe. Hence it seemed necessary to assume that Gen. de Gaulle had a plan for liquidating the American military presence in Europe at a fairly early date.

Central Fact

Here was the error. Despite the marked differences in diagnosis offered by leading Frenchmen, there is one central fact that can be synthesized, so to say, from the mass of conflicting testimony. The fact seems to be that Gen. de Gaulle has an aim, but he does not have a plan.

In the case of the Algerian war, for example, de Gaulle's aim from the start was certainly to heal this cancer on the French body politic. At first he tried prosecuting the war vastly more efficiently, while offering the rebels a "peace of the brave" on conditions attaching Algeria closely to France.

When this did not work, he evidently concluded it was necessary to do what he had said many scores of times that he would never do. He concluded it was necessary to hand Algeria over to the F.L.N. rebels. And that was the final outcome.

In the present instance, Gen. de Gaulle's aim is once again quite clear. It is a "European Europe," standing on its own feet, in no way depending on the United States but linked on terms of complete equality with the United States in a transformed Western alliance.

As in the former case, the aim is not unintelligible. It is both sensible and fully in accord with the long swing of history. And at this point, one recalled the remark of one of de Gaulle's former closest collaborators that the general is "with regard to the past infallible; in the future prophetic; but in the present often detestable."

De Gaulle is "detestable" in the present precisely because he does not pursue his long-term aims by any coherent scheme of action which can be argued about or even successfully opposed. He will certainly stop anything happening which he thinks may block the subsequent attainment of an aim, just as he stopped the British from entering Europe "as an American Trojan horse," as he put it.

Posture Maintained

Yet in circumstances like the present circumstances in Europe, saying "no" when he is able to do so is de Gaulle's major form of action. Beyond this he maintains a posture—in the present instance the posture of the leading advocate and potential leader of a European Europe uncontaminated by American influence.

He also indulges in the strange pin-pricks of precedents and table placements, which seem so wildly odd to Englishmen and Americans, but help him, in his opinion, to maintain his chosen posture. And in addition, while waiting for history to justify him, he merely takes advantage of tactical opportunities which may come his way by accident or by the fall of his adversaries.

Hence what we have to worry about is not what seems so worrisome in Washington. There is no immediate prospect of a Gaullist attempt to destroy NATO, or to force American withdrawal from Europe. What we have to worry about, rather, is how to avoid faults of our own which will play too far into Gen. de Gaulle's hands.

For although de Gaulle's aim of an equal Europe is entirely sound, the trouble is that he wishes to achieve this aim against the extra-European members of the Western alliance, and quite largely at their expense. Hence the method can prove to be profoundly dangerous, even though the aim deserves our sympathy.

FRAGMENTS OF KNOWLEDGE

I believe that we know very little; that the scientific-cum-technological view of life is an extremely restricted one, and that a great deal goes on in this world and around this world that we don't understand.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Got Any Canadien Tensions?

DR. Hans Selye, who was born in Vienna and some time later brought his very considerable talents to Canada, makes an interesting point when he discusses the tension that reportedly exists between English-speaking and French-speaking people in this country.

Stott

Bilingualism won't cure it, says the doctor, for the simple reason that "knowledge of a second language does not ensure friendship for those who speak it as their native tongue."

In other words, just because you know what the guy's saying, it doesn't necessarily make you love him. In fact you might like him better if you couldn't follow his remarks.

True enough. But you have a better chance of understanding him if you are familiar with his language. It can help you to avoid the subjects which give him apoplexy. If he seems a nut on the separate school question, skip that subject and talk hockey. Chances are he's a fan for the Canadiens. If you live some distance from Toronto, it's entirely likely that you can think and voice happy thoughts about the Flying Frenchmen.

It ought to be easier for you to get along together if you reach that degree of understanding and sympathy.

Perhaps I'm too much of a far, far westerner to recognize this dangerous tension that they say is building up between the English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians. In my well-stocked personal portfolio of tensions, that one isn't even indexed. I'm not mad at any French-speaking Canadians. The few I know and the ones I've met, I like.

Maybe I was conditioned to it. The only interesting part of Canadian history as it was taught to us centred on the early French days, the discoveries of Jacques Cartier, the stories of Frontenac, Champlain, Verendrye, the coureur du bois, the first of the plainsmen. And I just happened to like the volume of William Henry Drummond my folks bought for me when I was a kid—about the best investment in biculturism anyone ever made for me.

When I was a brash young man, still under 21, I met a French-Canadian boy diving in Toronto. A couple of years later he came west and stayed a while with me. He is the only person I have met who could travel from his home in Montreal to Victoria on an expired CNR pass, make it to Los Angeles on ten bucks he borrowed from me—and paid back with bank interest 20 years later—and return home on a large grin and an easy flow of talk.

On three occasions in Montreal he repaid my hospitality a hundredfold—and found me a bed and meals when I arrived there temporarily broke in my footloose youth. Then, and more recently, I have found a warmth in that family that greatly enhances my opinion of French-speaking Canadians.

I think of an afternoon in Ottawa when, rubber-necking, I had climbed through the upper floor of the Confederation building to the roof and there met another French-Canadian, past middle-age. He pointed out the sights to me—the Gatineau country running into the north, the points of interest lying before us in the capital. And he told me, with some pride, of his great journey as a young man to the far plains of Saskatchewan. It seemed part of his responsibility, during those few minutes, to make me feel I was with a friend.

I remember a visit to Victoria by Jean Lesage, when he was minister of northern affairs and resources and before he led Quebec back to Liberalism provincially. Art Laing, his unofficial host, kidded his guest about being a newcomer to Canada, a small family joke because the Lesage branch could trace its antecedents in Canada back only a little more than 200 years. Madame Lesage's went back a generation earlier. The then federal minister created an immediate impression of friendliness, knowledge of his job and radiated a sparkle I had never before seen in public men.

I recall the pleasant attitude of monsieur and madame who ran the small, inexpensive hotel in the Rue St. Genevieve in Quebec City where Pat and I spent a couple of nights in 1960. They were interested in making us comfortable. And they sent us, for dinner, to a little place called La Vieille France where we enjoyed better French cuisine than we found in Paris.

Of course a lot of these people don't see eye to eye with me on religion, politics and probably a number of other subjects. Neither do many of my English-speaking friends. But until I meet a sour one, I'll continue to like French-speaking Canadians on the basis of the people I've met—good people. And I'll ask Marcel, who is bilingual, about these tensions they talk about the next time we meet on the bus.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Thirty Years a Band Leader

LONDON — Lord Hailsham's comment about the worthwhile contribution made by the squares of this world is certainly borne out by the case of band-leader Billy Cotton.

Reyburn

They don't come any more square than Billy. There's no detectable difference between the way his band plays now and the way it played when it first opened at London's Ciro's Club in 1930.

Yet — Billy Cotton has just been named the Show Business personality of 1962 by the Variety Club of Great Britain, beating out all the new young entertainment stars who try so hard to prove that they're "with it."

Reminds me of how in the old days Guy Lombardo was always winning "most popular band" awards when teen-agers couldn't stand the sound of him. And he may still be heading the popularity polls for all I know.

The thing about Billy Cotton's crowd is good straight stuff, very professionally done, plus—and this is the big plus—humor.

Even our daughter, Robin, who is of that age that regards anyone who came to fame more than five years ago as someone to be avoided, can't resist watching the Billy Cotton Band Show on TV.

The 63-year-old, 240-pound Cotton is funny in his own especial Cockney way and he infuses the whole proceedings with a casual lightheartedness that makes one forgive him for being a square.

A Londoner by birth and in every other sense of the word, Cotton, in his slimmer days, had been Royal Flying Corps pilot, professional footballer and racing motorist and although more than 30 years a band-leader this coveted Variety Club accolade is his first major entertainment award.

But there was one thing that did bring him international fame in the past. He was the man who popularized There'll Always Be an England during the war.

Which reminds me of one of the things that happened to that song in Canada. Some of you will no doubt remember how the bands on the pleasure boats up at one of the northern Ontario lakes used to belt out There'll Always Be an England as loud as they could when passing a German prisoner-of-war camp on the lakeshore.

And the German POWs, though they didn't know the name of it, thought it was rather a catchy tune and used to go around humming it. The guards, of course, enjoyed the joke too much to enlighten them.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Short of Space in Greenhouse?

Just about this time of year any greenhouse begins to burst its seams. Extra shelves make their appearance and flats and seedlings are accommodated temporarily under the benches.

Hilda

No greenhouse is ever large enough to hold the number of plants raised from seed in early spring by an enthusiastic gardener.

To solve the housing problem, he builds temporary cold-frames to shelter the flats of little plants for another month or so, when the hardiest kinds may be set out in the garden.

The first ones to move out from the ideal environment of the greenhouse will be those which can be expected to continue growth under cool conditions.

Pansies, violas, snapdragons and carnations are among the chosen ones. They were sown back in January; and now are nice little plants, well rooted in their flats and will indeed do better in the cooler, more airy coldframes than in the closer atmosphere of the greenhouse.

The glass covers should be off during sunny, warm days; on, but raised on bricks on mild days of heavy rain; and closed entirely on nights when frost may be expected.

After about 10 to 14 days of this treatment, these flats may be stood outside in a spot somewhat sheltered from strong wind, and their place in the frame can be taken by the next batch of young plants.

Petunias like to do their early growing in a rather cool environment so they will not object to being transferred to the frame. It will be surprising how they fill out during the next four weeks.

This shifting of the flats of plants will create the space in the greenhouse for those which require protection from night coolness almost up to the time they are ready for planting out at the end of May. Zinnias come into this group, and the scarlet sage, or salvia, so don't try hardening-off these in cool temperatures until about the last week of May.

TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE

Individual Must Meet Medical Care Priority

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta said Tuesday state assistance in providing medical care should be given only to those who realize it is an "essential service" that takes priority over "mundane services" and are still unable to pay.

He said persons who give priority to "having a TV or a second car" and can't pay for medical bills as a result shouldn't expect state help in meeting their health costs.

"What is the difference if the state pays for a man's TV and extra car and lets the man pay the doctors' bills," he said, "if such priorities are ignored."

Mr. Manning's remarks to the seventh Scientific Assembly of the College of General Practice of Canada were greeted with applause by the 400 doctors present.

The premier outlined the "six basic premises" on which Alberta's medical care insurance plan is based. The plan now is before the provincial legislature.

These premises include the belief that modern medical care should be available to all "regardless of social or financial status," he said.

Medical services are best put within the reach of all people without impairing the doctor-patient relationship or socializing the practice of medicine.

STATE CONTROL FALLACY

"It is a fallacy to hold that the only way these benefits can be made available is by . . . bringing all these under the domination and control of the state."

Mr. Manning said medical health services must remain "primarily the responsibility of each individual and each family." But society collectively was responsible to assist those unable to help themselves provide this service.

To draw an arbitrary line between full state and no state assistance is "discriminatory" and detrimental to the individual's need to meet his responsibilities, said Mr. Manning in his luncheon address.

Caouette States Terms

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, deputy Social Credit leader said Tuesday "deputy prime minister" is the only post he would accept in a Social Credit cabinet.

In a statement issued in Rouyn, where he is campaigning for the April 8 federal election, Mr. Caouette said no member of such a cabinet would be named "before we of Quebec have our word to say."

He was commenting on an earlier statement by Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, who said in Winnipeg he has a skeleton cabinet in mind if his party should emerge from the election with the most seats in the House of Commons.

Mr. Thompson declined to name any potential ministers, however, or to say what portfolio would go to Mr. Caouette.

Mr. Caouette said Tuesday there will be no Social Credit cabinet "without a Thompson-Caouette consultation."

How to Shrink Your Swollen, Painful Piles

Relieve Itching, Soreness and Pain without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink or reduce swollen, painful piles without the inconvenience of ointments, pile pipes or suppositories.

The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid Tablet, with water, two or three times a day. By effective INTERNAL action this mild but gently persistent medicine eases constipation, helps break up and smoothly pass off hardened intestinal waste, relieves itching, soreness and pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. Hem-Roid is so easy to use, so pleasant and satisfying in giving immediate results hundreds have written their thanks for making this fine medicine available to them.

Why suffer needlessly when Hem-Roid offers you so much? Get a package today. See for yourself how nice, clean and easy it is to use, how pleasantly and effectively it works, how much more comfort is waiting for you. Costs only a few pennies a day if you like it. NO COST otherwise as your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not 100% pleased. Ask at any drug store for Hem-Roid Internal Pile Treatment.

THIRD LOOK TAKEN BY CITY

Street Light Work Out to Tender?

City works committee Tuesday approved increases in street lightning maintenance costs but decided to investigate the feasibility of making a third tender call to private electrical contractors for the work.

Committee also recommended that $3,000 be earmarked this year for an experiment in providing a man—by hiring or contract — to sweep up the main downtown intersections daily.

Lighting engineer Kenneth Reid was bombarded with questions, particularly from Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Mayor R. B. Wilson, on sharp increases in maintenance votes.

He contended that crews which were being used in the past few years on the underground wiring program must now be switched back to maintenance work which had been "neglected" in the interval.

Despite his opposition against contracting out any of the lighting services on the grounds that the city must retain direct control of the work to protect itself from delays, committee ordered Mr. Reid to make out a report on what portions of the work could be put to tender.

Mr. Reid pointed out two previous tender calls had proven the city saved money doing its own work. He added that the per capita cost of $2.64 for Victoria's street lighting program was the lowest in the Pacific Northwest.

Ald. A. W. Toone supported Mr. Reid and told committee "the chickens are coming home to roost" because all of the increases were predicted before city council when it decided to retain the cluster light system.

CUT BACK

A proposed $57,575 program of installing new mercury lights on four main streets was cut back to $7,875 to provide 45 units for Burnside Road between Douglas and Harriet.

A $5,000 program of converting the first 100 incandescent street lamps to mercury in residential areas was approved when Mr. Reid said the new lamps would triple illumination and life while consuming less power.

Mayor Wilson raised the suggestion that some action be taken to keep downtown streets cleaner. He asked if the fire department could hose down the streets at night but city engineer J. C. Garnett said this would only plug the storm drains with debris.

STUDENT SWEEPER

Ald. Edgelow suggested employing a high school student to sweep up the streets after school.

"Something has got to be done because it really is getting bad to the point where our downtown is a dirty area," he said.

Mr. Garnett said the job involves about 100 blocks and is too much for a boy to handle. He said a man could be used to sweep up the main intersections daily during the worst months.

Mayor Wilson moved that $3,000 be earmarked for a trial, suggesting the work be contracted out rather than adding to civic staff.

RED CROSS DRIVE PAST 50 PER CENT

Local Red Cross fund drive has passed the halfway mark, honorary auditor S. Dudley Markham announced Tuesday.

At the latest count, $43,680.67 had been collected—about 55 per cent of the $79,000 objective for Greater Victoria.

Mr. Markham also said the Red Cross Corps and some other divisions had exceeded last year's total.

However, he said a "saturation canvass" would be needed to make the organization's centennial campaign a success.

Mayor, Chant To Discuss Courthouse

Mayor R. B. Wilson will meet Works Minister W. N. Chant soon to discuss disposition of the old Courthouse building in Bastion Square.

The meeting will take place "at his request", Mayor Wilson told a joint luncheon of the tourist and retail groups of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday.

CITY MUST LEAD

"We would much sooner see commercial enterprise go in and carry the load," said Mayor Wilson, "but it looks as if the city has to take the lead."

He added that the city does not plan to tear down its recently-acquired Duncan Storage building which, with the Courthouse, it hopes will provide a rehabilitation of Bastion Square and the surrounding area.

"NO CHANCE"

"We bought the Duncan building to preserve it. There is no chance of it being torn down, I assure you," he said.

Mayor Wilson told the meeting that only Douglas and Government Streets are being considered for one-way traffic at the present time.

Contract Let On Kamloops Hospital Job

Highways Minister Gaglardi announced Tuesday that the government has approved the awarding of a $3,816,239 contract for an eight-storey addition and a six-storey nurses' residence and training school at Royal Inland Hospital at Kamloops.

The successful tenderer was Beford Construction Company Ltd. of West Vancouver.

Mr. Gaglardi, member of the legislature for Kamloops, said total cost of construction is estimated at $4,121,000. The government would provide $2,060,500 of the cost.

Japan Poaching Halibut?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind) charged in a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday that Japanese vessels are poaching halibut in the eastern Bering Sea.

The union's telegram to Mr. Diefenbaker said that Japanese vessels cut their gear and ran when sighted poaching by Canadian fishing vessels.

The halibut fishing season began last Sunday at midnight.

The existing North Pacific Fisheries Treaty, to which Canada, the U.S. and Japan are signators, prohibits the Japanese from fishing for halibut in the eastern Bering.

But the North Pacific Fisheries Commission has made a recommendation that the Japanese be permitted to take halibut there and herring off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands. The recommendation has been objected to by the fishermen's union.

Japan and the United States have already agreed to the commission's recommendation but Canada is still studying its implications.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ted Silber, 15, of Philadelphia, Pa., for his question:

How does the amoeba get his food?

This small miracle is one of the protozoa animals. He manages to carry on all the processes of life with a single cell; and even if he is a giant among amoebas, the miniature creature is barely big enough for our eyes to see. He looks like a shapeless white blob, and the amazing processes which go in his little body must be seen under a microscope.

The amoeba and his assorted relatives teem in our creeks and fresh water streams. The microscope shows him to be a clear and shapeless blob of jelly sprinkled throughout with granules and miniature droplets. The blob of jelly is protoplasm, and the entire surface is sheathed in the finest of delicate cell membranes.

In real life, the shapeless amoeba is forever on the move, seeking for food. A finger of jelly called a pseudopod streams out from the shapeless blob, and part of the soft cell follows along behind it. Two or more pseudopods poke out in different directions, and the amoeba changes its shape. As this happens, the tiny blob of jelly moves along.

The pseudopods, meaning phony feet, have other duties besides moving the amoeba from place to place. The little amoeba has no sense of smell or taste, but he can tell which scraps of debris are good to eat. When a pseudopod touches a tiny alga plant or a microscopic water animal, other pseudopods move in for the kill. The tiny victim is soon engulfed with pseudopods coming from above and below and from all sides.

Now the miniature morsel is wrapped inside the body of the amoeba. As a rule, a drop of water is also engulfed with the food and together they form a small pocket called a food vacuole. This food vacuole is actually a temporary stomach, and digestion begins at once.

Eats Tiny Water Dwellers

The nourishment from the food passes out into the jellified body of the amoeba, where it is used to carry on the processes of life. The scraps of indigestible food are left in the vacuole which gradually works its way to the surface of the amoeba. There it seeps through the surface membrane, and the waste material is left behind.

The amoeba feeds on all types of microscopic water dwellers, both animal and vegeable. Much of its meat is smaller protozoa; and compared with the entire body of the amoeba, some of these midgets are no bigger than a hand. It also engulfs and digests bacteria, single-celled aglae and other miniature scraps of animal and vegetable material found afloat in the water.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Laraine McMahon, age 11, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for her question:

Can we prove what is really down inside the earth?

No, we cannot say for certain what fills up the centre of our round globe. We can only make some educated guesses on the basis of the very scanty evidence we have. We can estimate the weight of the surface crust and the weight of the planet as a whole. But the entire earth is much heavier than it would be if it were made altogether from rocks like those on the surface.

The deeper layers, then, are denser and heavier. Earthquake vibrations give us another clue about the earth's interior. Vibrations travel at different rates through materials of different densities. And the records indicate that the layers get heavier the deeper we go and that the earth's core may—just may—be made of the heavy metals, nickel and iron.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

PARIS-TO-NEW YORK — It's a crazy, crazy world we're revolving in this second.

The B.W. and I rushed out to Orly Field ahead of time to catch our El Al plane because an "electric strike" was starting in Paris at 2 p.m. The Paris traffic lights would quit functioning—and there would be a traffic jam in a city that has a perpetual traffic jam.

Arriving at the El Al counter, we were told there was some "minor" crew strike—and we would now be switched to TWA, leaving an hour later.

A bouncy TWA stewardess led us to the "Ambassadors' Lounge." Suddenly the escalators stopped running. The lights went out. The hostess in the lounge lit candles and we strike-sufferers sat in the half-darkness while the hostess groped to serve us a drink. The "electric strike" was on.

I got two candles in front of me and read a French paper. One headline said "GREVES (STRIKES)." You have to have a scorecard to tell the strikes in France. Miners, letter-carriers, subways and buses, telephones, railroaders. "The strikes day by day . . ."

As we sat there in the candle-lit lounge, there was a Frenchman who spoke up:

"It's terrible, that newspaper strike you have in New York. It's a wonder your President doesn't intervene."

I held my hot American tongue, though I wanted to snap:

"You seem to be having a soupcon of labor trouble in France, too! Why doesn't De Gaulle do something?"

Laurence Harvey, who figures in that nude scene with Kim Novak in "Of Human Bondage," also has something to do with another nude scene—that of 20-year-old Sarah Miles in "The Ceremony."

Her English family's livid; her boy friend wants to punch Harvey (producer and director) in the snout. Harvey asked her six times to do the undressing scene. The seventh time she said yes.

"The undressing wasn't necessary," says Robert Walker, 22-year-old son of Jennifer Jones and the late Bob Walker, her leading man—who was surprised that his wife showed up on N-Day (for Nudity).

"Sarah," he added, "seemed pretty bohey."

Willie Fox, her boy friend, snorted: "Disgusting! I'm furious!"

MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y.: Red Buttons finally made it official at the Playboy—introduced Alicia Pagan as his fiancee . . . Comic Dick Gregory became a father again . . . Sid Luft, before flying off with Judy Garland, said at Asti's he'd sold an aviation invention to the gov't.

Carol Burnett's description of herself in "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed?": "I look like a cross between Thelma Ritter and Phil Silvers" . . . Pat Boone's plunking loot into an airline . . . Ann-Margaret's scheduled to tour Europe for "Bye Bye Birdie" . . . Lionel Hampton's off to Japan this week to excite those Nipponese cats.

RCN Crew Sweeps Golden Gavel Speech Contest

Three officers in training at HMCS Naden swept the finals of the Golden Gavel speech contest sponsored by Toastmasters clubs of Victoria Monday evening.

The golden gavel was awarded to CPO Boyd Webb for his talk entitled "The Color of Blood," a discussion of integration problems.

Second was CPO Jerry Brooker speaking on "Lonely Years" and third place went to CPO Reg Parish who talked about "Girls."

St. John Ambulance Annual Inspection

Victoria Branch, St. John Ambulance, will hold its annual inspection tonight, starting at 6:30, at headquarters, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Inspecting officer will be J. G. Archer, provincial commissioner, Order of St. John, accompanied by Mrs. Pearl Johnson, provincial superintendent of nursing, and G. G. Edwardson, provincial superintendent, all of Vancouver.

Inspections are to be followed by demonstrations in first aid and home nursing techniques.

Student Centre Opens Saturday

By LESLIE MILLIN
Times College Reporter

Victoria College's student union building on the new Gordon Head campus will be officially opened Saturday at 2 p.m., the culmination of nine months of construction and three years of planning.

Doug Stewart, former student president of Victoria College and outgoing student president of the University of British Columbia, will snip the tape at a ceremony to be attended by student and university officials and dignitaries.

J. B. Clearihue, chairman of the college council and chancellor-elect of the new University of Victoria, will attend, with Education Minister Leslie Peterson, architect John DiCastri, and others.

LAST $355,000

Built at a cost of $355,000—that includes landscaping and furnishings — the building is being financed largely by student fees that have been doubled under the provincial government's matching grants agreement.

It is designed to service a student population of 5,000—as compared with the present enrolment of slightly under 2,000.

Furnishings for the building cost $25,000, and were designed by Earl Morrison of Vancouver, who designed Shaughnessy Golf Club.

COFFEE TERRACE

A full basement doubles the building area to a total of 21,200 square feet, including an outdoors coffee terrace at the end of one wing of the V-shaped edifice.

Recommended expenditure for art for the building is over $5,000, as the union building is designed to be one of the beauty spots of the new campus.

Construction has been overseen at every step by the architectural consultants, to ensure that the building would conform exactly to what the architect originally envisaged.

BIG LOUNGE

General office space, a board room, some small individual offices, students' council and athletic council offices and club rooms occupy one wing of the ground floor, with a large lounge including a dance floor in the other wing.

From the lounge, a ramp leads out over a sunken coffee terrace onto the lawns.

Downstairs are more club rooms, a games room, offices for the student newspaper The Martlet and other publications, and a complex of studios for the radio club.

One wing of the downstairs area is occupied by a coffee lounge, equipped with vending machines for light refreshments.

All extra-curricular activities are to be housed in the new building, including out-of-class discussions, art displays, and academic forums.

MAJOR SHIFT

As one of its most important functions, the new building will help to shift the focal point of the university from its present Lansdowne campus to the new campus at Gordon Head.

All student activities are now housed in one tiny room on the Lansdowne campus, where most Victoria College students spend almost all their time.

Works Estimates Hiked In Oak Bay

Oak Bay works committee Monday recommended adoption of a $697,890 estimate for the 1963 program, up $56,828 from last year.

The committee added $39,640 for the departmental estimates after making some cuts.

Most of the increase involves a proposal by Coun. Allan Cox to set aside $30,000 for a new works yard on Elgin Road.

Committee also added $8,700 to provide extensions of Cavendish and Bowker Road sewer outfalls.

Doctors End Strike

ATHENS (AP)—Eight thousand Greek doctors employed by public agencies ended a nation-wide five-day strike Tuesday night without winning any of their demands. They asked for higher salaries, better insurance benefits and improved working conditions.

Policy on Pollution To Be Studied By B.C.

Municipal Affairs Minister Black said in the legislature Tuesday that a study is being made of pollution and he hoped that it would result in some form of policy being formed by next year.

Mr. Black explained, during discussion of his department's $1,854,559 estimates, that his department has tried to get to the point where it could make an intelligent study of the water and air pollution problem.

He outlined the history of the Water Pollution Board, saying it was formed several years ago to deal with water pollution on the lower mainland.

Since that time it has been extended to the Kootenays and the southern end of Vancouver Island and there have been requests to extend it to take in air pollution.

Mr. Black said the problem had become one of great magnitude and had many complexities.

Free Mail Privileges Used During Election

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Election campaign speeches made by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton have been sent out through the mails free of charge using Mr. Hamilton's franking privilege as a minister of the Crown.

Roy Faibish, executive assistant to Mr. Hamilton, said Monday that Mr. Hamilton's speeches are always sent out under his frank.

"We do this whether or not there is an election campaign underway because he may be announcing policy in the speeches," he explained.

Asked if the minister did not follow the policy of not utilizing his frank to mail out political speeches Mr. Faibish said, "Not unless it stops announcing policy in speeches. He makes various political and non-political speeches, and we always follow the practice of franking them."

The franking privilege was originally introduced for use by members of the cabinet in sending out mail that applied to government business. It is used by members of Parliament when Parliament is in session also for correspondence between the MPs and their constituents on governmental and constiuency questions.

There is no written regulation that prevents a minister or MP from using his frank for mailing out campaign literature. But it has been for years an unwritten understanding that the franking privilege is not to be used for this purpose.

Brians Unite for United

Habs Lacking the Pep That Hull Gave Hawks

'Ailing' Winger Fires Chicago With Two Goals

CHICAGO (CP)—There have been all sorts of heroics performed by individuals in the 60-year history of the Stanley Cup. Bobby Hull has added another.

The muscular young Chicago Black Hawk leftwinger spiced it up with a two-goal performance Tuesday night as the Hawks defeated Detroit Red Wings 5-4 in the opener of the best-of-seven cup semi-final. He accomplished it with a bum right shoulder, diagnosed as a "slight separation."

"I can't do the club any good playing with one arm," Hull told reporters a few hours before the faceoff. He said he would watch the game from the stands.

But the blond bomber, a mainstay of the Hawks the last couple of seasons, later decided to give it the old college try.

"He gave us a terrific boost" chortled coach Rudy Pilous. "We had a meeting of minds this afternoon after Bobby worked out and we decided he could give it a try."

GAVE THEM LEAD

His goals gave them a 2-1 first-period lead and they never looked back. They increased it to 5-2 after the second period and then held on with the Wings catching fire early in the third.

"It hurts more now than before the game," Hull said in the dressing room. "I was lucky I could shoot at all and both of my goals in the first period were wrist shots."

The Hawks, who frittered away the National Hockey League lead by winning only two of their final 12 regular-scheduled games and finished second behind Toronto Maple Leafs, deserved the win. But there were times when it appeared neither team wanted the game, played before 15,491 fans.

The defensive corps were loose and the Hawks, who usually try to soften up the opposition with stiff bodychecking early in the game, played it cozy. Despite this, referee Vern Buffey called 14 penalties, only five against Chicago, with winger Murray Balfour getting three for roughing, high sticking and holding.

The game was "kind of loose," summed up Pilous.

MAY BE DIFFERENT

"I think this will still be a close, hard series," was the comment of Detroit coach Sid Abel. "And it could be a different series when we get Chicago on our own ice."

The second game will be played here Thursday night with the third and fourth games at Detroit Sunday and Tuesday.

Hull, who opened the scoring at 9:08 of the first period, got his second while defenceman Pete Goegan was sitting out a holding penalty. Howie Young, fiery Detroit defenceman - forward who was chased off on four occasions, was watching from the penalty box in the second period when Ab McDonald scored for the Hawks.

Other Chicago scorers were Eric Nesterenko and Red Hay. Detroit marksmen were Marcel Pronovost, Vic Stasiuk, Alex Delvecchio and Gord Howe.

Glenn Hall, Chicago's goalkeeper who won the Vezina Trophy this season for the first time, made 29 saves against 31 by Detroit's Terry Sawchuk.

'Lack of Drive' Hurts Canadiens In Opening Bout

Unless they improved, the Montreal coach said Monday, they could lose their Stanley Cup semi-final to Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games. The Habs promptly dropped the opener 3-1 Tuesday night and looked as if they could keep on doing the same all through the best-of-seven series.

The Leafs, who finished in first place by a whisker in the regular schedule, played well. But, had the Canadiens provided the formidable opposition they did in days gone by it might have been a different story.

Jacques Plante, the veteran Canadiens goaltender continually beset by physical ailments who only Tuesday complained to Blake of an attack of asthma, played the role he so often does in time of need—a sensational one.

PREVENT RUNAWAY

Plante, Billy Hicke and veterans Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion provided the mettle that kept Leafs from making the game a runaway before 13,800 fans, the smallest crowd of the season here.

Second game of the series is here Thursday night. The action then swings to Montreal for games Saturday and Tuesday.

All the scoring was in the first two periods, with the Leafs getting their goals before Jean Beliveau scored the lone Montreal goal. And the Leafs were short two men for the second time in the game when he beat Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower.

Bob Pulford, Dick Duff and George Armstrong were the Toronto marksmen.

Plante, who made 31 saves to Bower's 19, had no chance on the last two Leaf goals, but he might have stopped the first, by Pulford at 3:30 of the first period, if his defence had been willing to hit.

TREMBLAY IS 'GOAT'

Bower, who got an assist on the goal, cleared the puck to defenceman Allan Stanley and Stanley passed to Pulford. Montreal defenceman J. C. Tremblay stayed in front of Pulford while the Leaf skated across the goalmouth, but he made no apparent effort to squeeze Pulford out of scoring position.

Pulford's shot hit Tremblay's stick and it trickled by the off-balance Plante, who had braced for a hard shot.

As Plante put it: "Those kind usually end up in the seats but this one just slowed down. I was going one way and it was going the other."

Duff scored at 1:42 of the second period after taking a pass-out from Dave Keon in the corner. Montreal centre Henri Richard fanned on a try at intercepting the pass and linemates Dickie Moore and Claude Provost all helped to block Plante's view.

Armstrong made it 3-0 at 5:35, swatting a bouncing puck past Plante from close in. Geoffrion was off for high-sticking Pulford at the time.

Pulford and Ed Litzenberger were in the penalty box when Beliveau beat Bower at 8:46, scooping the rebound of a blueline shot by rookie defenceman Jacques Laperriere into the net.

GRABS KELLY'S SIZZLER

Plante made particularly good saves on such Leafs as Red Kelly, Keon and Pulford. One save, a beautiful catch of a screened sizzler by Kelly in the second period brought a roar from the crowd.

The Leafs had lost their last seven post-season encounters with Montreal. Before Tuesday night, their most recent playoff victory over Montreal was in the third game of the 1959 final.

Blake ascribed the Canadiens' troubles Tuesday night to a lack of drive.

"There weren't enough guys giving," he said. "We have to have everybody up at the same time and that sure didn't happen tonight."

HOMER BEATS YANKS

Al Kaline's Bat Booms in Spring

(By the Associated Press)

Al Kaline, enjoying his best spring training season, hit a homer in the sixth inning Tuesday to give Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over New York Yankees at Fort Lauderdale.

It was the fifth homer of the exhibition season for the veteran outfielder who apparently has fully recovered from the broken collarbone he suffered in a game against the Yankees last season.

Don Mossi backed up Kaline's homer with some fine pitching. The Yanks got their lone run in the seventh on singles by Roger Maris, Hector Lopez and Phil Linz. It broke a string of 16 scoreless innings for Mossi.

Kansas City replaced Baltimore at the top of the American League exhibition standings by defeating Washington, 7-6, at Daytona Beach. It was the Athletics' fourth straight victory and gave them an 11-4 record.

Rookie Dick Green doubled home the winning run as the Athletics pulled the game out with a four-run uprising in the ninth. Green had three hits, including a triple and two doubles.

BOWSFIELD WINS

Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C., started for Kansas City and gave up all of the Senators' runs on nine hits. He pitched through the seventh to get credit for the win. He was replaced by Dale Willis.

Four-run rallies in the ninth brought Los Angeles Angels a 4-2 victory over San Francisco at Phoenix and Houston Colts a 6-4 triumph over Chicago Cubs at Mesa.

Henry Cooper Keeps Titles

LONDON (AP) — Henry Cooper retained his British and Empire heavyweight boxing titles with a fifth-round knockout of challenger Dick Richardson of Wales before a crowd of 11,000 at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

Cooper sent Richadson staggering to the canvas after two minutes, 49 seconds of the fifth with one left hook to the jaw followed immediately by another.

Handicap of 11 Cutoff Point In Times Open

The starters have been handed their post positions and this much, at least, must be said about the Times Open golf field:

"Count everybody."

Only golfers with handicaps of 11 or better got under the cutoff figure of 160 when the draw for the Vancouver Island Open golf championships was made Tuesday night.

The low-handicap group supplies most of the clear-cut favorites, but it is not unreasonable to suggest that each of the 160 has a chance to pick up The Daily Times trophy.

Remember, for example, Roy Jago? The Gorge Vale amateur was flirting with a 13 handicap in 1959 when he qualified for one of the 32 berths. Jago defeated Mike Kolb in the first round of match play and came within a whisker of passing his second-round test.

UPSET MISSED

Jago's second-round opponent was Frank Scroggs, out of the low-handicap bracket and one who later that summer went on to claim the City Amateur title.

The unheralded Jago was one up playing the 18th at Gorge Vale. The upset was all but completed when Jago put his second shot on the 18th green while Scroggs missed with his approach. However, Scroggs sank a sensational chip shot for a birdie three while Jago two-putted for a par. That squared the match and Scrogg went on to triumph on the 21st hole.

At any rate, Jago proved that some of the higher handicap players do have their innings.

To claim the Times Trophy, however, they have to be consistently at the peak of their game for six straight weeks. They must pass the qualifying test and five match-play rounds that take them to each of Victoria's four major courses — Oak Bay, Colwood, Gorge Vale and Uplands.

The first test—the qualifying—comes up Sunday at Victoria Golf Club. Only 64 golfers (32 in the open and 32 in a handicap division for the Hugh Francis Trophy) qualify for the start of match play the following weekend.

A total of 209 entries were received by tournament secretary Leo Derman. Preference was given Tuesday to the low handicapped players. The last spots went to 15 of 19 players with handicaps of 11. Four were eliminated through a draw.

Golfers who did not have their entries accepted can pick up their entry fees from their club secretaries.

TIMES OPEN GOLF DRAW

Draw for the qualifying round in the Times Vancouver Island Open golf championships, to be played Sunday at Victoria Golf Club:

8 a.m.—E. Oakley (U) 11, W. Merluk (U) 11, J. Hill (CH) 11, A. W. Turner (GV) 11.

DUKE PULLED OFF WAIVERS

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Los Angeles Dodgers withdrew outfielder Duke Snider from the waiver list Tuesday after he was claimed by both New York teams, the Mets and the Yankees.

"Snider has been on the waiver list before," said Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi, "and we had five other players on the list with him this time."

Snider, 36, was one of the Dodgers great heroes in their pre-Los Angeles Brooklyn days. He batted .336 and 341 in 1953 and 1954 and has played in six World Series, five with Brooklyn.

Six More Withdrawn From Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Six horses were withdrawn today from the Grand National, leaving 47 in the big race to be run at Aintree next Saturday.

At the three-day acceptors stage, Loch Sloy, Lancebay, Slight Hitch, Skish and Hiawatha II were pulled out. Later Groomsman also was scratched. All were outsiders at long odds of 100 to 1 or more.

Of the horses in the second acceptors' list last week Duplicator, Rattling Run and Fredith's Son had been scratched.

Still favored for the National, one of the world's toughest races, involving 30 fearsome fences and a circuit of approximately 4½ miles, is Springbok, quoted at 10 to 1.

OHIO CONSIDERS BILL . . . . . TO BAN PRO BOXING

Fatality Prompts Four to Quit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

L. C. Morgan, once a high-ranking lightweight contender, and three other boxers have quit the ring as a result of the death Monday of Davey Moore.

In another aftermath of the death of the dethroned featherweight champion from brain injuries in his title fight with Cuban Sugar Ramos, three state representatives sponsored a bill Tuesday to outlaw professional boxing in Ohio, Moore's home state.

"Due to the unfortunate death of one of Ohio's outstanding athletes, we feel that professional boxing should come to a halt," they said in a joint statement.

The Ohio legislature has seen fit to outlaw dog fights, bear fights and cockfights. The least they could do is the same for humans."

More than 10,000 persons filed by the casket of Moore Tuesday as the body of the 29-year-old fighter lay in state for 10 hours at a Los Angeles funeral home.

Funeral services will be held in Springfield, Ohio, Saturday.

Morgan, 29, of Youngstown, Ohio, was a long-time friend of the late fighter. He had been scheduled to meet middleweight Bobby Pena of Mexico at Phoenix tonight.

Phoenix promoter Paavo Ketonen said: "Morgan told me he had a wife and three kids and just couldn't take chances like that."

Morgan's 60 victories included 35 by knockouts.

The other three fighters who hung up their gloves were heavyweight Willie Davis of Philadelphia, middleweight Aaron Peralta of Santa Ana, Calif., and Chuck Tolliver of Los Angeles.

They were supposed to fight Monday night but they all dropped out of promoter Joe Louis' boxing show. They said they were quitting because of Moore's death.

But the show went on—and with almost tragic results.

Wilhelm von Homberg knocked out Pete Gonzales in the third round of a 10-rounder. Both are from Los Angeles.

Because of Moore's disastrous crash into the ropes at Dodger Stadium, a thick foam rubber covering was applied to the strands. It saved Gonzales from possible serious injury.

Floored four times in the first two rounds, Gonzales went down and in the third round and the back of his head struck the lower rope. He was not hurt.

Thailand Boxer Dies From Stomach Kick

Ekachit later complained of severe stomach pains resulting from the knockout kick, and was taken to a hospital where he died.

In Thai-style boxing, kicking, kneeing and elbowing are permitted.

Baker Snubs Argos, Signs Ram Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Terry Baker, Oregon State's all-round athletic star, has agreed to play professional football with Los Angeles Rams.

The All American quarterback, United States college player of the year in 1962, signed a three-year contract with the National Football League club Tuesday night.

Terms were not disclosed, but Baker is believed to have been guaranteed $25,000 a year plus a bonus for signing. The first draft choice of the Rams, he was also picked by Oakland Raiders of the American League and was reported to have been offered $100,000 by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

NHL SCORING

Seven Reach 30 Goals

MONTREAL (CP)—National Hockey League goalkeepers didn't let in any more pucks than usual this season, but competition among the forwards for scoring honors was a little keener.

Seven players netted 30 goals or more in the 70-game schedule that wound up Sunday, compared with five last season and five the year before. There were two dozen 20-goal men, compared with 23 last year and 20 in 1960-61.

Official NHL statistics released today show the total number of goals scored this season—1,249—was lower than either of the two previous years.

Close behind in the scramble for goal-getting honors were little Camille Henry of New York with 37; Frank Mahovlich, Toronto, 36; Andy Bathgate, New York, 35; Parker MacDonald, Detroit, 33; Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull, Chicago, 31.

Runner-up in the scoring race was Bathgate, who earned $1,250 for his 71-point finish, five behind Howe.

Chicago goalie Glenn Hall bagged his first Vezina Trophy—winning $2,000 in bonus money—by a two-goal margin over Johnny Bower of Toronto and by five over Montreal's Jacques Plante.

Solons Lose Hinton

JUDY HUMBER
. . . a big test

CANADIAN TOURNEY

Difficult Test Picked by Judy

Judy Humber picked the test, and nobody will dispute the fact that she has selected a difficult one.

The 18-year-old Victoria College student is one of 15 local players who moved to Vancouver today for the start of the Canadian badminton championships.

For the pert Miss Humber, defending the national junior women's singles title, her entry is a significant thing. This will be Judy's first tournament since she suffered a torn Achilles tendon last fall and underwent an operation. She was not expected to be back in action this season.

WINDSOR THREAT

Two weeks of practising have convinced Miss Humber that her foot "may stand up" to the strain of serious competition. Misses Daysmith and Bev Chittick of Windsor provide other worries.

Miss Daysmith was runner-up to Judy in last year's final while Miss Chittick is also regarded as a strong contender for the title.

The Daysmith-Humber tandem was finalist in the junior women's doubles and Miss Godfrey will defend the mixed doubles with Vancouver's burly Ed Paterson.

B.C.'s strong junior squad is again favored—for a third straight year—to win the Ontario team trophy.

ACTION GALORE

The championships have a total entry of 194 and it will take two days to slug through the 430 first-round matches in open and consolation events.

The event has attracted four of the world's leading men's players—Erland Kops of Denmark, Chanarong Rattana Saeng Suan of Thailand, Scotland's Bob McCoig and Sangob Rattanusorn, also of Thailand.

CHIP SHOOTING

On any short chip shot, there is no body action and a minimum of arm action. It's almost entirely a wrist shot.

In the illustration, the right wrist has already begun to cock, even though the backswing is very short. The length of the backswing depends upon how far you want the ball to travel.

Make sure, in chipping, the ball always lands on the green. If it hits on the short grass before the green, it will slow down and its accuracy will be affected. Know in advance just where you want the ball to hit the green so you have a definite target in mind. Don't go about it haphazardly.

Paddlers Close Season Friday With Open Meet

Victoria paddlers will bring the table tennis season to a close Friday night with an open tournament at the club's headquarters at 1318 Broad Street.

The meet gets under way at 7 p.m. and non-club members are invited to enter.

It is planned to have men's, women's, junior, senior and possibly juvenile events, singles and doubles.

ESQUIMALT'S BONSPIEL ATTRACTS LIMIT ENTRY

A record 64 rinks will start in Esquimalt's second annual spring bonspiel next Monday.

The limit was reached Tuesday and Sports Centre manager Joe Iannarelli said additional entries are being accepted only on a standby basis in the event of withdrawals.

The bonspiel, which features "evenings only" competition, will wind up curling at the Sports Centre for the season. Last year, the event attracted 48 foursomes.

CLGU FOURSOMES

Menzies, Ewing Lead Qualifiers

Mrs. H. Menzies and Mrs. D. Ewing finished with a net 70 at Uplands Tuesday to win medal honors in the annual Canadian Ladies' Golf Union two-ball foursome competition.

Opening match play at Royal Colwood Thursday, the medalists will face Mrs. H. Thorburn and Mrs. A. Wescott.

Here is Thursday draw:

Canucks Roll Over Flyers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks played a wide-open game in their beloved Forum Tuesday, knocked over Edmonton Flyers 7-2 and boxed up the Western Hockey League's Northern Division standings again.

The result left Canucks tied in first place with Seattle Totems—and Edmonton in a like position down the ladder with Calgary.

Five games remain in the waning schedule. Canucks have three to play, Seattle two. They meet each other on the season's final night.

A crowd of 2,536 was out Tuesday to see Canucks pile up goals until they led 7-0 in the final.

Buddy Boone scored twice for the winners. Dave Duke, Ron Matthews, Phil Maloney, Jim Baird and Bob Kabel had one each. Chuck Holmes and Doug Messier answered for Flyers.

Centre Maloney also picked up four assists to move him into second place in the league's scoring race. He now has 88 points, eight behind leader Guyle Fielder of Seattle.

FIGHT RESULTS

LONDON—Henry Cooper, 188, England, knocked out Dick Richardson, 207, Wales, 5; Billy Walker, 193, England, knocked out Joe DiGrazio, 198, Philadelphia, 3.

NEW YORK — Frank Narvaez, 136, Puerto Rico, outpointed Tommy Griffin, 133, Philadelphia, 8.

SAN JOSE, Calif.—Luis Molina, 139, San Jose, outpointed Bobby Scanlon, 138, San Francisco, 10.

Welfare Charges Called Nonsense

Charges of social welfare deficiencies made in the legislature Tuesday by New Democrat David Barrett were branded "nonsense" by Welfare Minister Wesley Black.

The member for Dewdney prefaced his criticisms with the remark that "it almost seems useless debate" to talk about what this government had done or had not done in the department.

He said it certainly had not spent money on staff—a perennial plea by Mr. Barrett.

The member compared a spending of 29 per cent of the total budget on social welfare in 1952 with the 20 per cent spent today.

FEWER ON STAFF

Mr. Barrett said there is a staff of 234 today, a drop of nine social workers since 1954, when each case worker had 5,400 people to look after. Today he has 7,400, the member said.

He charged a higher turnover of staff than in any other government department.

He hit inadequacy of in-service training of six or eight weeks for a social worker who is then sent out to deal with "massive social problems."

He advocated subsidies, perhaps on a loan basis, to prevent the breakup of families unable to support themselves and fated to foster home care for the children.

If the government can afford to subsidize industries like coal mining, it could do as much for human resources, Mr. Barrett said.

'WORST NONSENSE'

Mr. Black retorted that the remarks were "some of the worst nonsense I've ever heard in this House."

"I thought when the member came to this House, because of his background (in social welfare), he would have something to contribute," the minister said.

"When I listened . . . this afternoon to some of the half-truths, it made me a little sick to the stomach," Mr. Black said.

When Mr. Barrett made a point that a mother with four children gets only $168 a month welfare, this was only half the story—she also is covered for medical expenses, drugs and family allowance, the minister said.

'LEADS CANADA'

"This province leads all of Canada in the care of children . . . I think we're on the right track."

And finally, the minister said, "don't tell me about scholarships and bursaries. We gave one to the University of B.C. and they didn't even bother picking it up," he said.

(The $1,000 scholarship is available to a social work student who agrees to join the provincial staff for two years after graduation.)

RALPH KROEGER
"He didn't . . .

IVA KROEGER

Gas Chamber Decreed For Madcap Couple

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Execution in the gas chamber was voted by a jury today for Iva and Ralph Kroeger, convicted of strangling a couple and burying the bodies in their basement.

If the verdict is carried out, the tongue-wagging, 44-year-old grandmother and her close-mouthed, 61-year-old husband will be the first husband and wife to die in San Quentin's execution chamber.

They were convicted of murder after 11 weeks of trial.

To get control of a Santa Rosa motel, the state charged, they strangled Mrs. Mildred Arneson, 58, in December 1961 and her arthritic, estranged husband, Jay, 71, the following January. Both were buried under concrete in the basement of the Kroeger home here. The bodies were not discovered for more than six months.

Mrs. Kroeger, who tongue-lashed the prosecutor and judge frequently in one of the stormiest murder trials in San Francisco's history, turned to her husband on hearing the verdict and shrieked:

"He didn't do anything!"

'I CAN SEE IT ALL NOW,' SAYS REALTOR

Hovercraft May Sideline Ferries

In the next few years the ferries linking Victoria with the mainland may become obsolete, Frank Ney, a Naniamo realtor, told Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

Mr. Ney, a Kiwanian, gave a brief talk and used a film to outline the principles of the British - pioneered hovercraft, which looks like a cross between a boat and an airplane.

"Right now, the only thing I know which can travel from downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver in less than an hour are your famous sea gulls," he said.

Mr. Ney claimed a hovercraft in its present stage of development could equal this time.

BIG FANS

The hull of a hovercraft is similar to that of a hydroplane. Giant fans push air through jets in the hull to provide a cushion of air between the hull and the surface of the water. This craft, powered by propellers, skims along at heights of up to eight feet above the water. Steering mechanism is similar to the tail section of an airplane.

A hovercraft carrying 24 passengers can reach a speed of 70 miles per hour as the pad of air which supports it minimizes friction between its hull and the water. This conveyance costs about $3,000,000 to build.

CARRY 60 CARS

Hovercraft have been designed which will travel at speeds of 100 miles per hour carrying 60 cars and 300 persons. They can be used for transportation over flat land surfaces such as deserts and can also be used as crop dusters.

"I can see it all now," Mr. Ney said. "Tally-hos with their white stallions lined up aboard these hovercraft waiting to take American tourists on one-day package tours of Victoria."

Victorian Elected To Tax Group Board

TORONTO (CP)—A. D. Russell, Vancouver chartered accountant, has been elected chairman of the Canadian Tax Foundation succeeding John de M. Marler, Montreal lawyer.

WHEN THE RED CROSS hears its services are needed it offers them right away. So does the Junior Red Cross. The youths knew the Cerebral Palsy Clinic needed a wheelchair. So their inter-high school council organized a fund-raising drive to collect $100. Last week the clinic got the chair. Here it is being used by Richard Bennett, 13, after its presentation by, from left, Gordon Price of Lansdowne Junior High School, Lille Ferguson, also a Lansdowne student, and Edna Smith of Central Junior High School. WRONG PLACE FOR ROAD PROBE

Liberals Vote Against Continuing Committee

The Liberal party Tuesday night voted against the highways graft inquiry being carried on by a committee of the legislature.

All other parties—NDP and Social Credit—voted in favor of continuing the probe in the House public accounts committee.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), gave five reasons why it should not be a committee probe.

But the Liberal members did not speak at all.

Party leader Ray Perrault told newsmen afterwards that the Liberals were sticking to the previous policy of advocating a judicial inquiry instead of a committee probe.

Mr. Macdonald made one last plea for a royal commission to investigate the allegations of graft in the highways department.

"This is the wrong tribunal," Mr. Macdonald said.

He said that the government majority—13 to 5—on the committee had denied the opposition the wish to be represented by a lawyer.

He also said that the legislature had not provided all the assistance it could have to the inquiry—referring particularly to rejection of study of a special RCMP report on Project 819, spark of the allegations.

Mr. Macdonald also protested that the committee did not deal with a report that "someone was intimidated or that there was an attempt to buy someone off."

Tom Bate (SC—Vancouver Point Grey) said that Mr. Macdonald was "a Khrushchev."

When a vote was called only the four Liberal members in the House opposed second reading of the bill to place the inquiry in the hands of the public accounts committee after the end of the session.

PLANES PROBABLY LOST OVER ALASKA

Soviet 'Overflight' Downgraded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Naval reserve aviators have been given an account of the Russian overflight of Alaska March 15 that makes the incident appear less serious than first reported.

According to the new version, attributed to the Alaska Air Command, the two Soviet planes probably were lost in bad weather rather than involved in a deliberate penetration of U.S. territory.

This is at variance with the official U.S. protest sent to Moscow, which said, "the depth of the penetration (30 miles) and the duration of the overflights indicate that this was a deliberate act on the part of the Soviet aircraft."

The account given at naval reserve training sessions, referred to by one source as an "authorized version," contends that:

Only one of the Russian planes flew over an Alaskan land area. The other may have been over Alaskan territorial waters.

The plane was over Alaskan territory only 12 minutes, instead of 25 minutes as given in the official report.

. . . REGENSTREIF

seats, the Conservatives hold 11, leaving the NDP with their two traditional Winnipeg working-class strongholds of North and North Centre and the Liberals with St. Boniface. It is clear that there are going to be some losses for the Diefenbaker forces and some corresponding gains for the Liberals.

GLAMOR GONE

With Diefenbaker's glamor almost completely gone, the major impediment to substantial Liberal inroads is the fact that Pearson is the party leader. This, admittedly, is coming to be somewhat of a dirge but it was offered as a reason for resisting a switch by respondents so often that it must be considered as a factor of major significance.

A telephone maintenance man in Steinbach, a traditional Liberal who secumbed to Diefenbaker in 1957, 1958 and 1962, put the case bluntly: "I don't like Pearson. I like his party. In my heart I'm a Liberal. But he's not the man."

In part, Pearson's lack of appeal is a direct result of his position as leader of the opposition and his role of chief Diefenbaker critic. However, there is another aspect to his failure to generate an appeal in this province and it is tied up with the image held by middle and working-class groups and small farmers, both of him and of his candidates. It is a variation on a theme which is in the process of working itself out in British Columbia.

Diefenbaker has been especially effective in leaving behind an impression with these groups that he, personally, is their representative in spite of the fact that his party might not be. Middle and working class respondents, particularly in Winnipeg where there is a residue of class consciousness surpassed in few areas in this country, when they are not voting NDP, express their antipathy to the Liberals in class terms.

An East Kildonan school teacher rationalized staying with the Conservatives as follows: "I like Diefenbaker as a man. Sometimes, of course, I think he's with the wrong party. This is just the way I feel. Mr. Pearson's personality just does not come into the realm of the common man."

SAME STORY

On the farm it is virtually the same story. With the NDP on the wane its casual supporters are deserting more in favor of the Conservatives than the Liberals.

When it comes down to specific seats there is one certain gain for the Liberals: Winnipeg South. It should have fallen to Margaret Konantz last time as she cut PC Gordon Chown's margin of 19,784 in 1958 to a measly 392. This is the only constituency in which there is any real enthusiasm for anyone and this is the direct result of Mrs. Konantz' efforts. She has the most dynamic organization anywhere in the west or indeed in the entire country.

Next on the list is the rural riding of Provencher. This is almost certainly a Liberal gain too — but for negative reasons. Liberal Stan Roberts, who came within 1,000 votes of Conservative Werner Jorgensen last year is not gaining very much but Jorgensen is losing in spite of the widespread personal attachment he has assiduously cultivated among his constituents.

A Steinbach school teacher explained that "Roberts is the wrong man. I don't think he'll be as concerned about the average working man as Jorgenson is."

LIBERAL PROBLEMS

An analysis of the distribution of the vote in the constituency underlines Liberal problems in the rural areas of the province. Provencher is in the extreme southeastern corner of the province. The eastern part of the riding is dominated by mixed and small farming. The Grits are strongest here.

However, as one moves towards the west, the Liberals become progressively weaker and the Conservatives correspondingly stronger as the wheat-growing areas are hit. If the Liberals will barely eke out a win in Provencher, it is understandable why the entire western rural sector of the province is closed to them.

Rural Selkirk, which is due north of the city of Winnipeg, is a Liberal possibility (but a remote one) only because of candidate Rudy Usick who was formerly head of the Farmers' Union. However, Conservative Eric Stefenson has 2,550 votes to play with and Usick's hoped-for gains among ex-NDPers with no where else to go will probably not be realized because of their dispositions in favor of Diefenbaker.

A far more likely Liberal gain is Defence Minister Gordon Churchill's bailiwick of Winnipeg South Centre. United Church minister Fred Douglas is the Liberal candidate and has only 2,241 votes to overcome. But the group composition of the riding is against him; it is heavily lower-middle in income and over-45 in age. These are not segments of the population which switch readily without strong incentive. The class factor is hurting Douglas too although the voters are cross pressured.

A St. James housewife admitted she had difficulty reaching a decision: "This is where I'm struggling. Douglas was our minister. He married us and baptized our daughter. But I guess I'll still vote for the Progressive Conservative because I feel they can do more for us than the Liberals can.

Finally, the Liberals had hopes in Winnipeg North where they finished within 4,000 votes of NDP Dave Orlikov. If class attitudes are operating against the Liberals in South Centre they are positively unbreakable in North which has returned such past working class champions as A. W. Heaps and Alistair Stewart.

HEAVILY TORY

To pull it off, Liberal Paul Parishan would have to be cutting a wide swath through the West Kildonan area which is the working class suburbia of the riding. It is heavily Conservative in contrast to the rest of the constituency because a move from the main part of the riding across the Red River represents a move upward, and therefore a desertion of the old ways which naturally, included voting socialist.

It is an overstatement to point out that the Liberals are doing poorly here. A meticulous check of the area both in terms of past voting record and present intentions reveals, that this is one of the poorest vote reservoirs for the Liberals, and one of the worst organized anywhere in Canada. As such, it points up some basic Liberal problems in terms of general social support that have been plaguing the party since the advent of John Diefenbaker.

. . . PEARSON

tinuing intermittently" and that he expected the discussions "would go forward."

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in Moncton, N.B., and elsewhere that "if an emergency arises we will have accessible the necessary warheads."

Mr. Pearson's statement commented: "This is impossible without a political agreement with the United States and there is no such agreement. No warheads were available during the Cuban emergency."

Again, Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in Moncton and elsewhere that "the Canadian government will not place Canadian forces in any lesser position than the allies with which they serve."

Mr. Pearson's comment: "The Canadian government has done exactly this by making ineffective certain equipment it has acquired for our forces."

He said the Bomarcs were without ammunition in the Cuban crisis. In NATO, the F-104 aircraft "cannot be used effectively for its accepted role because the government has refused to give it the necessary ammunition."

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement statements on defence and clear or high explosive warheads—which Mr. Pearson said was made in Halifax March 15—was answered by quoting the NORAD statement that became available in Ottawa March 20.

NORAD said at that time that no conventional high-explosive warhead has been developed for the Bomarc B and that while the U.S. Air Force experimented with a conventional warhead, it "has no intent or interest itself in developing or acquiring one."

As for the manned bomber, Mr. Pearson quoted the prime minister as saying in Winnipeg March 4 that "we are not worried about bombers now" and that the intercontinental ballistic missile was taking its place.

The Liberal leader then quoted Mr. Harkness as saying in Calgary Feb. 21 that "the main weight of an attack on this continent would be from the manned bomber."

CHARLES HAMILTON

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Charles (Chuck) Hamilton, 32-year-old pilot of a Yukon Airlines plane, who spotted the two survivors of a Feb. 4 plane crash near Watson Lake Sunday, was a native Victorian who went north two years ago because he was "bored" with life down here.

"It was too humdrum," said the 6-ft. 2-in. pilot in an interview at Watson Lake. "I'd rather live in the North than anywhere else."

The father of two boys and a girl, all under five years old, Mr. Hamilton operated his own business as a floor-laying contractor in Victoria.

He went north for a holiday in 1960 and decided to join his brother-in-law, Hal Komish, as a partner in Yukon Air Lines, a charter-flying business.

His wife, the former Marion Bowles of Chemainus, was all in favor of settling in the north. She said Mr. Hamilton loves flying "because it is a kind of challenge to him."

Mr. Hamilton took up flying in the Yukon in 1960 and, soon after, received his pilot's licence. He returned to Victoria two months ago and qualified for a commercial pilot's licence at Patricia Bay Airport.

Educated at Esquimalt High School, he was known here as a keen fisherman and is still a member of Victoria Fish and Game Club.

"We were all very thrilled to read of his achievement," Mr. Hamilton said.

Recounting his adventure at Watson Lake, Charles Hamilton, said he spotted the distress message of the crash survivors—Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores—in the densely-wooded Rocky Mountain Trench Sunday.

On Monday he tramped on cumbersome snowshoes to the tarpaulin lean-to and carried Miss Klaben piggy-back to his plane, three miles away. The girl was weak and had frost-bitten feet and a broken arm.

"I was amazed she was still alive," he said. "I had long ago given them both up for dead. I can still hardly believe it."

Miss Klaben, 21-year-old office worker from Brooklyn, N.Y., and Flores, 42-year-old electrical worker from San Bruno, Calif., had been trapped in the frigid remote area for seven weeks.

I'm too old for carrying on the way I did last night . . . imagine me cavorting around the Empress Hotel in the wee small hours . . . no wonder I'm so tired . . . and it will be so easy to go to sleep . . . but it's a good thing I resisted the temptation to make myself a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . .

. . . snrrff . . . sigh . . . yep, a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich would have kept me awake half the night . . . in spite of the fact those International Festival people kept me up until 3 o'clock . . . 3 o'clock in the morning, ta, ta, tee tum, tum tum . . . that was a grand old song . . . I like the way the old songs are coming back . . . and the big bands, too . . . there's nothing like a big band . . . unless it's a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . . but I must get to sleep now . . .

. . . I should be asleep in a matter of minutes . . . wonder if I just turned over on the other side . . . no, tossing and turning never put a man to sleep . . . it's a long toss that has no turning . . . that's not very bright, couldn't even use it in the column . . . column, jumping jalopies, I haven't written tomorrow's column yet . . . what will I write tomorrow's column about? . . . maybe I could discuss the best way to make a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . . bacon nice and crisp and hot, tomato sliced nice and thin, nice and cold . . .

. . . but it's a good thing I didn't make one before I came to bed . . . I'd never get to sleep . . . as it is, I'll be asleep in just a few seconds . . . well, minutes, maybe . . . I'm so tired I could cry . . . that would make a good song title, I'm so tired I could cry, but I'm tired of crying, too . . . mm, tum, tee, tee, tum tum might make a good tune . . . good tunes make lots of money . . . if a man could write a tune and get it on the hit parade, he'd be able to take it easy the rest of his life and have all the toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches a man could wish for . . .

. . . but I'm certainly glad I didn't make a bacon and tomato sandwich before I came to bed . . . and it's great to be in bed so early . . . imagine that wife of mine, tired as she is, insisting on reading for an hour before she goes to bed . . . if she came to bed early, she'd go to sleep, right away, just as I am doing . . .

. . . of course, she may be hungry . . . perhaps that's why she is sitting up, reading . . . perhaps she is just waiting for me to go to sleep before she makes a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich for herself . . .

. . . snff, snff . . . is that bacon frying? . . . no, it's just my imagination . . . I'll just go to sleep now and forget all about . . . by the great horned toad, that IS bacon frying . . .

. . . dear, as long as you're making a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich for yourself, you may as well . . .

'POP' SHANKS
. . . funeral Friday

He Bet on Future Of Cars—and Won

Richard (Pop) Shanks—one of Britain's first motor mechanics and co-founder of Victoria Motorcycle Club in 1912—died here Tuesday in his 88th year.

He opened a bicycle store at Waybridge, Surrey, England, in 1903, and the following year hung out a sign, "Motor Cars Repaired." The store thus became one of Britain's very first garages.

An elderly neighbor told him motor cars would never amount to anything—but Mr. Shanks knew better. He built up a thriving business and sold it in 1911 when he migrated to Canada.

Moving to Victoria in 1912, he worked in a garage for a while; then opened his own motorcycle shop at 937 Fort Street. As Shanks Motorcycles, the business is carried on by his son, Reginald.

TRAIL-BREAKER

As co-founder and charter member of Victoria Motorcycle Club, Mr. Shanks was one of three trail-breakers who rode the first motor bikes over the rugged Cariboo Trail.

Until his retirement a few years ago, he rode to work daily on a heavy police motorcycle. Because these motorcycles are hard to "kick off," Mr. Shanks developed his own self-starter and this enabled him to fire the engine by pressing a button.

TENNIS PLAYER

A keen sportsman, Mr. Shanks once reached the semi-final of the veterans' B.C. tennis championships. He was also an avid lawn bowler and managed Victoria's cup-winning Sons of England soccer team in the early 1920s.

Funeral services will be held in Chaplin's chapel Friday at 2 p.m. Mr. Shanks leaves a widow; two sons, Reg and Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. Frank Boughton, of Victoria.

Thursday Meetings

Victoria Rotary Club: 12:10 p.m., Empress Hotel; G. J. A. Slater, "Britain in Perspective."

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club: 6:15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel; past presidents' night.

Ss. Beaver Kiwanis Club: 7:30 a.m., Tally Ho Hotel; Joseph Kampman, "Canadian Mental Health Association."

Optimist Club: 12:10 p.m., Yarrow Building.

HE DIDN'T GO STRAIGHT EITHER WAY

A man recently released from Haney Correctional Institute was fined $200 in city and Oak Bay police court today, after pleading guilty to three charges involving a car taken from a Kings Road address early this morning.

Keith A. Shepherd, 21, admitted taking the car without the owner's consent about 1 a.m., driving it up the Malahat and returning to Oak Bay by about 3:45 a.m., when he was seen travelling at 60 mph along Cadboro Bay Road and weaving from side to side.

He was fined $100 for taking the car, $75 for careless driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

12-Mile Fishing Limit Asked by Legislators

PRODIGAL PEDIGREED POOCH was received with open arms by owner Mrs. Vern Exton, 3651 Quadra, after an adventurous three days away from home. "Nicky," a two-year-old Samoyed valued at $300, is believed to have wandered off sometime Friday night. He was seen being loaded into a car at Douglas and Topaz early Saturday morning, but was released in the 1700 block Fernwood soon after. After an appeal appeared in Monday's Times, Mrs. Exton was notified he had been picked up by a family from the Craigflower reserve early Sunday on the Johnson Street Bridge. "He'll never get out of my sight again," said Nicky's grateful mistress.

'Must Be Enforced,' Committee Reports

A special committee of the B.C. legislature has advocated that Canada establish a 12-mile fishing limit off its coasts and be prepared to enforce it.

The report of the special committee on fisheries was filed unread with the House.

The committee met with union, employer and other fishing groups during the sitting of the legislature that was to prorogue today.

The report said the present three-mile limit is inadequate for the protection of Canadian fisheries.

It asked that Canada take unilateral action to establish a headland to headland baseline along its shoreline as recommended by Canada and the United States in the 1960 United Nations conference of law of the sea.

While recognizing the historic fishing rights of the U.S. within the fishing limit, the committee recommended that Canada "declare exclusive fishing rights for a distance of 12 miles of that baseline."

ENFORCE THEM

It added Canada must be "prepared to enforce such measures."

The committee recommended its report be forwarded to the federal government.

The report also suggested:

The federal government give consideration to receiving representations from all segments of the B.C. fishing industry prior to ratification of proposed amendments to the International North Pacific Fisheries Convention;

An immediate research program to ascertain the future effect of a Japanese herring fishery off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands on B.C. herring quotas and immature salmon stocks.

It requested a report from Conservation Minister Westwood on the jurisdictional and administrative management of B.C. commercial fisheries and major problems associated with this management on spawning streams.

FIRST TIME

It is believed to be the first time that any committee of the B.C. legislature has taken such a strong stand on the 12-mile limit.

Several countries have unilaterally established such a limit, including Iceland, which clashed with Britain over the matter.

The report said: "All sections of the industry expressed grave doubt that commercial fishing on the high seas was in the best interests of proper conservation and the principal of sustained annual productivity."

GREATEST WORRY

It noted that "all countries had a vested interest in those fish originating within their respective territorial waters."

The committee's greatest concern was the Japanese high seas fishery. An amendment to the three-country North Pacific Treaty would permit Japan to fish for halibut in the Bering Sea and for herring off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

B.C. fishing industry officials expressed concern that herring fishermen would catch immature salmon, decimating B.C.'s crop.

The U.S. and Japan have ratified the amendment but Canada has not.

'SAT ON' 30 YEARS

Buried Shell Came Back To Haunt Him

For about 30 years George Graham worked in his office above a live, foot-long shell and never worried about it.

He almost forgot it was even there — buried in the ground below Evans, Coleman and Evans brickyard.

Then on Tuesday he remembered. And at the same time it suddenly occurred to him that the old brickyard is now being cleared to make room for the Mayfair Shopping Centre on Douglas and Tolmie.

He immediately raised an alarm because he was afraid that blasting or digging operations on the site would explode it.

AREA CLEARED

This morning the area within 200 yards of where the bomb is located was cleared of all workmen. A bomb disposal detachment from the RCN diving establishment began cautiously working to uncover the shell.

Said Lt.-Cmdr. A. W. Rowse: "Even if it's an old shell it could still explode. The older they get, the worse condition they get into."

Mr. Graham, who lives at 3127 Irma, said that brickyard workers found the shell and he first saw it when they were trying to take it apart.

He was afraid of the damage they might do so he ordered it buried under the foundations of his office, which was then under construction. He figured it would be safe there.

At one time the site of the brickyard had been used as a firing range by the Imperial forces during the First World War. Mr. Graham said the shell was discovered around 1929.

Friday Meeting Thrown Open To All Horsemen

He promises an informative as well as an entertaining evening.

Among speakers will be the husband and wife veterinarian team of Drs. William and Barbara Powell of Island View Road, Saanich. They will speak on horse management and horsemanship.

There will be reports, also, of activities of various horse clubs of the district.

And a series of motion pictures will be shown including a study of the gaits of horses in slow motion, the raising and training of thoroughbreds, and life on a working cattle ranch in the Nicola Valley of British Columbia.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

Crew members of two West German warships due here April 1 would welcome an opportunity to visit Victorians in their homes, an RCN spokesman said today.

Included are a total of 120 officer cadets, aged 16 and 17.

The ships are the Hipper and Graf Spee, both frigates. Those wishing to extend hospitality are asked to phone the Armed Forces Leave Centre, 382-0771.

The legislature Tuesday night gave third and final reading to a bill setting up Victoria College as a university.

The university bill, and another allowing establishment of junior colleges across the province, will become law when given royal assent later today.

Complaint Against Former Minister To Be Investigated

Recreation Minister Westwood said in the Legislature today he would investigate a report that offensive remarks were made by a British Columbia tourist official during a government-sponsored tour of California.

"If it occurred it is most unfortunate," he said.

He was commenting on a demand by Leo Nimsick (NDP-Cranbrook) for the recall of Newton Steacy, former agriculture minister now in charge of the B.C. tourist office in San Francisco.

THE ELECTION TRAIL

Lunch in Calgary, Speech in Victoria

Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich politicians of all parties are giving their constituents a breathing space tonight. There are no public meetings scheduled.

Final major election rally in Victoria will be held Friday when Liberal National Leader Lester B. Pearson speaks at Royal Theatre at 8 p.m.

Tonight he is in Regina, Thursday in Edmonton. He will lunch in Calgary the same day he comes here.

On Saturday, after a luncheon, Mr. Pearson's hectic pace slows for a private weekend rest near Horseshoe Bay.

On Monday he will speak at Vancouver before heading east for the last week of the campaigning. He finishes in Ottawa the Saturday preceding the April 8 election.

B.C. Liberal campaign chairman Hugh Martin Monday predicted his party will gain from all three opposing parties in the April 8 election, in B.C.

Candidates include seven lawyers and six businessmen. Eight of the 22 are running for the first time. There is an industrial firefighter, a housebuilder, a farmer, an economist, a journalist and a mine foreman. Average age is 46 and the youngest 31.

Victoria branch Voice of Women doesn't want to get tarred with the brush being used locally to deface buildings and monuments with "No Nucelar Arms" signs.

Mrs. Mira V. Yardwood, president, writes that while her group opposes nuclear arms, it also deplores the defacing of public or private property.

"Acts of this kind are entirely against our policy and in very bad taste," Mrs. Yarwood stated.

Reunion Planned

Victoria Ex-Telephone Operators' Club will hold its annual reunion dinner in the Yarrow Building Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

$661,000 Sliced From Budget

Total preliminary slices of some $661,000 had been reached in city estimates by press time today as works committee strove to cut down a proposed $1,200,000 budget increase to size.

Mayor R. B. Wilson repeated suggestions that the time has come for the city to finance needed capital improvements through package borrowing bylaws put to the people

He also suggested that the multi-million-dollar proposed urban renewal program should be put to a ratepayer vote in view of its size.

Mayor Wilson pointed out that serious consideration must be given to whether the city can afford to try paying for all its needed projects out of current revenues.

"Can we afford to pay for all these things at one time?" he asked.

A capital budget—involving borrowing—could spread out the financing period for necessary projects and was particularly attractive because of the city's unique position that its present funded debt will be liquidated in 1975.

He pointed out this meant that in a single stroke, the city would have $700,000 more annually at present tax levels.

Largely on the basis that a proposed capital budget will be drawn up for presentation to city council, the committee made substantial cuts in urban renewal and special public works votes.

Request for $100,000 to be put into the urban renewal fund was cut back to the $50,000 amount set in 1962 but the mayor indicated that even with this stretching out of the financing period he thought a vote by ratepayers on the overall project should be considered.

Other items referred to the suggested capital budget include the $140,000 Clover Point sewer outfall extension, $36,000 for replacement of two bridges at Clawthorpe and Doncaster and $54,000 for extending the Bowker Creek covering program.

Ask The Times

Q. Would you please tell me just what ties we have with Great Britain—are we a colony or are we completely independent of them? How come they select our governor-general? A.C.

A. Canada has ties with Britain through a common sovereign and membership in the Commonwealth of Nations. But Canada is not a colony of the United Kingdom; she has her own Queen—the same Queen who is Queen of England. Canada is completely independent of England except in changing her constitution. Any amendment to Canada's constitution must go through the British parliament, which wrote Canada's constitution in the B.N.A. Act of 1867.

The reason the Queen selects the governor-general is because he is her representative in Canada. Usually a man is recommended for the position by the Canadian government, pending approval of the Queen.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Don't Wait — Plant Now For Year-Round Harvest

By PENNY SAVER

Has the hanging basket fever taken hold of you yet? If so, now is the time to start preparing.

One plant with prolific blossoms is the hanging basket begonia. They thrive on little sunshine and lots of shade which makes them ideal for the baskets that will be hanging on a porch.

Buy two or three bulbs at 45 cents apiece, pack them lightly in good soil, water and keep in the basement until the weather warms up. Then out they go for the season.

Another flower which is new to me but looked wonderful on the package is the Mexican shell flower. They have a large blossom something like a gladioli and are very colorful. If the seeds are planted now they will start blooming in June or July and continue to bloom all summer. One large box of seeds costs 75 cents.

If your flower bed is looking a little drab around the edges a cluster of polyanthus is the answer. And while you are at it try some of the new pastel shades, salmon pink, pale yellow or dusty rose. Large healthy-looking plants in full bloom are 55 cents.

Or, if it is the rock garden that needs some new life now is the time to buy rock plants at prices anywhere between 45 and 85 cents.

Did you find yourself short of flowers to cut last fall. Don't let it happen again. Plant some yellow marguerites now and you will reap the rewards from summer until the first real frost. Plants are only 25 cents.

But remember all plants aren't for viewing. If you are lucky enough to have an unheated greenhouse you can give your tomato plants a head start. Plants which have been grown in individual pots are now six to 12 inches high and cost 25 cents each.

With so much talk going on about the dangers to health from over-use of chemical fertilizers you may like to try a new liquid organic fertilizer made entirely from seaweed. Ingredients come from England and then are manufactured here on Vancouver Island. Price is $1.50 a quart but this goes a long way. Just a few drops to a bucket of water each time you water the plants.

Three of the interesting travellers who arrived in Vancouver, Sunday, aboard the Ss. Oriana are seen above. At left is Mrs. Gladys How of Upminster, Essex, England. While in Canada Mrs. How will visit her niece, Mrs. J. Walter Roots, 3526 Richmond Road. She is a member of the Upminster Business and Professional Women's Club.

At right, the charming couple is Mr. and Mrs. Barry Hicklenton. They were accompanied by their two daughters, Susan and Carol. The Hicklentons have spent the past five years in Auckland, New Zealand. Mrs. Hicklenton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Keyworth of Douglas Street.

Arrested, Imprisoned In Fight for Women's Rights

NEW YORK (AP)—Feminist Doris Stevens, who spent her life fighting for equal rights for women, died Friday night, aged 70.

Her battles for equality of the sexes were a sensation in the days when the general feeling was that a woman's place was in the home. She was sentenced to 60 days imprisonment in 1917 for attempting to petition President Woodrow Wilson on behalf of national suffrage.

Her zeal also got her arrested in France in 1928 for attempting to present an equal rights treaty to plenipotentiaries for the Pact of Paris.

A feminist to the core, she clung to her maiden name although she was married twice, first to celebrated attorney Dudley Field Malone and the second time to writer Jonathan Mitchell. She and Malone were divorced and he later died.

Ganges—New members, Mrs. M. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. H. A. Emerslund, were welcomed at a recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Salt Spring Island branch, Royal Canadian Legion. Mrs. F. W. Kirkham presided. Donations were made to provincial command scholarship fund and Legion Day visiting committee. Visits were made by Mrs. V. A. Bishop, Mrs. A. L. Campbell and Mrs. Kirkham to Victoria Veterans' hospital. Arrangements are being made with Red Cross Lodge officials for assistance to veterans', wives called to Victoria in case of illness. Auxiliary will take charge of clothing booth at Legion auction sale to be held at Ganges.

Fourth Term—Doris Weir was elected president for a fourth term when the Ladies Auxiliary, Sons of Scotland Benevolent Association held its annual meeting in the Interurban Road home of Annie Mackay. Also elected were, Vice-president, Betty Tyre; secretary, Margaret Gourlay; treasurer, Anna Wilson; social conveners, Mary Mackenzie and Celia Lazaruk; auditors, Beth McAuslane and Jean Walton. The president received a gift from the members. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Wins Scholarship

News has been received from Auckland, New Zealand, that Miss Diana Bruntlett has been awarded an £800 scholarship which will provide her with three years' free tuition at the Royal School of Music in London, England, and a grant towards living expenses.

Miss Bruntlett, whose family lived in Saanich before going to New Zealand, is an accomplished violinist. Only other New Zealand musician to qualify was William Langford of Christchurch.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Don't Compound Problem!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 years old and have been married 10 years. About a year ago I started seeing a young girl who lives in a small town near here. She is in trouble now and it's my fault. My wife and I have one eight-year-old son and we were told my wife can't have any more children. I told her I knew of a girl in trouble who wanted to give her baby up and asked my wife how she would like a new-born baby. She was thrilled. I called the girl and told her I'd pay all her expenses if she'd let me have the baby. The girl agreed, but said she would have to leave town pretty soon to await her baby. I'm afraid if I let the girl come here for her confinement my wife will find out the whole story. But then, if the girl goes somewhere else, she might be talked out of giving us the baby. Can you advise me in a hurry, please?

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Pay for the baby and help its mother adopt it out, if that is her wish. But leave your wife and family out of it. One such mistake is enough in one lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: What should a girl do when a boy she dates makes a date to pick her up at 7:30 and he doesn't show up until around 8:30? My mother says I should keep him waiting for me just as long as I had to wait for him. I don't want to get him mad at me because I really like him. Do you have a better solution?

KEPT WAITING

DEAR KEPT: Chronic lateness is nothing more than proof in living color (usually blush pink) that the late one is disorganized. Don't fight fire with fire unless you want to sacrifice the relationship. Let the boy know you are hurt, and ask him to try to be more prompt.

DEAR ABBY: About the "worried mother" who was concerned because her 16-year old son kept peeping across into the neighbor's window where two teen-aged girls have their bedroom: I agree with the father. It's only natural for a normal 16-year-old boy to look. What boy his age wouldn't like the chance? Instead of the mother peeping on her son, to see if he's still peeping on the girls, she should tell the girls' mother to put a shade up and see to it that the girls pull the shade down. Then the audience will know the show is over.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Check Weight With 'Ideal' Chart, Not 'Average' One

Many overweight women are lulled into thinking they are not overweight, or at any rate, very little so. This happens because they gained weight gradually as they grew older and somehow came to feel that it is normal and expectable to do so. They simply accept the extra pounds as a natural part of aging.

Lowman

Remember that the average weight and height charts do not show the ideal weights. The average person gains weight as the birthdays whizz by, much more than is good for him or her.

When deciding what you should weigh, use one of the height and weight charts which give you desirable weights, not average weights. Then, too, there is another test you can give yourself. If you can pinch up more than one or two inches of abdominal fat between your thumb and fingers when you pinch deeply, you should lose weight.

Women also wish to know if exercise is necessary on a reducing routine. It is not necessary but it is desirable. If you are overweight and want to lose, you will have to count calories. However, regular daily exercise helps also. It burns up calories and it will distribute your weight more attractively. It also increases tone.

How many calories you should have when reducing depends on age, sex, stature, metabolism and physical activity. If you are short or older or inactive, you will need to cut your calorie intake lower than a taller, younger, more active woman.

If you are not old, fairly active and average height, you will lose successfully with an intake of from 1,200 to 1,400 calories a day. Under other conditions you may have to cut to nine or 10 hundred.

If you have a few pounds to lose, a rapid short reduction is satisfactory. However, if you are a lot overweight, a loss of two pounds a week is best. Most women will lose this when on a daily 1,200 calorie intake diet. If you do not lose, then cut to 1,000 calories per day.

If you would like to have my Calorie Chart, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Behind Every Successful Man ...

By ELIZABETH FORBES

As the leaders of the four national parties stump their way across the country in six weeks of concentrated effort to place their own particular party on top when federal election day—April 8—comes up on the calendar, they are not alone.

Their wives are with them—in person as they travel, or in spirit as they keep the home fires burning for them.

Each is an intelligent Canadian woman, outstanding in her own right. Each is dedicated to furthering her husband's career and during this election campaign, each is doing her part in many quiet ways to smooth the paths for their husbands, who are surrounded by pressures of all kinds.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker

Mrs. Lester Pearson

Mrs. Robert Thompson

Mrs. Tommy Douglas

JOHN'S WIFE

Olive Diefenbaker, wife of Canada's prime minister and leader of the Progressive Conservative party, has been travelling across country with her husband during the campaign.

She was in Victoria on Monday when the prime minister spoke in the Bay Street Armory, and despite a back ailment incurred years ago which forces her to wear a brace now to ease the pressure, she was pleasant and smiling as usual.

Mrs. Diefenbaker has made a point of remaining in the background in the past five years. She has refused interviews, maintaining that what her husband has to say is the important thing.

Nevertheless, her value as a campaigner has been proven since her prairie lawyer husband rose to power in 1957, and Conservative campaign strategists feel that the strength of her support and confidence has encouraged Diefenbaker in his roughest moments.

She married the prime minister in 1953 when he had yet to win his spot as leader of the Conservative party, after a friendship that dated back to post-First World War years in Saskatoon. Their association was temporarily ended when Diefenbaker moved to Prince Albert and Olive Freeman, daughter of a Baptist minister, went to Brandon, Man., where she graduated from college as a teacher.

She first married a Toronto lawyer who died in 1933, had one daughter, Carolyn, and later became assistant director of guidance for the Ontario department of education.

Diefenbaker, himself a widower, courted her and the two won entry to 24 Sussex Drive, the official residence of the prime minister, which she has managed graciously.

It is this life, which Olive Diefenbaker, in her calm, quiet way, is fighting to continue after April 8.

BROWN-HAIRED MARYON

Mrs. Lester Pearson, wife of the Liberal party leader, is also travelling with her husband during the present election campaign and will be on the platform in the Royal Theatre Friday evening when he speaks in Victoria.

Attractive and brown-haired, this first lady in Liberal circles finds her greatest interest is in people. She makes friends easily and fits quietly into any picture that has to do with her husband's work.

Her main concern is her husband and she maintains "it is interesting work going from place to place while my husband makes speeches."

In the present campaign, the Pearsons have travelled by train, plane and car and in every sort of weather. Yet Maryon Pearson still manages to look smart and attractive wherever she goes.

She met her husband at University of Toronto when she was a student and he a history professor and they were married in 1925.

Reminiscing of this time in their lives, she says: "Even then he was wearing bow ties."

Those bow ties eventually became Lester Pearson's trademark, although today he balances them with four-in-hands.

Mrs. Pearson does most of her husband's shopping—choosing all his ties. She cooks many of their meals when they are home. (They have a son, Geoffrey; daughter, Patricia, and seven grandchildren.)

But she staunchly refrains from taking part in politics herself.

"One in the family is enough," she says with her delightful smile.

HUSBAND'S CO-ORDINATOR

While the national leader of the Social Credit party stumps across the country, Mrs. Thompson stokes the home constituency political fires, as assistant co-ordinator at the Red Deer riding where her husband is seeking re-election.

At 47, her once brunette hair now is partly grey but she says it's not that way because of political campaigns. "I thoroughly enjoy them," she says.

Five of the eight children, who range in age from three to 22, and include one married daughter, were born in Africa after Mr. Thompson went to Ethiopia in 1943 as head of a nine-member team of doctors, nurses and teachers following liberation of the country from the Italians. They were there for 15 years.

With her husband's election as national leader of the Social Credit party, a new phase of work opened for Mrs. Thompson and her family. With characteristic vigor, she has pitched into the task of helping wherever she can.

WITH TOMMY

Sometimes they tour the country together. At other times he goes alone, leaving her in charge of the home riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam.

This has been an active year, politically for Mrs. Douglas. Her husband is fighting his second general election in 10 months with a byelection sandwiched in between.

"Everything has gone smoothly so far," she says, "the children were at home previously—now I have more time."

Daughter Shirley, now Mrs. Tim Sick of the Seattle brewing family — achieved modest fame on the London stage; Joan graduates from University of Saskatchewan this year as a nurse.

Mrs. Douglas was Irma Demsey, a Carberry, Man., teen-age music student, in 1930 when she married the young Baptist minister who went on to become a member of Parliament, premier of Saskatchewan and eventually head of the NDP.

She weighs about 90 pounds and stands five feet tall, but she finds her stamina equal to any campaigning that is necessary.

The Douglas family has always loved hockey in the rollicking Chicago style and football in the death-with-valor tradition of Saskatchewan Roughriders. But Tommy has not taken his wife to a hockey game or football game since he entered the federal field.

However, politics has made up for some of the lost excitement.

And while she may not see as much of her husband as she used to, Irma Douglas contents herself with good music, books, television (the hockey and football games) bird-watching and political campaigning on his behalf.

Shower on Bride-Elect's Birthday

Miss Shirley Smith, popular April bride-elect, was honored at a shower and tea when her bridesmaid, Miss Loraine Spedding, was co-hostess with her mother, Mrs. William Spedding, at their Avebury Avenue home. Red roses and freesia in a pottery container were presented to the bride-to-be, while her mother, Mrs. Gordon Smith, and Mrs. R. D. Siemens, sister of the groom-elect, received similar arrangements of roses.

Little flower girls Dawn and Sandra Siemens assisted with the gifts while matron of honor Mrs. Walter Creed fashioned a bouquet and hat from the bows and ribbons for her sister to wear.

Mrs. John Rogers presided at the tea table at which time Miss Marie Rain, bridesmaid, presented the guest of honor with a candlelit cake to mark her birthday.

For Bride-Elect

Full skirts of a bride doll concealed gifts when fellow workers of the Royal Bank of Canada entertained bride-elect, Miss Janet Milligan, at a shower in the Princess Avenue home of Miss Beverly Lewis. Pink and white carnations were presented to the guest of honor. Present were Mrs. M. Lock, Mrs. A. Padden, Mrs. I. Mooney, Mrs. D. Hanna, Mrs. D. Bell, Mrs. J. Robb, Mrs. E. Miller, Mrs. A. Balcom, Mrs. S. Biggs, and the Misses Mary Bell, Clarice Brown, Adele Haines, Jo-Ann Halfhide, Sharon Page, Judy Neiley, Pat Donaldson and Lynda Marcellus. Also invited were Mrs. E. Gibb, Mrs. J. Empey, Mrs. P. Walmsley, Mrs. M. Creed, Mrs. S. Greenwood and the Misses Kathleen Corker and Grace Goss.

Return Home

Mrs. E. R. Tennant and Mrs. Caroline Overton left Tuesday afternoon for their homes in Winnipeg following a short visit with Mrs. Tennant's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Emerson at their Revercomb Place home. The visitors had spent some time in southern California before coming to Victoria. Mrs. Tennant is an alderman of the city of Winnipeg and has acted as deputy city mayor on several occasions. Both she and Mrs. Overton are members of the Winnipeg Business and Professional Women's Club.

Married Monday

LONDON (AP)—Lady Iris Peake, Princess Margaret's former lady-in-waiting, was married Monday to Capt. Oliver Dawnay, a London stockbroker who for 11 years was private secretary to the Queen Mother. The captain is 41; his bride 37. She is the daughter of Viscount Ingleby. Lady Iris accompanied the princess on her visits to Victoria.

Parties Honor Arlene Conconi

A gift of luggage was presented to the guest of honor when Miss Heather Macdonald entertained in her Interurban Road home. Games were played and refreshments served. Hosted with the bride-to-be were her mother, Mrs. F. W. Conconi, and groom-elect's mother, Mrs. D. W. Hughes.

Also attending were Mrs. I. Macdonald, Mrs. C. Hall, Mrs. B. Broadhurst, Mrs. R. Ekstrom, Mrs. W. Morrison and the Misses Gerry Miller, Lynn Gay, Wendy Martin and Linda Andrew.

The guest of honor's sister, Donna, and her two other attendants, the Misses Marlene Kostenuk and Mrs. W. Morrison, were co-hostesses at the Braefoot Road home of Miss Conconi. Besides the bride-to-be and the principals' mothers, other invited guests were Mrs. J. Jackson, Mrs. J. E. Conconi, Mrs. B. Parker, Mrs. M. O. Goodmanson, Mrs. E. Conconi, Mrs. R. Morrison, Mrs. D. McCaskell and the Misses Joanne Dunn, Maureen Fiddick, Jo Humber, Lynn Gay, Heather Macdonald, Wendy Martin, Gerry Miller, Pat Burgess and Jackie Rose. Games were played and refreshments served.

Another evening of games and refreshments were enjoyed when Mrs. J. W. Love and her daughter, Mrs. P. Fowles entertained at a shower in the Lee Avenue home of Mrs. Love. Guests included Mrs. F. W. Conconi, Mrs. D. Hughes, Mrs. M. O. Goodmanson, Mrs. G. T. Hughes, Mrs. W. Hughes, Mrs. R. Hughes, Mrs. T. Rigby, Mrs. G. MacIntosh, Mrs. W. Morrison, Mrs. L. O. Goodmanson, Mrs. G. Clements, Mrs. D. Unwin and the Misses Donna Conconi and Marlene Kostenuk.

When Mrs. L. O. Goodmanson entertained at a kitchen shower in her Clarke Road Home at Brentwood in honor of her niece she was joined by her two daughters, Margaret and Cathy May, who will be flower girls.

Also present were the bride-to-be's mother and groom-elect's mother, Mrs. M. Galt, Mrs. H. Palmason, Mrs. C. Brown, Mrs. J. McIntyre, Mrs. A. McIntyre, Mrs. B. Johnson, Mrs. L. T. Walker, Mrs. J. Sanders, Mrs. A. Bolster, Mrs. L. Angus, Mrs. R. H. Morrison, Mrs. R. Ekstrom, Mrs. K. Pedersen, Mrs. J. Conconi and the Misses Donna Conconi and Laurette Allard.

Special guests were the bride-elect's grandmothers, Mrs. M. O. Goodmanson and Mrs. E. Conconi, who were presented with pink rose corsages similar to those received by Miss Conconi, her mother and groom-elect's mother.

Corsages were also presented at all the other showers.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Adrienne Mary-Jean Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Watts of Surrey Road, to Mr. Anthony Kendall Gelsthrope, son of Mr. S. O. Gelsthrope, St. Patrick Street, and the late Mrs. Gelsthrope. The wedding will take place on Monday, April 15, in St. Patrick's Church, Oak Bay, with Fr. M. J. McNamara officiating. Bald, Paunchy Models Get Raves

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the models were bald.

A few were paunchy and nearly all were self-conscious over the hoots and wolf whistles rained on them by the lusty audience at a recent executive club luncheon fashion show here.

But the 15 successful businessmen gamely shuffled down the runway for the purpose of proving that masculine supremacy in fashion is closer than just around the corner.

"Men have been hiding their style light under a bushel of black flannel too long," a pretty lass named Joie Harrison, in a rousing speech about "man, the second-class citizen."

Elbow to elbow at the tables where a luncheon had just been polished off, many leaders of the United States sales force, nearly all in conservative flannel suits, applauded.

Then at the signal of Stout Hearted Men from the piano player, reluctant businessmen emerged onto the runway one at a time, each flanked by two beautiful professional models. The girls carried signs proclaiming: "A man in every home" and "don't just appear, make an appearance."

One bald fellow sported a double-breasted orange jacket; a bashful banker type an antique gold silk suit; a bespectacled gentleman ventured forth in scarlet slacks and glen plaid jacket.

The crowd went wild over a dapper, white-haired fellow in a navy blazer and canary and black striped pants. They cheered when a mattress company executive appeared in a butterscotch yellow double-breasted costume with brass buttons.

Well Dressed on a Small Budget

High fashion at low prices and in sizes and styles for the petite as well as the budget-conscious girl was the main feature of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team fashion show held Tuesday evening in Holyrood House.

Paris fashions adapted for casual living were seen in costumes designed for before, after, or on the beach.

Hats were modified versions of the wide-brimmed Paris models. Gaucho styles, with short brims and high crowns, were worn straight across the brow and jaunty roller brims at the back of the head.

A cardigan coat in pale yellow and white tweed with toning yellow straw hat banded in white chiffon was outstanding as modelled by Maureen Fiddick. Sue Stoddart received much applause when she appeared in a crisp pink linen suit edged in white with free-moving A-line skirt.

The sleeveless dress was emphasized in a two-piece beige summer frock worn by Sharon Rogers. A polka dot scarf at the neckline added to "that casual look."

Pale pink chiffon over rose patterned taffeta was worn by Lorraine McConnell in a frothy semi-formal evening gown.

Ready for the beach was Kim Wickett in pale blue slims topped with a jacket in bold red and blue dots on white. And a sleeveless beach coat in blue denim was modelled by Donna Peck. Fashions were by Hudson's Bay. Reg. Stone was organist.

Other members of the team, dressed in their white satin uniforms, assisted with serving refreshments.

Winners of the raffle were drawn by Carol Small, Shirley Reason and Norma Redfern, who were runners-up for the Butchart's trophy, a cup presented for team proficiency.

Hundreds at Session Of Order of Amaranth

Between 500 and 600 members from all parts of the province and the United States will converge on Victoria later this week when the eighth annual Grand Court Session of the Order of the Amaranth is held at the Empress Hotel. "Kindness" is the theme.

Registrations will begin at 2 p.m., Thursday with business sessions commencing at 9 a.m. on Friday. A dinner and dance in the Crystal Ballroom will be highlight of Friday's activities.

After a full day's session Saturday, a public installation of officers will be held in the ballroom that evening.

Mrs. Marjorie Holman, Victoria, grand royal matron, and Edwin Cliff, Vancouver, grand royal patron, will preside.

Grand officers from other areas will be among those attending. They include Mrs. M. Munyan, Mrs. Pearl Hoover, Robert Forbes and Ralph Holmstead, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Carmen Seigers, also of Washington; Mrs. Helen Dane, Mrs. Fay E. Aplanalp and Wade H. Arstill, all of Portland, Oregon.

Provincial past grand royal matrons attending will be Mrs. Henrietta Drysdale, Mrs. Evelyn Tait and Mrs. Dorothy Grafton of Vancouver, Mrs. Estelle Robinson, Comox, and Mrs. Harriet Fenbow, Mrs. Gertrude Neelands and Mrs. Marjorie Hill, all of Victoria.

Past grand patrons attending will be George Robinson, Comox, and Lou Neelands, Thomas Baldwin and Art Cook, all of Victoria.

Other guests from Washington will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gilbert of Enumclaw, Mrs. Lois Ledine, Libby Nelson, Harold Cody, Mrs. Margaret Kima, Mrs. Eleanor Hagar and Mrs. Hora Cody, all of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Thermon Givers of Tacoma, and Mrs. Irma Purdy, Everett.

Otis J. Traux, supreme royal patron, will come from Los Angeles, Calif.

Portland visitors will include Mrs. Opal Le Vack and Mr. and Mrs. William Pritchard.

E. MacDonald, executive director of the British Columbia Heart Foundation, will come from Vancouver for the session and be presented with a cheque from the B.C. order which has adopted the foundation as its main charitable project.

Order is world wide with 11 provincial courts. Oldest is Mizpah Court No. 2 which is 51 years old and home court of Mrs. Holman. Other Victoria court is 10-year-old Coronation Court No. 6. Remainder of provincial courts are in Vancouver and New Westminster.

HOUSE ROUNDUP

Capital Stays Here —Bennett

Solve the shortcomings of Victoria's Legislative Buildings by moving the capital to the mainland, Camille Mather (NDP—Delta) urged the government in the House Tuesday.

"Don't build any more facilities here," she told Works Minister W. N. Chant during debate on his departmental estimates.

"Move the whole legislature to the mainland where it belongs," she said. After all, the "vast majority of people live there and it would be more accessible in Vancouver . . . or some place on the lower mainland."

'BEAUTIFUL BUT . . .'

"It is a beautiful spot here, but it's an offshore island . . ." Mrs. Mather remarked.

"Most islands are," Highways Minister Gaglardi quipped.

Premier Bennett—amid desk thumping — said the government was not interested in moving the Legislative Buildings to Barkerville, or any other place.

"We are very happy with the buildings in the capital city, the most beautiful capital of them all," Mr. Bennett said.

Discussion arose when Lois Haggen (NDP—Grand Forks-Greenwood) repeated a plea for a new provincial museum and other members urged more space for MLAs.

A major step toward metro government on the lower mainland may be taken soon, Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black said.

However, he refused to be pushed out on a limb by disclosing what is going on.

Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East) asked Mr. Black if he was running a secret service.

Mr. Black replied that there had been meetings with reeves and mayors from the lower mainland but their progress was confidential.

"I'm not going to wreck all our work by revealing it now," he said.

Mr. Black said he strongly favored metro but it could not be forced on municipalities.

The "first step" to which he alluded could come "very shortly," Mr. Black said.

Free vacation centres for the poor and welfare cases in B.C. were advocated by Victoria Socred J. Donald Smith.

Speaking during debate on social welfare estimates, the member said he had some correspondence with Sweden in this connection.

Everyone should be entitled to holidays, even though they are of limited means, Mr. Smith proposed.

It should be open to underprivileged mothers to take advantage of B.C.'s lakes, scenery and resort potential, he said.

BIG WEAKNESS

David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) agreed with the principle, but pointed out a weakness soon discovered in Sweden.

He warned the government, if it looks into the suggestion, to get older women to look after children of mothers on vacation. The Swedish system hardly got off the ground, he said, because wives did not trust husbands with the youthful "replacements" sent by the government.

It was not until the substitute mothers were drawn from women aged 55 or so that the plan started to work.

"There's nothing wrong with a woman of 55," Premier Bennett was quick to point out amid a whoop of laughter in the House.

The older you are, the bigger your pension should be, a Social Crediter suggested.

Bert Price (SC—Vancouver Burrard) said there should be a sliding scale of provincial allowances.

B.C. pays supplementary allowances to people over 70 and to those who prove need after the age of 65, Mr. Price said.

"I'm of the opinion people of 80 should have a few dollars more. And if they are 100 they should get a little more still."

He said he came to this conclusion after hearing about a man of 102½ who was going to lose $7 a month of his allowance because he received a small legacy from some friends.

AWAITS COURTHOUSE 'DELIVERY'

Strachan Delays Thanks

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's refrain to Works Minister W. N. Chant for a new court house at Duncan came closer to getting an assurance Tuesday during debate on the minister's salary vote in the legislature.

As he has asked for a number of previous sessions, Mr. Strachan wondered when and what facilities to expect.

Mr. Chant said they would be "more and better" than existing facilities and the building would provide more than court rooms—there would be other government offices as well.

And there would be "at least a magistrate's court," the minister said. He will discuss this matter more fully with the attorney-general's department, he said.

Mr. Strachan said he would reserve his thanks until the building is delivered.

ISLAND DIGEST

Planes to 'Fire' Chemical Pellets

The spreading of chemical pellets from a helicopter over several timber areas on Vancouver Island in June may spur the growth of trees by as much as 20 years, a logging executive estimated today.

William M. Sloan, Pacific Logging Company president, said the experimental tree fertilization project will cover 450 acres with 55 tons of urea nitrate in the form of pellets.

It is believed to be the biggest undertaking of this nature in North America. The work will start about June 1. The experiments will be conducted in the Nanaimo, Cowichan Lake and Alberni areas.

The project, to be conducted in co-operation with Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Trail, manufacturers of the fertlizer, will see pellets dropped on timber stands of 15 to 50 years of age. It is hoped the chemical fertilization will speed the growth of trees to loggable size more rapidly than the present average of 90 years.

MILLION TREES

Pacific will plant trees almost immediately after logging. In 1963 one million trees will be planted over 2,300 acres in the Lake Cowichan and Sooke areas. The 1963 program starts this week and planting would be increased over the next few years.

Establishment of seed orchards and seed production areas from which high-quality seed will be produced for future use is also part of Pacific Logging's long-range forestry program, Mr. Sloan said.

He said B.C. Forest Service, with the assistance of Pacific Logging, is felling large areas of dead trees which have presented a continuous fire hazard in the Lake Cowichan area for many years.

V.I. Dairymen Shun Fight Against Order

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island dairy farmers have decided not to join the mainland group in fighting a milk board order which has resulted in income cuts on milk returns.

END OF QUOTAS

John Hulbert, Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association treasurer and adviser, warned that the attack planned by mainland dairymen on the milk board's order might mean the end of the present quota system, and the flooding of the Island with mainland milk.

"We cannot afford to see the price of milk go down," he said. "But if the price set is not acceptable to the public then they won't buy."

SALES DROPPED

He said the milk board introduced the new order because milk sales were dropping.

He urged farmers to stick with the order which "will be rescinded when the market improves."

William Taylor of Saanich urged the group to join mainland dairymen to have the board's order rescinded.

He was backed by a petition signed by 42 persons.

K. E. Stanlake of Royal Oak pointed out consumer buying power was going up.

"The milk board feels the farmer should pay it all," he said. "There's a vacuum in board thinking."

DUNCAN ROUNDUP

'Downtown Must Pull Up Socks'

DUNCAN — A special committee has been appointed by city council to look into proposals for improving the downtown business section.

Council's action followed a suggestion made by H. J. H. Lee, a city planner from Vancouver representing T. Eaton Co. Ltd.

He told council the downtown section "must pull up its socks if it wants to draw successfully from a 26,000-customer potential in the future."

He recommended the city take another look at its zoning bylaws.

He also urged that customer parking be increased, store fronts uplifted and street appearances improved.

Preparation of a master plan which would also include provisions for new government buildings, and a new city hall, was also recommended by Mr. Lee.

Other officers are John Lawrence, first vice-president; Dr. W. McCauley, second vice-president; Ted Hearn, treasurer, and Peter Owen, secretary.

The annual Vancouver Island judo tournament will be held at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m., Saturday, in Cowichan High School.

Contestants are expected to take part from all over the Pacific Northwest. Host is Cowichan Judo Club.

The club, formed eight years ago, has several accredited instructors and owns a hall on Gibbons Road, near Duncan.

Several representatives of the Municipality of North Cowichan will travel to Victoria next Wednesday to said aboard the newest government ferry, "Queen of Esquimalt."

Tisdalle Opposes Promotion Fund

Saanich Socred John Tisdalle voted against his own party twice Tuesday night—protesting Sunday movies for Vancouver and new regulations on sale of milk on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Tisdalle also expressed opposition to a third measure, banning of sirens for ambulances in amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act—but he did not vote against the government bill on this.

Mr. Tisdalle's most outspoken protest was against a section of amendments to the Milk Industry Act which would set up a promotion fund for fluid milk vendors.

He said there should be separate provisions for Vancouver Island dairy farmers.

Mr. Tisdalle was the only government member to vote against the bill in third and final reading before the legislature.

MacPowell Denies Killing Fish In Alberni Inlet

PORT ALBERNI—A charge that dynamite used by the company for underwater construction has killed fish in the Alberni inlet has been denied by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd.

The charge was made by Bud Handley, secretary of the Nanaimo-Alberni District Trades and Labor Council.

The company said Mr. Handley's statements were unfounded.

Mayor Loran Jordon backed the company's statement. He said he had established the firm had not been dynamiting in the inlet.

Hunt Abandoned For Fisherman

NANAIMO — Search and Rescue officials have called off a search for a fishboat skipper missing and feared drowned offshore here.

They said Monday an air and sea search Sunday and Monday failed to find any trace of Russell Drummond, 54, of Nanaimo.

Mr. Drummond's boat, the Norjo, was found drifting and empty a mile off shore by the fishboat Angell.

S.A. Artist Cleared Of Blasphemy Charge

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Harold Rubin, 30, a Johannesburg artist, today was found not guilty in a regional court here of a charge of blasphemy for his controversial painting of Christ.

The painting entitled My Jesus was alleged to have slandered "Jesus Christ and-or God." It shows Christ nude on a cross, and the head was alleged to be "animal-like or monster-like."

An inscription written on the painting — "I forgive you, O Lord, you know not what you do"—also was alleged to be blasphemous.

Cecil Skotnes, president of the South African Council of Artists, told the court Rubin was a "most serious competent artist, with a very strong inclination to social conscience in his work."

Skotnes, himself a prominent artist, said the allegation that the head was monster-like could only arise from "complete bigotry or complete lack of understanding."

80 Years Separates Show Skaters

Skaters ranging in age from three to 83 will perform in the Ice Capers of 1963 Saturday at Memorial Arena.

There will be 600 of them, about 400 under 11 years.

JUNIOR CHAMP

Top billing will go to 13-year-old Jay Humphry of Vancouver who is Canadian junior champion. Despite his youth he is going to appear with world champion skaters in a Toronto show in early May.

Headliners in the Ice Capers will include Wendy Warne and Jimmy Watters, B.C. senior mixed champions, and Lorna Dyer and John Carroll, who represented the United States at the world figure skating championship in Italy earlier this month.

400 SKATERS

The winner of B.C.'s Most Artistic Skater Award, Heather Fraser, will be featured in a Pied Piper number that requires 400 skaters to present it.

Deirdre Humphries, the Victoria Figure Skating Club champion, will take the lead in the Snow Ballet and other leading city skaters in the show are Sharon Wood, Sandra Kattler and Richard Madden.

2:30 START

The afternoon show will be staged at 2:30 and cost of admission for children will be 50 cents. Children who attend the evening show at 8 will have to pay the same price as adults—$1.

The Ice Capers is an annual event presented by the Victoria Figure Skating Club.

'67th' Vets Swap Tales At Reunion

Old sweats of the 67th Battalion, Western Scots, who went overseas from Victoria in the First World War, caught up on news about each other and swapped yarns about old times Saturday night.

Said Harold Rourke: "There were 1,200 of us who left for overseas. As far as we know only 150 are left of the old gang."

Twelve old-timers died during the past year. The oldest member present for the reunion was A. de Clerk of Ladysmith, 87, who went to war when he was over 40.

U.S. VISITOR

Others at the meeting came from as far away as California and Edmonton to attend.

The chairman was Rev. Wallace Bryce of Vancouver, a stretcher-bearer in the unit. Altogether 66 managed to get to the meeting and they were piped into dinner by Jon Lowe, son of Jock Lowe of Duncan who was unable to attend.

Space Travel Funds Spent For Prestige

Keep both feet on the ground when thinking about outer space, Victoria Kiwanis were advised Tuesday.

Dr. Joseph Pearce, former head of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, told them to keep the subject of space exploration in proper perspective and remember its difficulties.

For example, he said, it would take a traveller 50 years to go to Sirius. Dr. Pearce suggested that politicians be the first people to attempt the journey.

He charged that money being spent on space travel is spent for prestige only. It may be possible for someone to land eventually on the moon, but it is extremely unlikely it will occur in the lifetime of anyone now living, he said.

Legislature Curtails Ambulance Siren Use

MLAs argued more than an hour Tuesday night about sirens on ambulances.

The opposition finally voted against an amentment to the Motor Vehicle Act which would make ambulances use flashing lights unless there was an emergency.

NDP members said ambulances were emergency vehicles and should be allowed to use their sirens.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who made the amendment, said that the medical profession requested them because it would be better for patients.

Mr. Bonner said that speeding ambulances could be "a menace."

Camille Mather (NDP—Delta) said that patients in ambulances were "happier" when they heard a siren.

Rae Eddie (NDP — New Westminster) said that ambulance services are competitive and that ambulance drivers sometimes even engage in fist fights about who should take a patient.

The amendment was finally approved 29-15 with the Liberal members voting with the government.

Changed Attitude Marked Queen's Australian Tour

LONDON (CP) — The Queen and Prince Philip, ending their visit to the Antipodes Tuesday, have received an almost unanimous accolade from newspapers here.

But the 37-day royal tour to New Zealand and Australia came under searching scrutiny as correspondents wrote of changing attitudes among the people, particularly in Australia.

Norman Riley, expressing what appears a consensus among the tour reporters, says in The Daily Telegraph it is clear fewer people turned out to see the Queen than on her tour nine years ago, the first visit to Australia by a reigning monarch.

"Any glib attempt to assess the tour by the box office method of counting heads seems to me to miss the whole spirit of the Queen's 35,000-mile engagement," Riley adds.

LESS FORMAL TRIP

The tour was organized by direct instructions from the Queen—on a much less formal basis than the 1953-54 affair and also received television coverage for the first time, enabling some folk to view proceedings from their living rooms.

Riley writes: "The success of the tour stands out clearly . . . in an atmosphere little understood at home. Australia's regard for Britain has a strange Jekyll-and-Hyde quality. Love turns to hate and back again in a trice.

"Australians were convinced that the only purpose of the tour was to provide some kind of a sop when it seemed certain that Britain would join the Common Market, and about 18 per cent of Australia's export trade would be placed in jeopardy."

ENHANCED IMAGE

William Fitter earlier wrote in The Observer that the tour was "100 per cent successful." The Queen, by her dignity and intense interest in Australian life, had enhanced the royal image and perhaps in future the monarch, or the prince, would find it possible to visit Australia each year.

Buckingham Palace officials have for the most part maintained a wary silence on the press stories from the tour but they quickly denied a report in the Sunday newspaper The People, that the palace would launch an investigation into the Queen's comparatively cool reception.

Running through the stories were suggestions that royal visits could well take a different form, with the Queen presiding at some important event, such as the opening of Parliament, rather than undertaking gruelling cross-country trips.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express said the tour was one of the quietest on record and blamed Britain's wooing of the Common Market, which had caused deep changes in Australia's attitude toward the mother country.

Under the question "has the royal tour been a flop?" The Daily Mirror ran comments from Australian editors. Here are samples:

Colin Bingham, Sydney Morning Herald: "It is nonsense to describe the royal tour as a flop. If the crowds were smaller hundreds of thousands followed the proceedings on TV with the greatest interest, even emotion."

Cecil Edwards, Herald, Melbourne:

"The tour has been neither a resounding success nor a dreadful flop. It was to have been an informal tour, but it wasn't."

John Wakefield, Brisbane Telegraph:

"Is this tour a flop? No, and neither has it been a riotous success. In Australia you just can't put two people on show for 37 days for the second time in nine years and expect the same acclaim."

WESTERN RED CEDAR "BEVEL" SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a homeowner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere, for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional — in any setting, urban or rural.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

Boone, who has proven to be one of today's most versatile and successful actors, will be host on each of the programs, appear in all as an actor and star in at least half of the planned Tuesday night offerings. He'll also shave off his moustache.

Boone, who has some 234 half-hour western adventure series under his gunbelt on another network, says: "In this first repertory television show, the performers will have identity as actors rather than characters. There will be a thread of acting continuity to keep the viewers coming back; yet the changing characters and settings will infuse vitality and excitement."

Some of the scripts will have Boone starring as a Roman Catholic bishop who faces an unusual emotional crisis, a down-and-out Santa Claus, a baseball player, a corporation executive and an airline pilot.

Boone promises the series will make audiences sit up and pay attention. "They might love us; they might get mad at us—but they won't be bored."

It's a mighty big promise. I don't play the piano, but like the man says: "I'm from Missouri, show me."

I'm Dickens . . . He's Fenster, relegated to a place by the wayside a few weeks ago, is suddenly very much alive due to a jump in ratings.

Sam Benedict, about to be disbarred because of rating trouble, has received an award which is rather late. The very first episode of the show has been nominated for the American Bar Association's 1963 Gavel Awards. The premiere offering starred Edmond O'Brien, Gene Raymond and Canada's Lloyd Bochner. It was telecast Sept. 15.

The awards program is the means through which the legal profession gives recognition to news and entertainment media for contributions to public understanding of the American legal and judicial system.

There are no plans to renew The Dakotas, the horrible western series which got its breath of life in January of this year.

The family that has stayed together longer than any other on radio or TV, The Nelsons, will start their second consecutive decade on TV next fall. The Nelsons, Ozzie, Harriet, David and Ricky, also claim another record . . . never without the all-important sponsor.

Jack Benny's summer replacement starting June 25 will be another game show. "Picture This," with Jerry Van Dyke (Dick's brother), as emcee will have guest celebrities appear each week.

NBC has discharged McKeever and the Colonel. It was a short hitch for Allyn Joslyn, Scott Lane and Jackie Coogan.

The new-found piano-playing talent from California who didn't make the White House will be seen again in the fall. Richard Nixon will be Jack Paar's first guest in the new fall season.

Powerful Teamster Union leader James Hoffa will appear in a special one-hour edition of David Brinkley's Journal April 1. Titled James Riddle Hoffa and His Teamsters, the program includes a lengthy interview with Hoffa by Brinkley in Hoffa's plush offices in union headquarters in Washington, D.C. Hoffa will discuss in blunt language, himself, his teamsters, Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, the teamsters' public image and his relationship with the AFL-CIO.

MERCRUISER

Now you can have an inboard that has all the advantages of an outboard. Mercruiser powered boats give you 4-cycle engine economy . . . the prestige and power of an inboard. And they give you all the manoeuvrability, portability and safety features of an outboard. No fixed struts or propeller shafts to break. Damaged props easily repaired without taking the boat out of the water. Very quiet. Many other features. Rio Meeting Blocked

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Police blocked the opening Tuesday night of a so-called Cuban solidarity conference in Rio de Janeiro. Its pro-Castro organizers switched the meeting to a place across the bay but Rio police arrested 53 delegates before they could get there. The arrested delegates were identified as labor union and left-wing Peasant League representatives. They were taken to police headquarters for questioning.

CADBORO BAY HIGH-RISE

One Vote to Decide

A Saanich councillor today has the power to determine whether a high-rise apartment will be built in the Cadboro Bay area.

Coun. Gregory Cook, who was unable to attend a public hearing Monday to consider a high-rise application, holds the vote which will decide the controversial zoning issue.

Council at the hearing voted four to two in favor of rezoning for high-rise apartment use a parcel of land on Haro Road overlooking Cadboro Bay.

But the vote was indecisive because Coun. Cook was absent. His vote is necessary because the bylaw cannot pass unless it is approved by a two-third majority on council.

The councillor is in bed with the flu.

FOUR IN FAVOR

Reeve Stanley Murphy and Coun. Harold Todd voted against.

The vote was a blow to some 200 residents from Cadboro Bay - Queenswood - Ten Mile Point districts who attended the meeting held in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall. Long after the meeting had ended they discussed in groups council's decision.

They had hoped for a decisive victory after submitting to council a petition signed by nearly 1,000 persons opposing the proposed apartment project.

The residents were represented by the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers Association and lawyer Louis Lindholm.

ONE VICTORY

Earlier, however, residents won a complete victory against two applicants who sought rezoning legislation for the construction of two garden apartments in Cadboro Bay Village near the shopping centre.

With the exception of Coun. Ostler, members of council turned down the applications.

But the main issue at stake was the application of Sherwood Oak Estate to erect a high-rise apartment on Haro Road, directly opposite the Victoria College Gordon Head campus.

Mr. Lindholm warned council that the application was the "thin edge of the wedge."

'CONCRETE CURTAIN'

"Do not allow the first cloak of a concrete curtain to take shape," he said. "If you allow one high-rise apartment, others will be sure to follow until the entire Cadboro Bay heights is ringed by a wall of concrete."

Mr. Lindholm reminded council that ratepayers voted in favor of a sewer bylaw two years ago with the assurance that the Cadboro Bay area and surrounding district would be preserved for single - family dwellings.

"The people want it that way and they have a right to want it that way," he said.

There were cheers from the crowd when the lawyer expressed the hope that council would carry out the will of the people and would "not seek to impose your will on them."

He said once a high-rise apartment was constructed in Cadboro Bay, there would be a need for more services which would give rise to a number of problems.

"The next thing you will have is a complex of high-rise and garden apartments and a large commercial area," he said. And you have created another "rabbit hill" in North America.

Sherwood Oak Estate was represented by Robert Price, lawyer, and a shareholder in the company. He asked council not to let its decision be influenced by the gathering's "show of force."

There were few people in the hall supporting the zoning application.

Mr. Price reminded council that it was the Saanich town planner who had recommended that the land in question be rezoned for high-rise.

"We never at any time requested or exerted any pressure to have this land rezoned," he said. "The planners' recommendations were made before we had any idea of erecting a high-rise apartment."

He said he could not see how council could ignore the recommendations of its expert, especially as he had made a thorough study of land uses in the area.

On several occasions Mr. Price was interrupted by boos and catcalls, and Reeve Murphy had to intervene.

He pleaded with the crowd to exercise some restraint or the meeting would degenerate into a "mad catcalling exhibition".

Mr. Price said contrary to the argument advanced by his opponents, property values would rise if a high-rise apartment went up in the area.

He also said the present water and sewer services were adequate to take care of the needs of a large apartment.

Gorge Sewage Disposal Raises Hepatitis Fear

Swimming in the Gorge should be banned if Saanich is successful in obtaining a permit to dump treated sewage effluent into Colquitz Creek, a pathologist told the B.C. pollution control board Tuesday.

Dr. Ross G. D. McNeely, Royal Jubilee Hospital pathologist, said there would be a danger that swimmers could contract infectious hepatitis from the effluent.

His testimony clashed with Dr. John Nelson, UBC associate professor and director of B.C. Hydro health services, that there is no recorded case of treated effluent causing an outbreak of infectious hepatitis.

Dr. McNeely said experiments have indicated that sewage treatment probably does not destroy the infectious hepatitis virus.

POOR MIXING

Esquimalt municipal engineer John Graeme said experiments he made this month indicate "very poor" tidal mixing conditions in Portage Inlet where the effluent would collect.

Metro health region chief Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said putting effluent into Portage Inlet "will not only introduce probable bacterial and organic contamination but also introduce organic waste."

The board was to continue its hearing today into Saanich's application for a permit to dump 750,000 gallons of sewage effluent a day into Colquitz Creek.

The application is opposed by Victoria, Esquimalt and the metro health board, all of which claim Saanich should pipe the effluent out to sea.

U.K. GETS BLUEPRINT TO CUT RAIL LOSSES

The plan calls for the closing of 2,363 stations and the withdrawal of service from about 5,000 miles of track through the country over an undisclosed period of time.

Even those preparing for the worst got a jolt when the details were announced. The various railway unions, given a preview of the report, have scheduled meetings to discuss it and already there is talk of a one-day protest strike.

WASH. UPS MARRIAGE AGE TO 17

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Governor Albert Rosellini signed a bill Tuesday setting 17 as the minimum age for marriages, but still allowing the "shotgun" wedding of young persons.

The new law permits a Superior Court judge to waive the minimum marriage age upon a showing "of necessity."

Washington courts have up to now operated under common law minimum marriage ages of 12 for girls and 14 for boys.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves, if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Advt.

Cuba Raiders Hit Soviet Freighter

By Arthur Mayse

Back of Mr. Speaker's baronial chair at the head of our House is a small, square trapdoor which opens into the press gallery. It has been proposed that one day we force this door, snatch parliament's watchdog through in his black robes and tricorn hat, and hold him hostage until we have assurance of better working quarters than the cramped and narrow barracoon in which newsmen ply their trade.

This tactic might backfire, though, since the press has no official existence in parliament, and Mr. Speaker holds awesome powers. Next to the premier who chooses him from the government ranks, he is the most important person in our House.

The other day I called on Mr. Speaker—since 1958 the Honorable Lorne Hugh Shantz—to learn about his tradition-encrusted role in the Legislative Assembly.

A Farmer by Love

Out from under the tricorn, Mr. Shantz is a pleasant-spoken man of 43, his hair scant but his face, even after the eight-week session, still weathered by the outdoors. North Okanagan is his riding and Vernon his town. There he is investment counsellor, real estate operator and notary public. On his farm he raises fine horses and purebred cattle, a hobby which one day may become a vocation.

As Speaker of our House, he administers a $450,000 budget and directs a staff of 65. Legislative Chamber, corridors, galleries and parliamentary dining room are all in his domain, and his functionaries include the sergeant-at-arms and corps of attendants.

But his prime task is what he terms his 'quasi-judicial' role as judge between right and wrong when the frequently-argumentive legislators take their seats in the chamber.

For Protection

This post, the member appointed accepts with stylized reluctance. Originally, he was a noble chosen by the king to speak for him to the hothead barons of the realm. Since the message was usually a demand for soldiers and money, speaker mortality ran high, even though the king's mouthpiece was given a sergeant-at-arms with a studded warclub—our shiny mace with its symbolic crown—to protect him.

"So when Mr. Bennett took me by one arm and the leader of the Opposition by the other," Mr. Shantz recalls, "I put up quite a convincing struggle. I held back, dug in my heels as they tugged me toward the speaker's chair, and announced repeatedly, 'I am unwilling!'

"Actually, I'd hoped for the appointment, and studied for it. As deputy speaker in 1953, I'd gained some experience."

Mr. Shantz added, smiling, "It's still a thankless job. one can't criticize the Speaker, but his ruling may be challenged, in which case I must immediately put it to a vote of the House."

To Be Named

Only Mr. Speaker may address a member by name on the legislative floor. To be 'named' means that the lawmaker in question has offended very seriously against parliamentary rules or decorum. Out he goes, under escort, expelled for a sitting or even a session.

From king's representative, the Speaker through the centuries became parliament's champion. The transition was completed when Charles I broke through barred doors of the House of Commons with armed men to inquire into the legislators' doings.

"Sir," Mr. Speaker is credited with replying, "I have neither eyes to see nor ears to hear what parliament has done this day."

A mighty man, Mr. Speaker. After all, look what happened to Charley!

'THE TURN IS TOWARD US'

CROWD NEARLY TRIPLED FOR LEADER

'Surprises Again,' Thompson Predicts

National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson drew a crowd of 1,100 Tuesday night in Victoria where he attracted only 400 in a federal election meeting last May.

And in the same Central Junior High School auditorium where he made some accurate predictions last May 31, he predicted:

"You are going to be surprised again."

Last year he said his party would take 18 to 30 seats in Quebec. (The Socreds won 26 in Quebec, 30 across Canada.)

On Tuesday he said: "If the bumbling of the Liberal backroom boys continues, we are going to take practically all the seats (in Quebec)."

"You are going to find that the tremendous, undetermined vote is going to turn day by day toward us.

"We have as good a chance of forming the next government after April 8, as any party has," he said.

Mr. Thompson said his party is going to form the government of Canada "a lot sooner than many think."

Two other predictions he made in Victoria last May were borne out after the June 8 election — he had forecast another general election within a year.

And he had forecast that in the 25th (last) Parliament, the Socreds would hold the balance of power.

Business First

On Tuesday he forecast that Canada, because of a loss of faith in Tory and Liberal governments, is looking for a new government which would put the business of the country ahead of political expediency.

He said in 1957 Canada fired the Liberal regime for "messing things up" and in 1963, when it fires the Conservatives, Canada won't strongly favor re-hiring the Liberals.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was more optimistic than Mr. Thompson. The premier said Social Credit was the only united party and on April 8, Mr. Thompson would become the next prime minister.

Other speakers, Victoria candidate Ald. M. H. Mooney and Esquimalt-Saanich candidate Edward Lum, meeting chairman and Young Socreds national president Dr. Charles Ennals, B.C. Works Minister W. N. Chant and Esquimalt Socred MLA Herbert Bruch, were each as optimistic.

Even Victoria soprano, Mrs. Myrna Jenkins, who sang three solos, appeared to inject rally enthusiasm in songs, Come To the Fair, You'll Never Walk Alone and Bless This House.

Problem Here

Mr. Thompson nodded agreement with Mr. Chant, who said Victoria has a problem in this election. The Tory party is split on the nuclear arms question and the Liberals "have two candidates running." The only

PM Denies 'Secret U.S. Document'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today repudiated as "completely false" a Southam News Service report that he is carrying a secret United States document that is the "root cause of much of his bitterness" toward the States.

The denial was published by the Winnipeg Tribune, a Southam newspaper, together with the report, written by Charles Lynch from Ottawa. The denial came from Kelowna, B.C., where Mr. Diefenbaker addressed a meeting Tuesday.

Lynch writes that the document, marked secret, is a White House working paper brought to Ottawa by President Kennedy's party in May, 1961.

writes, by presidential advisor Walt Rostow as a guide for the president in his talks with Mr. Diefenbaker and in his speech to the Canadian Parliament May 17, 1961.

The story says Mr. Diefenbaker has had the document for almost two years and the U.S. state department press release taking issue with his defence policy speech in the Commons earlier this year "caused him to retrieve the document and threaten to make it public."

ACCEPTED PRESSURES

However, it says, the prime minister "accepted the pressures brought upon him within the cabinet to keep the document secret."

On details of the document, Lynch writes:

"According to these reports, the document advised the president that Canada should 'be pushed' to accept nuclear weapons under joint control; to join the OAS (Organization of American States); to decrease her trade with Communist China and Cuba, and to ratify the Columbia River treaty.

"Possible pressures to be brought to bear in achieving these objectives were the threat of cuts in U.S. defence production sharing, and the possibilities of quotas or increased tariffs against Canadian gas and oil, lead and zinc, and timber products entering the U.S. market."

Pearson Disputes John D.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson produced Tuesday a series of quotations from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent public that the Bomarc could have nubranded them all as "misleading and inaccurate."

In a 900-word statement, Mr Pearson undertook to prove his point by matching the Diefenbaker quotations against "the facts from other sources" including statements by the three cabinet ministers who resigned, NORAD, the U.S. state department and others.

Party officials said later the Diefenbaker quotations were taken from tape recordings of his campaign speeches, but declined to say who made the recordings. The statement was issued to reporters en route by plane and bus to Belleville.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in a Halifax speech March 15 that "we have no commitments that we have not discharged."

QUOTES HARKNESS

Mr. Pearson's statement then quoted former defence minister Harkness as saying the government has accepted a commitment and if it is to be met, "the accepted armament" must be obtained for the CF-104. Former trade minister Hees was quoted as saying "our present defence policy does not either fulfil our commitments or provide for the security of our country."

A key point in Mr. Pearson's statement dealt with nuclear warheads for weapons in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in Winnipeg March 4: "Insofar as our bombers are concerned, we have negotiated and have been successful so that if war comes there will be available and accessible atomic warheads for the Voodoo in Canada."

Then followed the U.S. state department statement of Jan. 30 saying that the question of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and "for other nuclear-capable weapons systems acquired by Canada has been the subject of inconclusive discussions between the two governments."

State Secretary Rusk was quoted as saying March 11 that Canada-U.S. negotiations on nuclear weapons "are con-

VOLCANO TOLL LESS BUT BALI DEVASTATED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Governor of the volcano-scorched island of Bali, A. B. Sutedja, said today the death toll from the week-old eruption of Mount Agung is nearly 1,500 and climbing, but is nowhere near the 11,000 deaths reported Tuesday by a Red Cross official.

Sutedja told a press conference one-fifth of the "paradise island" has been destroyed by hot mud and lava, and 75,000 persons need immediate help.

The governor said 3,000 persons in the village of Amed in the southeast coast still could not be rescued because the area was surrounded by boiling lava, and aid could only reach them from the sea.

ROAD PROBE CONTINUES

House Rises This Afternoon

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Prorogation of the legislature was timed for mid-afternoon today, but not all its business is over.

Premier Bennett and Opposition leader Robert Strachan said they expected the session to end between 3 and 4 p.m.

But 13 MLAs will work on—as members of a special board of inquiry into allegations of highway graft.

After giving royal assent to 70 bills, and officially closing the legislature, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was due to go to Vancouver with Premier Bennett to meet the Queen.

Her aircraft will stop for refuelling on the way from Australia to England.

The legislature sat this morning to wind up its affairs.

No luncheon adjournment was called and MLAs went out in teams to eat.

Those who remained in the House debated the estimates of Recreation and Transport Minister Earle Westwood.

There were also 24 resolutions to be handled, some of them controversial, including the call for a royal commission into gasoline prices by Omineca Socred Cyril Shelford.

45 DAYS

The session lasted 45 days, the same as in 1962, which was the longest in 42 years.

There were only eight night sittings, but the public accounts committee, now turned into a board of inquiry, sat seven nights on its investigation of the highway charges.

This was the major issue of the session—and the only explosive one in a relatively mild and peaceful eight weeks.

It charged that a contracting company was paid $135,000 for work never done, that the organist in Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi's church was paid $350 a month by the firm, and that Mr. Gaglardi prevailed upon one of the company officers to pay off a mortgage for a friend in return for future favors.

MEETS THURSDAY

The board of inquiry will carry on its sittings as long as it wants.

It meets again Thursday morning.

There are still a number of witnesses to be heard.

The only other issue to excite the House was higher education following publication of a special report by University of B.C. President Dr. John Macdonald.

It resulted in some harsh words, particularly from the Liberals, about government aid to universities.

But it also resulted in legislation establishing Victoria College as a university, setting up a completely new Simon Fraser University, and allowing establishment of two-year junior colleges anywhere in the province.

As for more money—the new universities act says that the premier and Education Minister Leslie Peterson can this year authorize extra expenditures if needed from general revenue.

RECORD BUDGET

Mr. Bennett presented a record budget of $372,705,575, and also legislation removing tolls from five bridges.

He boosted the homeowner grant from $50 to $70, also providing for further $15 increases next year and in 1965.

The 5 per cent amusement tax was also abolished.

Mr. Shelford's campaign against the big oil companies was a lively personal issue, and it precipitated a gas price war in Victoria which is still going on.

In Danger Of Sinking

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Russian freighter was attacked and damaged severely by anti-Castro forces Tuesday night in the Cuban sugar port of Isabela de Sagua, the Miami News said today.

A spokesman for Commando L, an anti-Castro action organization, told the news the freighter still is afloat, but badly in need of repair to keep it from sinking.

A raiding party carried out the attack, then returned safely and without casualties to its base "somewhere in the Caribbean," the spokesman said.

Russ Protest 'Pirate Affair'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union today protested to the United States embassy here against a "pirate attack" on a Soviet merchant ship in the Caribbean sea March 17.

A protest note sent to the United States embassy charged that Cuban "counter-revolutionaries" approached the merchant ship Lgov from the sea on a cutter and fired several bursts at the ship from a heavy calibre machine-gun.

The note said the Soviet government expects "resolute steps will be taken by the United States government not to allow similar provocative actions in future."

Without the support of the United States and the supply of American weapons and vessels the group of "traitors to the Cuban people, sheltering on United States territory, could not engage in such provocations."

The note said the United States was in fact leading the matter up to a dangerous exacerbation of the situation in the Caribbean Sea area and in the whole world.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department denied today Russia's charge that the U.S. government is responsible for a recent attack on a Soviet freighter in a Cuban port.

Even before the Kremlin protest had been received officially here, state department press officer Lincoln White referred reports to earlier U.S. condemnations of the March 17 raid by anti-Castro Cuban exiles.

Plane Survivor Will Lose Toes

(See story Page 23)

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Two Americans, forgotten by the world after disappearing in Canada's northern wilderness, today faced the glare of world publicity.

Ralph Flores, 42, of San Bruno, Calif., and Helen Klaben, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., now look forward to seeing relatives they haven't seen in weeks.

Both fell under constant questioning from newspapermen Monday and Tuesday. So hectic were the sessions that a Tuesday night conference was cancelled to give them more time to themselves and a chance to rest.

Dr. Nesta James said both had rested well and had gone to sleep peacefully Tuesday night.

MUST AMPUTATE

The girl's toes on her right foot also were frostbitten and will be amputated in an operation here. No date has been set for the operation but Miss Klaben's brother flies to Whitehorse from New York today.

The heavy questioning by newspapermen placed both under heavy strain Tuesday.

Both she and Flores plan to write books about their experiences.

Dief Takes On Socreds In Bennett's Hometown

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

KELOWNA, B.C. — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday again hit back at U.S. suggestions that Canada was not doing enough in foreign aid.

"I am not here to take any lectures from anyone on what Canada has done on assistance," he told an election rally audience of about 1,000.

He admitted that Canada's contribution to Colombo Plan aid had been reduced last year from $50 million to $41 million, but declared that it was still "a great deal more than it was when we took office."

Another foreign aid field in which Canada had played a major part, he said, was in seeking to feed the world's hungry. Mr. Diefenbaker said he had proposed a world food bank which originally was not accepted.

"They said it wouldn't work," he said. "But we asked it in the United Nations."

'STARTER'

It was approved and Canada was making her contribution—"I think it is $10 million, as a starter."

In his 80-minute speech Mr. Diefenbaker was seeking to hold and gain Conservative votes in the Okanagan Valley—which elected two Conservative MPs in the last election.

He was campaigning Tuesday night in the home town of B.C. Social Credit Premier W. A. C. Bennett. While he didn't mention Mr. Bennett by name, he fired a few barbs in the premier's direction, and in the direction of the national Social Credit policy.

He accused the B.C. government of holding up Columbia River development—a project "we are most anxious to proceed with."

He also said his government was not being given enough credit for its 75 per cent contributions towards the cost of vocational schools.

"Some of the provincial premiers take the credit—and I have nobody in mind," he said with a smile which suggested he did have a certain premier in mind.

Another area in which Ottawa should get more credit, he suggested, was in its contributions towards the cost of Trans-Canada Highway construction, built in co-operation with the provinces.

"We completed the Trans-Canada," he said, "and I don't think we got very much credit for that."

In attacking Social Credit,

Just Keep Beer Flowing

DARWIN, Australia (AP)—Hall's Creek is a cattle township 700 miles southwest of Darwin and monsoon rains have isolated it by road since early January. The weather people says it will be mid-April before anyone can get there by road, and there is no railroad.

But are the 500 people of Hall's Creek alarmed? No, this is rugged Australia.

The first telegram from the flood-bound town's only storekeeper to his Darwin supplier was sent Jan. 10 and read: "Please air freight as many as possible cartons of canned beer in place of usual perishables. Desperate. Town out of beer."

Food on the next plane was replaced by 100 dozen cans of beer.

Since then there have been telegrams each week or so, among them:

Jan. 21: Operation Beer highly successful. Desperate again. Can you repeat this week plus four bags potatoes, one bag onions?

Feb. 6: Please repeat beer, plus four bags potatoes, one bag onions.

Feb. 18: Town still thirsty. Require more beer this week.

Feb. 25: Require beer, milk, ice cream, chops, six bags potatoes, one bag onions.

March 7: Need ice cream, milk, potatoes, onions and as much beer as you can load.

That March 7 telegram is the pattern on which the Hall's Creek grocer has settled.

Gone fishin'.

Disillusionment Found Among Manitoba Voters

This is one of a series of studies of the Canadian General Election. It is compiled by a Montreal-born social scientist and is sponsored jointly by The Montreal Star and the University of Rochester.

By S. PETER REGENSTREIF

WINNIPEG — Support is slowly slipping away from the Conservatives in Manitoba. The absence of leadership, economic questions and the unstable situation are the issues here.

What is of almost equal importance, however, is that the entire atmosphere of the province is one of considerable disillusionment with the state of Canadian national politics.

A St. James salesman in the constituency of Winnipeg South Centre expressed his unhappiness in this way:

"None of them are proper leaders. Maybe between now and April 8 someone will say something sane. Not nuclear arms and not promising one hundred bucks for everyone at age 52 or some other nonsense. We are going to have another fouled-up government. No one has the guts to form a coalition. We've got politicians—not statesmen."

Brians Unite for United

Habs Lacking the Pep That Hull Gave Hawks

'Ailing' Winger Fires Chicago With Two Goals

CHICAGO (CP)—There have been all sorts of heroics performed by individuals in the 60-year history of the Stanley Cup. Bobby Hull has added another.

The muscular young Chicago Black Hawk leftwinger spiced it up with a two-goal performance Tuesday night as the Hawks defeated Detroit Red Wings 5-4 in the opener of the best-of-seven cup semi-final. He accomplished it with a bum right shoulder, diagnosed as a "slight separation."

"I can't do the club any good playing with one arm," Hull told reporters a few hours before the faceoff. He said he would watch the game from the stands.

But the blond bomber, a mainstay of the Hawks the last couple of seasons, later decided to give it the old college try.

"He gave us a terrific boost" chortled coach Rudy Pilous. "We had a meeting of minds this afternoon after Bobby worked out and we decided he could give it a try."

GAVE THEM LEAD

His goals gave them a 2-1 first-period lead and they never looked back. They increased it to 5-2 after the second period and then held on with the Wings catching fire early in the third.

"It hurts more now than before the game," Hull said in the dressing room. "I was lucky I could shoot at all and both of my goals in the first period were wrist shots."

The Hawks, who frittered away the National Hockey League lead by winning only two of their final 12 regular-scheduled games and finished second behind Toronto Maple Leafs, deserved the win. But there were times when it appeared neither team wanted the game, played before 15,491 fans.

The defensive corps were loose and the Hawks, who usually try to soften up the opposition with stiff bodychecking early in the game, played it cozy. Despite this, referee Vern Buffey called 14 penalties, only five against Chicago, with winger Murray Balfour getting three for roughing, high sticking and holding.

The game was "kind of loose," summed up Pilous.

MAY BE DIFFERENT

"I think this will still be a close, hard series," was the comment of Detroit coach Sid Abel. "And it could be a different series when we get Chicago on our own ice."

The second game will be played here Thursday night with the third and fourth games at Detroit Sunday and Tuesday.

Hull, who opened the scoring at 9:08 of the first period, got his second while defenceman Pete Goegan was sitting out a holding penalty. Howie Young, fiery Detroit defenceman - forward who was chased off on four occasions, was watching from the penalty box in the second period when Ab McDonald scored for the Hawks.

Other Chicago scorers were Eric Nesterenko and Red Hay. Detroit marksmen were Marcel Pronovost, Vic Stasiuk, Alex Delvecchio and Gord Howe.

Glenn Hall, Chicago's goalkeeper who won the Vezina Trophy this season for the first time, made 29 saves against 31 by Detroit's Terry Sawchuk.

. . . sharp in goal

'Lack of Drive' Hurts Canadiens In Opening Bout

Unless they improved, the Montreal coach said Monday, they could lose their Stanley Cup semi-final to Toronto Maple Leafs in four straight games. The Habs promptly dropped the opener 3-1 Tuesday night and looked as if they could keep on doing the same all through the best-of-seven series.

The Leafs, who finished in first place by a whisker in the regular schedule, played well. But, had the Canadiens provided the formidable opposition they did in days gone by it might have been a different story.

Jacques Plante, the veteran Canadiens goaltender continually beset by physical ailments who only Tuesday complained to Blake of an attack of asthma, played the role he so often does in time of need—a sensational one.

PREVENT RUNAWAY

Plante, Billy Hicke and veterans Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion provided the mettle that kept Leafs from making the game a runaway before 13,800 fans, the smallest crowd of the season here.

Second game of the series is here Thursday night. The action then swings to Montreal for games Saturday and Tuesday.

All the scoring was in the first two periods, with the Leafs getting their goals before Jean Beliveau scored the lone Montreal goal. And the Leafs were short two men for the second time in the game when he beat Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower.

Plante, who made 31 saves to Bower's 19, had no chance on the last two Leaf goals, but he might have stopped the first, by Pulford at 3:30 of the first period, if his defence had been willing to hit.

TREMBLAY IS 'GOAT'

Bower, who got an assist on the goal, cleared the puck to defenceman Allan Stanley and Stanley passed to Pulford. Montreal defenceman J. C. Tremblay stayed in front of Pulford while the Leaf skated across the goalmouth, but he made no apparent effort to squeeze Pulford out of scoring position.

Pulford's shot hit Tremblay's stick and it trickled by the offbalance Plante, who had braced for a hard shot.

As Plante put it: "Those kind usually end up in the seats but this one just slowed down. I was going one way and it was going the other."

Armstrong made it 3-0 at 5:35, swatting a bouncing puck past Plante from close in. Geoffrion was off for high-sticking Pulford at the time.

Pulford and Ed Litzenberger were in the penalty box when Beliveau beat Bower at 8:46, scooping the rebound of a blueline shot by rookie defenceman Jacques Laperriere into the net.

GRABS KELLY'S SIZZLER

Plante made particularly good saves on such Leafs as Red Kelly, Keon and Pulford. One save, a beautiful catch of a screened sizzler by Kelly in the second period brought a roar from the crowd.

The Leafs had lost their last seven post-season encounters with Montreal. Before Tuesday night, their most recent playoff victory over Montreal was in the third game of the 1959 final.

Blake ascribed the Canadiens' troubles Tuesday night to a lack of drive.

"There weren't enough guys giving," he said. "We have to have everybody up at the same time and that sure didn't happen tonight."

HOMER BEATS YANKS

Al Kaline's Bat Boom in Spring

(By the Associated Press)

Al Kaline, enjoying his best spring training season, hit a homer in the sixth inning Tuesday to give Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over New York Yankees at Fort Lauderdale.

It was the fifth homer of the exhibition season for the veteran outfielder who apparently has fully recovered from the broken collarbone he suffered in a game against the Yankees last season.

Don Mossi backed up Kaline's homer with some fine pitching. The Yanks got their lone run in the seventh on singles by Roger Maris, Hector Lopez and Phil Linz. It broke a string of 16 scoreless innings for Mossi.

Kansas City replaced Baltimore at the top of the American League exhibition standings by defeating Washington, 7-6, at Daytona Beach. It was the Athletics' fourth straight victory and gave them an 11-4 record.

Rookie Dick Green doubled home the winning run as the Athletics pulled the game out with a four-run uprising in the ninth. Green had three hits, including a triple and two doubles.

BOWSFIELD WINS

Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C., started for Kansas City and gave up all of the Senators' runs on nine hits. He pitched through the seventh to get credit for the win. He was replaced by Dale Willis.

Four-run rallies in the ninth brought Los Angeles Angels a 4-2 victory over San Francisco at Phoenix and Houston Colts a 6-4 triumph over Chicago Cubs at Mesa.

Henry Cooper Keeps Titles

LONDON (AP) — Henry Cooper retained his British and Empire heavyweight boxing titles with a fifth-round knockout of challenger Dick Richardson of Wales before a crowd of 11,000 at Wembley Stadium Tuesday night.

DUKE PULLED OFF WAIVERS

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Los Angeles Dodgers withdrew outfielder Duke Snider from the waiver list Tuesday after he was claimed by both New York teams, the Mets and the Yankees.

"Snider has been on the waiver list before," said Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi, "and we had five other players on the list with him this time."

Snider, 36, was one of the Dodgers great heroes in their pre-Los Angeles Brooklyn days. He batted .336 and .341 in 1953 and 1954 and has played in six World Series, five with Brooklyn.

Handicap of 11 Cutoff Point In Times Open

The starters have been handed their post positions and this much, at least, must be said about the Times Open golf field:

"Count everybody."

Only golfers with handicaps of 11 or better got under the cutoff figure of 160 when the draw for the Vancouver Island Open golf championships was made Tuesday night.

The low-handicap group supplies most of the clear-cut favorites, but it is not unreasonable to suggest that each of the 160 has a chance to pick up The Daily Times trophy.

Remember, for example, Roy Jago? The Gorge Vale amateur was flirting with a 13 handicap in 1959 when he qualified for one of the 32 berths. Jago defeated Mike Kolb in the first round of match play and came within a whisker of passing his second-round test.

UPSET MISSED

Jago's second-round opponent was Frank Scroggs, out of the low-handicap bracket and one who later that summer went on to claim the City Amateur title.

The unheralded Jago was one up playing the 18th at Gorge Vale. The upset was all but completed when Jago put his second shot on the 18th green while Scroggs missed with his approach. However, Scroggs sank a sensational chip shot for a birdie three while Jago two-putted for a par. That squared the match and Scroggs went on to triumph on the 21st hole.

At any rate, Jago proved that some of the higher handicap players do have their innings.

To claim the Times Trophy, however, they have to be consistently at the peak of their game for six straight weeks. They must pass the qualifying test and five match-play rounds that take them to each of Victoria's four major courses—Oak Bay, Colwood, Gorge Vale and Uplands.

The first test—the qualifying—comes up Sunday at Victoria Golf Club. Only 64 golfers (32 in the open and 32 in a handicap division for the Hugh Francis Trophy) qualify for the start of match play the following weekend.

A total of 209 entries were received by tournament secretary Leo Derman. Preference was given Tuesday to the low handicapped players. The last spots went to 15 of 19 players with handicaps of 11. Four were eliminated through a draw.

Golfers who did not have their entries accepted can pick up their entry fees from their club secretaries.

Six More Withdrawn From Grand National

LONDON (AP)—Six horses were withdrawn today from the Grand National, leaving 47 in the big race to be run at Aintree next Saturday.

At the three-day acceptors stage, Loch Sloy, Lancebay, Slight Hitch, Skish and Hiawatha II were pulled out. Later Groomsman also was scratched. All were outsiders at long odds of 100 to 1 or more.

Of the horses in the second acceptors' list last week Duplicator, Rattling Run and Fredith's Son had been scratched.

Still favored for the National, one of the world's toughest races, involving 30 fearsome fences and a circuit of approximately 4½ miles, is Springbok, quoted at 10 to 1.

OHIO CONSIDERS BILL . . . . . . TO BAN PRO BOXING

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

L. C. Morgan, once a high-ranking lightweight contender, and three other boxers have quit the ring as a result of the death Monday of Davey Moore.

In another aftermath of the death of the dethroned featherweight champion from brain injuries in his title fight with Cuban Sugar Ramos, three state representatives sponsored a bill Tuesday to outlaw professional boxing in Ohio, Moore's home state.

"Due to the unfortunate death of one of Ohio's outstanding athletes, we feel that professional boxing should come to a halt," they said in a joint statement.

The Ohio legislature has seen fit to outlaw dog fights, bear fights and cockfights. The least they could do is the same for humans."

More than 10,000 persons filed by the casket of Moore Tuesday as the body of the 29-year-old fighter lay in state for 10 hours at a Los Angeles funeral home.

Funeral services will be held in Springfield, Ohio, Saturday.

Morgan, 29, of Youngstown, Ohio, was a long-time friend of the late fighter. He had been scheduled to meet middleweight Bobby Pena of Mexico at Phoenix tonight.

Phoenix promoter Paavo Ketonen said: "Morgan told me he had a wife and three kids and just couldn't take chances like that."

Morgan's 60 victories included 35 by knockouts.

The other three fighters who hung up their gloves were heavyweight Willie Davis of Philadelphia, middleweight Aaron Peralta of Santa Ana, Calif., and Chuck Tolliver of Los Angeles.

They were supposed to fight Monday night but they all dropped out of promoter Joe Louis' boxing show. They said they were quitting because of Moore's death.

But the show went on—and with almost tragic results.

Wilhelm von Homberg knocked out Pete Gonzales in the third round of a 10-rounder. Both are from Los Angeles.

Because of Moore's disastrous crash into the ropes at Dodger Stadium, a thick foam rubber covering was applied to the strands. It saved Gonzales from possible serious injury.

Floored four times in the first two rounds, Gonzales went down and in the third round and the back of his head struck the lower rope. He was not hurt.

Thailand Boxer Dies From Stomach Kick

Ekachit later complained of severe stomach pains resulting from the knockout kick, and was taken to a hospital where he died.

Baker Snubs Argos, Signs Ram Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Terry Baker, Oregon State's all-round athletic star, has agreed to play professional football with Los Angeles Rams.

The All American quarterback, United States college player of the year in 1962, signed a three-year contract with the National Football League club Tuesday night.

Terms were not disclosed, but Baker is believed to have been guaranteed $25,000 a year plus a bonus for signing. The first draft choice of the Rams, he was also picked by Oakland Raiders of the American League and was reported to have been offered $100,000 by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

CHARLES HAMILTON
. . . challenge up north

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Charles (Chuck) Hamilton, 32-year-old pilot of a Yukon Airlines plane, who spotted the two survivors of a Feb. 4 plane crash near Watson Lake Sunday, was a native Victorian who went north two years ago because he was "bored" with life down here.

"It was too humdrum," said the 6-ft. 2-in. pilot in an interview at Watson Lake. "I'd rather live in the North than anywhere else."

The father of two boys and a girl, all under five years old, Mr. Hamilton operated his own business as a floor-laying contractor in Victoria.

He went north for a holiday in 1960 and decided to join his brother-in-law, Hal Komish, as a partner in Yukon Air Lines, a charter-flying business.

His wife, the former Marion Bowles of Chemainus, was all in favor of settling in the north. She said Mr. Hamilton loves flying "because it is a kind of challenge to him."

Mr. Hamilton took up flying in the Yukon in 1960 and, soon after, received his pilot's licence. He returned to Victoria two months ago and qualified for a commercial pilot's licence at Patricia Bay Airport.

Educated at Esquimalt High School, he was known here as a keen fisherman and is still a member of Victoria Fish and Game Club.

"We were all very thrilled to read of his achievement," Mr. Hamilton said.

Recounting his adventure at Watson Lake, Charles Hamilton, said he spotted the distress message of the crash survivors—Helen Klaben and Ralph Flores—in the densely-wooded Rocky Mountain Trench Sunday.

On Monday he tramped on cumbersome snowshoes to the tarpaulin lean-to and carried Miss Klaben piggy-back to his plane, three miles away. The girl was weak and had frost-bitten feet and a broken arm.

"I was amazed she was still alive," he said. "I had long ago given them both up for dead. I can still hardly believe it."

Miss Klaben, 21-year-old office worker from Brooklyn, N.Y., and Flores, 42-year-old electrical worker from San Bruno, Calif., had been trapped in the frigid remote area for seven weeks.

Well, this is one night I won't have any trouble going to sleep . . . boy, am I tired . . . I'm too old for carrying on the way I did last night . . . imagine me cavorting around the Empress Hotel in the wee small hours . . . no wonder I'm so tired . . . and it will be so easy to go to sleep . . . but it's a good thing I resisted the temptation to make myself a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . .

. . . snrrff . . . sigh . . . yep, a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich would have kept me awake half the night . . . in spite of the fact those International Festival people kept me up until 3 o'clock . . . 3 o'clock in the morning, ta, ta, tee tum, tum tum . . . that was a grand old song . . . I like the way the old songs are coming back . . . and the big bands, too . . . there's nothing like a big band . . . unless it's a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . . but I must get to sleep now . . .

. . . I should be asleep in a matter of minutes . . . wonder if I just turned over on the other side . . . no, tossing and turning never put a man to sleep . . . it's a long toss that has no turning . . . that's not very bright, couldn't even use it in the column . . . column, jumping jalopies, I haven't written tomorrow's column yet . . . what will I write tomorrow's column about? . . . maybe I could discuss the best way to make a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich . . . bacon nice and crisp and hot, tomato sliced nice and thin, nice and cold . . .

. . . but it's a good thing I didn't make one before I came to bed . . . I'd never get to sleep . . . as it is, I'll be asleep in just a few seconds . . . well, minutes, maybe . . . I'm so tired I could cry . . . that would make a good song title, I'm so tired I could cry, but I'm tired of crying, too . . . mm, tum, tee, tee, tum tum might make a good tune . . . good tunes make lots of money . . . if a man could write a tune and get it on the hit parade, he'd be able to take it easy the rest of his life and have all the toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches a man could wish for . . .

. . . but I'm certainly glad I didn't make a bacon and tomato sandwich before I came to bed . . . and it's great to be in bed so early . . . imagine that wife of mine, tired as she is, insisting on reading for an hour before she goes to bed . . . if she came to bed early, she'd go to sleep, right away, just as I am doing . . .

. . . of course, she may be hungry . . . perhaps that's why she is sitting up, reading . . . perhaps she is just waiting for me to go to sleep before she makes a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich for herself . . .

. . . snff, snff . . . is that bacon frying? . . . no, it's just my imagination . . . I'll just go to sleep now and forget all about . . . by the great horned toad, that IS bacon frying . . .

. . . dear, as long as you're making a toasted bacon and tomato sandwich for yourself, you may as well . . .

'POP' SHANKS
. . . funeral Friday

He Bet on Future Of Cars—and Won

Richard (Pop) Shanks—one of Britain's first motor mechanics and co-founder of Victoria Motorcycle Club in 1912—died here Tuesday in his 88th year.

He opened a bicycle store at Waybridge, Surrey, England, in 1903, and the following year hung out a sign, "Motor Cars Repaired." The store thus became one of Britain's very first garages.

An elderly neighbor told him motor cars would never amount to anything—but Mr. Shanks knew better. He built up a thriving business and sold it in 1911 when he migrated to Canada.

Moving to Victoria in 1912, he worked in a garage for a while; then opened his own motorcycle shop at 937 Fort Street. As Shanks Motorcycles, the business is carried on by his son, Reginald.

TRAIL-BREAKER

As co-founder and charter member of Victoria Motorcycle Club, Mr. Shanks was one of three trail-breakers who rode the first motor bikes over the rugged Cariboo Trail.

Until his retirement a few years ago, he rode to work daily on a heavy police motorcycle. Because these motorcycles are hard to "kick off," Mr. Shanks developed his own self-starter and this enabled him to fire the engine by pressing a button.

TENNIS PLAYER

A keen sportsman, Mr. Shanks once reached the semi-final of the veterans' B.C. tennis championships. He was also an avid lawn bowler and managed Victoria's cup-winning Sons of England soccer team in the early 1920s.

Funeral services will be held in Chaplin's chapel Friday at 2 p.m. Mr. Shanks leaves a widow; two sons, Reg and Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. Frank Boughton, of Victoria.

HE DIDN'T GO STRAIGHT EITHER WAY

A man recently released from Haney Correctional Institute was fined $200 in city and Oak Bay police courts today, after pleading guilty to three charges involving a car taken from a Kings Road address early this morning.

Keith A. Shepherd, 21, admitted taking the car without the owner's consent about 1 a.m., driving it up the Malahat and returning to Oak Bay by about 3:45 a.m., when he was seen travelling at 60 mph along Cadboro Bay Road and weaving from side to side.

He was fined $100 for taking the car, $75 for careless driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

12-Mile Fishing Limit Asked by Legislators

PRODIGAL PEDIGREED POOCH was received with open arms by owner Mrs. Vern Exton, 3651 Quadra, after an adventurous three days away from home. "Nicky," a two-year-old Samoyed valued at $300, is believed to have wandered off sometime Friday night. He was seen being loaded into a car at Douglas and Topaz early Saturday morning, but was released in the 1700 block Fernwood soon after. After an appeal appeared in Monday's Times, Mrs. Exton was notified he had been picked up by a family from the Craigflower reserve early Sunday on the Johnson Street Bridge: "He'll never get out of my sight again," said Nicky's grateful mistress.

'Must Be Enforced,' Committee Reports

A special committee of the B.C. legislature has advocated that Canada establish a 12-mile fishing limit off its coasts and be prepared to enforce it.

The report of the special committee on fisheries was filed unread with the House.

The committee met with union, employer and other fishing groups during the sitting of the legislature that was to prorogue today.

The report said the present three-mile limit is inadequate for the protection of Canadian fisheries.

It asked that Canada take unilateral action to establish a headland to headland baseline along its shoreline as recommended by Canada and the United States in the 1960 United Nations conference of law of the sea.

While recognizing the historic fishing rights of the U.S. within the fishing limit, the committee recommended that Canada "declare exclusive fishin rights for a distance of 12 miles of that baseline."

ENFORCE THEM

It added Canada must be "prepared to enforce such measures.'

The committee recommended its report be forwarded to the federal government.

The report also suggested:

The federal government give consideration to receiving representations from all segments of the B.C. fishing industry prior to ratification of proposed amendments to the International North Pacific Fisheries Convention;

An immediate research program to ascertain the future effect of a Japanese herring fishery off the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands on B.C. herring quotas and immature salmon stocks.

It requested a report from Conservation Minister Westwood on the jurisdictional and administrative management of B.C. commercial fisheries and major problems associated with this management on spawning streams.

FIRST TIME

It is believed to be the first time that any committee of the B.C. legislature has taken such a strong stand on the 12-mile limit.

Several countries have unilaterally established such a limit, including Iceland, which clashed with Britain over the matter.

The report said: "All sections of the industry expressed grave doubt that commercial fishing on the high seas was in the best interests of proper conservation and the principal of sustained annual productivity."

GREATEST WORRY

It noted that "all countries had a vested interest in those fish originating within their respective territorial waters."

The committee's greatest concern was the Japanese high seas fishery. An amendment to the three-country North Pacific Treaty would permit Japan to fish for halibut in the Bering Sea and for herring off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

B.C. fishing industry officials expressed concern that herring fishermen would catch immature salmon, dessimating B.C.'s crop.

The U.S. and Japan have ratified the amendment but Canada has not.

'SAT ON' 30 YEARS

Buried Shell Came Back To Haunt Him

For about 30 years George Graham worked in his office above a live, foot-long shell and never worried about it.

He almost forgot it was even there — buried in the ground below Evans, Coleman and Evans brickyard.

Then on Tuesday he remembered. And at the same time it suddenly occurred to him that the old brickyard is now being cleared to make room for the Mayfair Shopping Centre on Douglas and Tolmie.

He immediately raised an alarm because he was afraid that blasting or digging operations on the site would explode it.

AREA CLEARED

This morning the area within 200 yards of where the bomb is located was cleared of all workmen. A bomb disposal detachment from the RCN diving establishment began cautiously working to uncover the shell.

Said Lt.-Cmdr. A. W. Rowse: "Even if it's an old shell it could still explode. The older they get, the worse condition they get into."

Mr. Graham, who lives at 3127 Irma, said that brickyard workers found the shell and he first saw it when they were trying to take it apart.

He was afraid of the damage they might do so he ordered it buried under the foundations of his office, which was then under construction. He figured it would be safe there.

At one time the site of the brickyard had been used as a firing range by the Imperial forces during the First World War. Mr. Graham said the shell was discovered around 1929.

The Legislature Tuesday night gave third and final reading to a bill setting up Victoria College as a university.

The university bill, and another allowing establishment of junior colleges across the province, will become law when given royal assent later today.

Complaint Against Former Minister To Be Investigated

Recreation Minister Westwood said in the Legislature today he would investigate a report that offensive remarks were made by a British Columbia tourist official during a government-sponsored tour of California.

"If it occurred it is most unfortunate," he said.

He was commenting on a demand by Leo Nimsick (NDP-Cranbrook) for the recall of Newton Steacy, former agriculture minister now in charge of the B.C. tourist office in San Francisco.

THE ELECTION TRAIL

Lunch in Calgary, Speech in Victoria

Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich politicians of all parties are giving their constituents a breathing space tonight. There are no public meetings scheduled.

Final major election rally in Victoria will be held Friday when Liberal National Leader Lester B. Pearson speaks at Royal Theatre at 8 p.m.

Tonight he is in Regina, Thursday in Edmonton. He will lunch in Calgary the same day he comes here.

On Saturday, after a luncheon, Mr. Pearson's hectic pace slows for a private weekend rest near Horseshoe Bay.

On Monday he will speak at Vancouver before heading east for the last week of the campaigning. He finishes in Ottawa the Saturday preceding the April 8 election.

B.C. Liberal campaign chairman Hugh Martin Monday predicted his party will gain from all three opposing parties in the April 8 election, in B.C.

Candidates include seven lawyers and six businessmen. Eight of the 22 are running for the first time. There is an industrial firefighter, a housebuilder, a farmer, an economist, a journalist and a mine foreman. Average age is 46 and the youngest 31.

Victoria branch Voice of Women doesn't want to get tarred with the brush being used locally to deface buildings and monuments with "No Nucelar Arms" signs.

Mrs. Mira V. Yardwood, president, writes that while her group opposes nuclear arms, it also deplores the defacing of public or private property.

"Acts of this kind are entirely against our policy and in very bad taste," Mrs. Yarwood stated.

Reunion Planned

Victoria Ex-Telephone Operators' Club will hold its annual reunion dinner in the Yarrow Building Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Ask The Times

Q. Would you please tell me just what ties we have with Great Britain—are we a colony or are we completely independent of them? How come they select our governor-general? A.C.

A. Canada has ties with Britain through a common sovereign and membership in the Commonwealth of Nations. But Canada is not a colony of the United Kingdom; she has her own Queen—the same Queen who is Queen of England. Canada is completely independent of England except in changing her constitution. Any amendment to Canada's constitution must go through the British parliament, which wrote Canada's constitution in the B.N.A. Act of 1867.

The reason the Queen selects the governor-general is because he is her representative in Canada. Usually a man is recommended for the position by the Canadian government, pending approval of the Queen.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Friday Meeting Thrown Open To All Horsemen

He promises an informative as well as an entertaining evening.

Among speakers will be the husband and wife veterinarian team of Drs. William and Barbara Powell of Island View Road, Saanich. They will speak on horse management and horsemanship.

There will be reports, also, of activities of various horse clubs of the district.

And a series of motion pictures will be shown including a study of the gaits of horses in slow motion, the raising and training of thoroughbreds, and life on a working cattle ranch in the Nicola Valley of British Columbia.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

$661,000 Sliced From Budget

Total preliminary slices of some $661,000 had been reached in city estimates by press time today as works committee strove to cut down a proposed $1,200,000 budget increase to size.

Mayor R. B. Wilson repeated suggestions that the time has come for the city to finance needed capital improvements through package borrowing bylaws put to the people.

He also suggested that the multi-million-dollar proposed urban renewal program should be put to a ratepayer vote in view of its size.

Mayor Wilson pointed out that serious consideration must be given to whether the city can afford to try paying for all its needed projects out of current revenues.

"Can we afford to pay for all these things at one time?" he asked.

A capital budget—involving borrowing—could spread out the financing period for necessary projects and was particularly attractive because of the city's unique position that its present funded debt will be liquidated in 1975.

He pointed out this meant that in a single stroke, the city would have $700,000 more annually at present tax levels.

Largely on the basis that a proposed capital budget will be drawn up for presentation to city council, the committee made substantial cuts in urban renewal and special public works votes.

Request for $100,000 to be put into the urban renewal fund was cut back to the $50,000 amount set in 1962 but the mayor indicated that even with this stretching out of the financing period he thought a vote by ratepayers on the overall project should be considered.

Other items referred to the suggested capital budget include the $140,000 Clover Point sewer outfall extension, $36,000 for replacement of two bridges at Clawthorpe and Doncaster and $54,000 for extending the Bowker Creek covering program.

Questioned Drugs on Sale In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Douglas Denholm, registrar of the British Columbia Pharmaceutical Association, said today two drugs—the safety of which has been questioned in Britain—are on sale in B.C.

He identified them as marzine, used to treat travel sickness, and imipramine, an anti-depression pill. Imipramine can be obtained only on prescription, but marzine is available without prescription.

Ships Collide In English Channel

DOVER, England (AP) — The American freighter Mormaclake was in collision in the mist-shrouded English Channel tonight with the Spanish ship Conquistador. No casualties were reported.

The 2,036-ton Conquistador radioed that its first and second holds were flooded and requested tugs for help to port.

The 9,314-ton Mormaclake, owned by the Moore-MacCormack Lines, said its bow was holed but it was proceeding to the nearest port.

ROAD PROBE CONTINUES

House Rises This Afternoon

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Prorogation of the legislature was timed for mid-afternoon today, but not all its business is over.

Premier Bennett and Opposition leader Robert Strachan said they expected the session to end between 3 and 4 p.m.

But 13 MLAs will work on as members of a special board of inquiry into allegations of highway graft.

After giving royal assent to 70 bills, and officially closing the legislature, Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes was due to go to Vancouver with Premier Bennett to meet the Queen.

Her aircraft will stop for refuelling on the way from Australia to England.

The legislature sat this morning to wind up its affairs.

No luncheon adjournment was called and MLAs went out in teams to eat.

Those who remained in the House debated the estimates of Recreation and Transport Minister Earle Westwood.

There were also 24 resolutions to be handled, some of them controversial, including the call for a royal commission into gasoline prices by Omineca Socred Cyril Shelford.

45 DAYS

The session lasted 45 days, the same as in 1962, which was the longest in 42 years.

There were only eight night sittings, but the public accounts committee, now turned into a board of inquiry, sat seven nights on its investigation of the highway charges.

This was the major issue of the session—and the only explosive one in a relatively mild and peaceful eight weeks.

It charged that a contracting company was paid $135,000 for work never done, that the organist in Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi's church was paid $350 a month by the firm, and that Mr. Gaglardi prevailed upon one of the company officers to pay off a mortgage for a friend in return for future favors.

MEETS THURSDAY

The board of inquiry will carry on its sittings as long as it wants.

It meets again Thursday morning.

There are still a number of witnesses to be heard.

The only other issue to excite the House was higher education following publication of a special report by University of B.C. President Dr. John Macdonald.

It resulted in some harsh words, particularly from the Liberals, about government aid to universities.

But it also resulted in legislation establishing Victoria College as a university, setting up a completely new Simon Fraser University, and allowing establishment of two-year junior colleges anywhere in the province.

As for more money—the new universities act says that the premier and Education Minister Leslie Peterson can this year authorize extra ex-

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

Back of Mr. Speaker's baronial chair at the head of our House is a small, square trapdoor which opens into the press gallery. It has been proposed that one day we force this door, snatch parliament's watchdog through in his black robes and tricorn hat, and hold him hostage until we have assurance of better working quarters than the cramped and narrow barracoon in which newsmen ply their trade.

This tactic might backfire, though, since the press has no official existence in parliament, and Mr. Speaker holds awesome powers. Next to the premier who chooses him from the government ranks, he is the most important person in our House.

The other day I called on Mr. Speaker—since 1958 the Honorable Lorne Hugh Shantz—to learn about his tradition-encrusted role in the Legislative Assembly.

A Farmer by Love

Out from under the tricorn, Mr. Shantz is a pleasant-spoken man of 43, his hair scant but his face, even after the eight-week session, still weathered by the outdoors. North Okanagan is his riding and Vernon his town. There he is investment counsellor, real estate operator and notary public. On his farm he raises fine horses and purebred cattle, a hobby which one day may become a vocation.

A Speaker of our House, he administers a $450,000 budget and directs a staff of 65. Legislative Chamber, corridors, galleries and parliamentary dining room are all in his domain, and his functionaries include the sergeant-at-arms and corps of attendants.

But his prime task is what

'THE TURN IS TOWARD US'

Ability as a speaker was demonstrated here Tuesday by Socred Leader Robert Thompson. He received a standing ovation from at least 80 per cent of the 1,100 who attended his speech. He left immediately after the meeting for Calgary. Premier Bennett hailed him as the next prime minister. (Strickland photos)

CROWD NEARLY TRIPLED FOR LEADER

'Surprises Again' Thompson Predicts

By PETE LOUDON

National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson drew a crowd of 1,100 Tuesday night in Victoria where he attracted only 400 in a federal election meeting last May.

And in the same Central Junior High School auditorium where he made some accurate predictions last May 31, he predicted:

"You are going to be surprised again."

Last year he said his party would take 18 to 30 seats in Quebec. (The Socreds won 26 in Quebec, 30 across Canada.)

On Tuesday he said: "If the bumbling of the Liberal backroom boys continues, we are going to take practically all the seats (in Quebec)."

"You are going to find that the tremendous, undetermined vote is going to turn day by day toward us.

"We have as good a chance of forming the next government after April 8, as any party has," he said.

Mr. Thompson said his party is going to form the government of Canada "a lot sooner than many think."

Two other predictions he made in Victoria last May were borne out after the June 8 election — he had forecast another general election within a year.

And he had forecast that in the 25th (last) Parliament, the Socreds would hold the balance of power.

Business First

On Tuesday he forecast that Canada, because of a loss of faith in Tory and Liberal governments, is looking for a new government which would put the business of the country ahead of political expediency.

He said in 1957 Canada fired the Liberal regime for "messing things up" and in 1963, when it fires the Conservatives, Canada won't strongly favor re-hiring the Liberals.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett was more optimistic than Mr. Thompson. The premier said Social Credit was the only united party and on April 8, Mr. Thompson would become the next prime minister.

Other speakers, Victoria candidate Ald. M. H. Mooney and Esquimalt-Saanich candidate Edward Lum, meeting chairman and Young Socreds national president Dr. Charles Ennals, B.C. Works Minister W. N. Chant and Esquimalt Socred MLA Herbert Bruch, were each as optimistic.

Even Victoria soprano, Mrs. Myrna Jenkins, who sang three solos, appeared to inject rally enthusiasm in songs, Come To the Fair, You'll Never Walk Alone and Bless This House.

Problem Here

Mr. Thompson nodded agreement with Mr. Chant, who said Victoria has a problem in this election. The Tory party is split on the nuclear arms question and the Liberals "have two candidates running." The only

Badly Damaged In Cuban Port

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Russian freighter was attacked and damaged severely by anti-Castro forces Tuesday night in the Suban sugar port of Isabela de Sague, the Miami News said tonight.

A spokesman for Commando L, an anti-Castro action organization, told the News the freighter is still afloat, but badly in need of repair to keep it from sinking.

A raiding party carried out the attack, then returned safely and without casualties to its base "somewhere in the Caribbean," the spokesman said.

Russ Protest 'Pirate Affair'

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union today protested to the United States embassy here against a "pirate attack" on a Soviet merchant ship in the Caribbean sea March 17.

A protest note sent to the United States embassy charged that Cuban "counter-revolutionaries" approached the merchant ship Lgov from the sea on a cutter and fired several bursts at the ship from a heavy calibre machine-gun.

The note said the Soviet government expects "resolute steps will be taken by the United States government not to allow similar provocative actions in future."

Without the support of the United States and the supply of American weapons and vessels the group of "traitors to the Cuban people, sheltering on United States territory, could not engage in such provocations."

The note said the United States was in fact leading the matter up to a dangerous exacerbation of the situation in the Caribbean Sea area and in the whole world.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department denied today Russia's charge that the U.S. government is responsible for a recent attack on a Soviet freighter in a Cuban port.

Even before the Kremlin protest had been received officially here, state department press officer Lincoln White referred reports to earlier U.S. condemnations of the March 17 raid by anti-Castro Cuban exiles.

Pearson Disputes John D.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Liberal leader Pearson produced Tuesday a series of quotations from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent public statements on defence and branded them all as "misleading and inaccurate."

In a 900-word statement, Mr. Pearson undertook to prove his point by matching the Diefenbaker quotations against "the facts from other sources" including statements by the three cabinet ministers who resigned, NORAD, the U.S. state department and others.

Party officials said later the Diefenbaker quotations were taken from tape recordings of his campaign speeches, but declined to say who made the recordings. The statement was issued to reporters en route by plane and bus to Belleville.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in a Halifax speech March 15 that "we have no commitments that we have not discharged."

QUOTES HARKNESS

Mr. Pearson's statement then quoted former defence minister Harkness as saying the government has accepted a commitment and if it is to be met, "the accepted armament" must be obtained for the CF-104. Former trade minister Hees was quoted as saying "our present defence policy does not either fulfil our commitments or provide for the security of our country."

A key point in Mr. Pearson's statement dealt with nuclear warheads for weapons in Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker was quoted as saying in Winnipeg March 4: "Insofar as our bombers are concerned, we have negotiated and have been successful so that if war comes there will be available and accessible atomic warheads for the Voodoo in Canada."

Then followed the U.S. state department statement of Jan. 30 saying that the question of nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile and "for other nuclear-capable weapons systems acquired by Canada has been the subject of inconclusive discussions between the two governments."

State Secretary Rusk was quoted as saying March 11 that Canada-U.S. negotiations on nuclear weapons "are con-

PM Denies 'Secret U.S. Document'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today repudiated as "completely false" a Southam News Service report that he is carrying a secret United States document that is the "root cause of much of his bitterness" toward the States.

The denial was published by the Winnipeg Tribune, a Southam newspaper, together with the report, written by Charles Lynch from Ottawa. The denial came from Kelowna, B.C., where Mr. Diefenbaker addressed a meeting Tuesday.

Lynch writes that the document, marked secret, is a White House working paper brought to Ottawa by President Kennedy's party in May, 1961.

It was prepared, Lynch writes, by presidential advisor Walt Rostow as a guide for the president in his talks with Mr. Diefenbaker and in his speech to the Canadian Parliament May 17, 1961.

The story says Mr. Diefenbaker has had the document for almost two years and the U.S. state department press release taking issue with his defence policy speech in the Commons earlier this year "caused him to retrieve the document and threaten to make it public."

However, it says, the prime minister "accepted the pressures brought upon him within

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

KELOWNA, B.C. — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday again hit back at U.S. suggestions that Canada was not doing enough in foreign aid.

"I am not here to take any lectures from anyone on what Canada has done on assistance," he told an election rally audience of about 1,000.

He admitted that Canada's contribution to Colombo Plan aid had been reduced last year from $50 million to $41 million, but declared that it was still "a great deal more than it was when we took office."

Another foreign aid field in which Canada had played a major part, he said, was in seeking to feed the world's hungry. Mr. Diefenbaker said he had proposed a world food bank which originally was not accepted.

"They said it wouldn't work," he said. "But we asked it in the United Nations."

It was approved and Canada was making her contribution—"I think it is $10 million, as a starter."

In his 80-minute speech Mr. Diefenbaker was seeking to hold and gain Conservative votes in the Okanagan Valley—which elected two Conservative MPs in the last election.

He was campaigning Tuesday night in the home town of B.C. Social Credit Premier W. A. C. Bennett. While he didn't mention Mr. Bennett by name, he fired a few barbs in the premier's direction, and in the direction of the national Social Credit policy.

He accused the B.C. government of holding up Columbia River development — a project "we are most anxious to proceed with."

He also said his government was not being given enough credit for its 75 per cent contributions towards the cost of vocational schools.

"Some of the provincial premiers take the credit—and I have nobody in mind," he said with a smile which suggested he did have a certain premier in mind.

Another area in which Ottawa should get more credit, he suggested, was in its contributions towards the cost of Trans-Canada Highway construction, built in co-operation with the provinces.

"We completed the Trans-Canada," he said, "and I don't think we got very much credit for that."

In attacking Social Credit,

Disillusionment Found Among Manitoba Voters

This is one of a series of studies of the Canadian General Election. It is compiled by a Montreal-born social scientist and is sponsored jointly by The Montreal Star and the University of Rochester.

By S. PETER REGENSTREIF

WINNIPEG — Support is slowly slipping away from the Conservatives in Manitoba. The absence of leadership, economic questions and the unstable situation are the issues here.

What is of almost equal importance, however, is that the entire atmosphere of the province is one of considerable disillusionment with the state of Canadian national politics.

A St. James salesman in the constituency of Winnipeg South Centre expressed his unhappiness in this way:

"None of them are proper leaders. Maybe between now and April 8 someone will say something sane. Not nuclear arms and not promising one hundred bucks for everyone at age 52 or some other nonsense. We are going to have another fouled-up government. No one has the guts to form a coalition. We've got politicians—not statesmen."

Out of the province's 14

Plane Survivor Will Lose Toes

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Two Americans, forgotten by the world after disappearing in Canada's northern wilderness, today faced the glare of world publicity.

Ralph Flores, 42, of San Bruno, Calif., and Helen Klaben, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., now look forward to seeing relatives they haven't seen in weeks.

Both fell under constant questioning from newspapermen Monday and Tuesday. So hectic were the sessions that a Tuesday night conference was cancelled to give them more time to themselves and a chance to rest.

Dr. Nesta James said both had rested well and had gone to sleep peacefully Tuesday night.

The girl's toes on her right foot also were frostbitten and will be amputated in an operation here. No date has been set for the operation but Miss Klaben's brother flies to Whitehorse from New York today.

The heavy questioning by newspapermen placed both under heavy strain Tuesday.

Both she and Flores plan to write books about their experiences.

RECORD BUDGET

Mr. Bennett presented a record budget of $372,705,575, and also legislation removing tolls from five bridges.

He boosted the homeowner grant from $50 to $70, also providing for further $15 increases next year and in 1965.

The 5 per cent amusement tax was also abolished.

Mr. Shelford's campaign against the big oil companies was a lively personal issue, and it precipitated a gas price war in Victoria which is still going on.

the cabinet to keep the document secret."

On details of the document, Lynch writes:

"According to these reports, the document advised the president that Canada should 'be pushed' to accept nuclear weapons under joint control; to join the OAS (Organization of American States); to decrease her trade with Communist China and Cuba, and to ratify the Columbia River treaty.

"Possible pressures to be brought to bear in achieving these objectives were the threat of cuts in U.S. defence production sharing, and the possibilities of quotas or increased tariffs against Canadian gas and oil, lead and zinc, and timber products entering the U.S. market."

Strikes Still Plague France

CP from AP-Reuters

PARIS—Social discontent continued high in France today with no end in sight to the strikes and riots plaguing President de Gaulle's government.

Rail workers staged a series of two - hour strikes that disrupted commuter and long-distance train travel on the nationalized lines.

There were no signs of a break in the country's major labor dispute—the 27-day strike of 240,000 coal miners.

. . . MAYSE

he terms his 'quasi-judicial' role as judge between right and wrong when the frequently-argumentive legislators take their seats in the chamber.

For Protection

This post, the member appointed accepts with stylized reluctance. Originally, he was a noble chosen by the king to speak for him to the hothead barons of the realm. Since the message was usually a demand for soldiers and money, speaker mortality ran high, even though the king's mouthpiece was given a sergeant-at-arms with a studded warclub—our shiny mace with its symbolic crown—to protect him.

"So when Mr. Bennett took me by one arm and the leader of the Opposition by the other," Mr. Shantz recalls, "I put up quite a convincing struggle. I held back, dug in my heels as they tugged me toward the speaker's chair, and announced repeatedly, 'I am unwilling!'

"Actually, I'd hoped for the appointment, and studied for it. As deputy speaker in 1953, I'd gained some experience."

Mr. Shantz added, smiling, "It's still a thankless job. one can't criticize the Speaker, but his ruling may be challenged, in which case I must immediately put it to a vote of the House."

To Be Named

Only Mr. Speaker may address a member by name on the legislative floor. To be 'named' means that the lawmaker in question has offended very seriously against parliamentary rules or decorum. Out he goes, under escort, expelled for a sitting or even a session.

From king's representative, the Speaker through the centuries became parliament's champion. The transition was completed when Charles I broke through barred doors of the House of Commons with armed men to inquire into the legislators' doings.

"Sir," Mr. Speaker is credited with replying, "I have neither eyes to see nor ears to hear what parliament has done this day."

VOLCANO TOLL LESS BUT BALI DEVASTATED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) — Governor of the volcano-scorched island of Bali, A. B. Sutedja, said today the death toll from the week-old eruption of Mount Agung is nearly 1,500 and climbing, but is nowhere near the 11,000 deaths reported Tuesday by a Red Cross official.

Sutedja told a press conference one-fifth of the "paradise island" has been destroyed by hot mud and lava, and 75,000 persons need immediate help.

The governor said 3,000 persons in the village of Amed in the southeast coast still could not be rescued because the area was surrounded by boiling lava, and aid could only reach them from the sea.
